SPAIN TORN BY REVOLT OF SOLDIERY

"Red Militia" Rides Madrid Streets BRITISH WARSHIPS IN READINESS TO ACT

Madrid, July 19.

The situation in Spain, and in the capital itself, remains critical. Many soldiers have taken advantage of the Government's offer to allow them to abandon their regiments if they do not sympathise with their officers and hundreds have offered their services to the Government.

The authorities in Madrid have armed a mob, and taxicabs loaded with these "Red Militia" men, armed with rifles, revolvers and daggers are to be seen in the streets.

Several lorry loads of miners from the North-west of Spain arrived in Madrid to-day and placed themselves at the disposal of the authorities.

The rebels, however, are in possession of the broadcasting station and telephone exchange in Seville, though the Government claims to have the situation well in hand there, and elsewhere throughout the country.

The naval forces have sided with the Government.—Reuter.

British Apprehension

Gibraltar, July 19.
Two British destroyers here have been ordered to stand by in case it is found necessary to evacuate British nationals from Spain.

More gunboats, carrying rebel troops have arrived at Algeiras from Algeria.

Mob law rules in Ladin, Galicia, the crowd burning cars and houses belonging to Fascists.—Reuter.

Madrid, July 19.
The Government continues to claim that the revolt, which began in Morocco and admittedly spread to many parts of Spain, has been overcome. The Cabinet, headed by Senor Quiroga, resigned early this morning when it was announced that Senor Diego Barrios, president of the Cortes, had formed a new government. However, it was subsequently reported that Senor Jose Giral, former Minister of the Navy, would become Prime Minister.

The new Cabinet is apparently similar in complexion to the last. For instance, Senor Barrios, Foreign Minister in the last government, will become Minister of the Interior.

Firing in Madrid

It is officially stated that there has been no firing in Madrid, but desultory shooting has been in progress for some time. A communique states the rebels attacked the prison in Barcelona, but were repulsed with the aid of Air Force machines.

Two loyal regiments are said to have attacked Cadix, where the Governor is besieged in his palace.—Reuter.

English Woman Hurt

Gibraltar, July 19.
An English woman, Mrs. P. E. Howler, was wounded in the shoulder when rioters fired at and wrecked her car as she was returning to Gibraltar from Algeiras last night.—Reuter.

Three Premiers

Madrid, July 19.
The confusion in Spain is exemplified by the fact that three premiers have held office in the past fifteen hours.

The new Cabinet formed by Senor Giral includes General Pozas as Minister of the Interior, instead of Senor Barrios.

At a Cabinet meeting last night, two non-members attended. They were the Left leaders, Senor Prieto and Senor Caballero, who offered to collaborate with the Government for the purpose of suppressing the revolt.

The Minister of the Interior announced over the radio this afternoon that arms would be distributed to the villagers who wished to organise against the rebels.

He added that the rebels at Melilla had been routed and those at Barcelona and Malaga had surrendered. He denied that any forces were marching on Madrid.—Reuter.

BRITAIN TO PLAY CHINA XI

FIRST ROUND OF OLYMPIC GAMES JAPAN MEETS SWEDEN

Berlin, July 19.

Britain has been drawn to meet China in the first round of the football section of the Olympic Games. In the same round, Japan will meet Sweden.—Reuter.

China, as one of the youngest and most inexperienced of participants in international sporting contests, is also one of the unlikeliest. In the football section, she has always drawn powerful countries in the first round, and now comes the news that her football team has been drawn against Britain in the first round of the World Olympic tournament.

It is a bitter disappointment to Chinese hopes of making something of a showing in football at Berlin. It means that, barring a miracle, she cannot consider the possibility of surviving.

Curiously enough, it was only at the last minute Britain decided to compete. Hitherto she has fought shy of the World Olympics football tournament.

BRITAIN A FAVOURITE

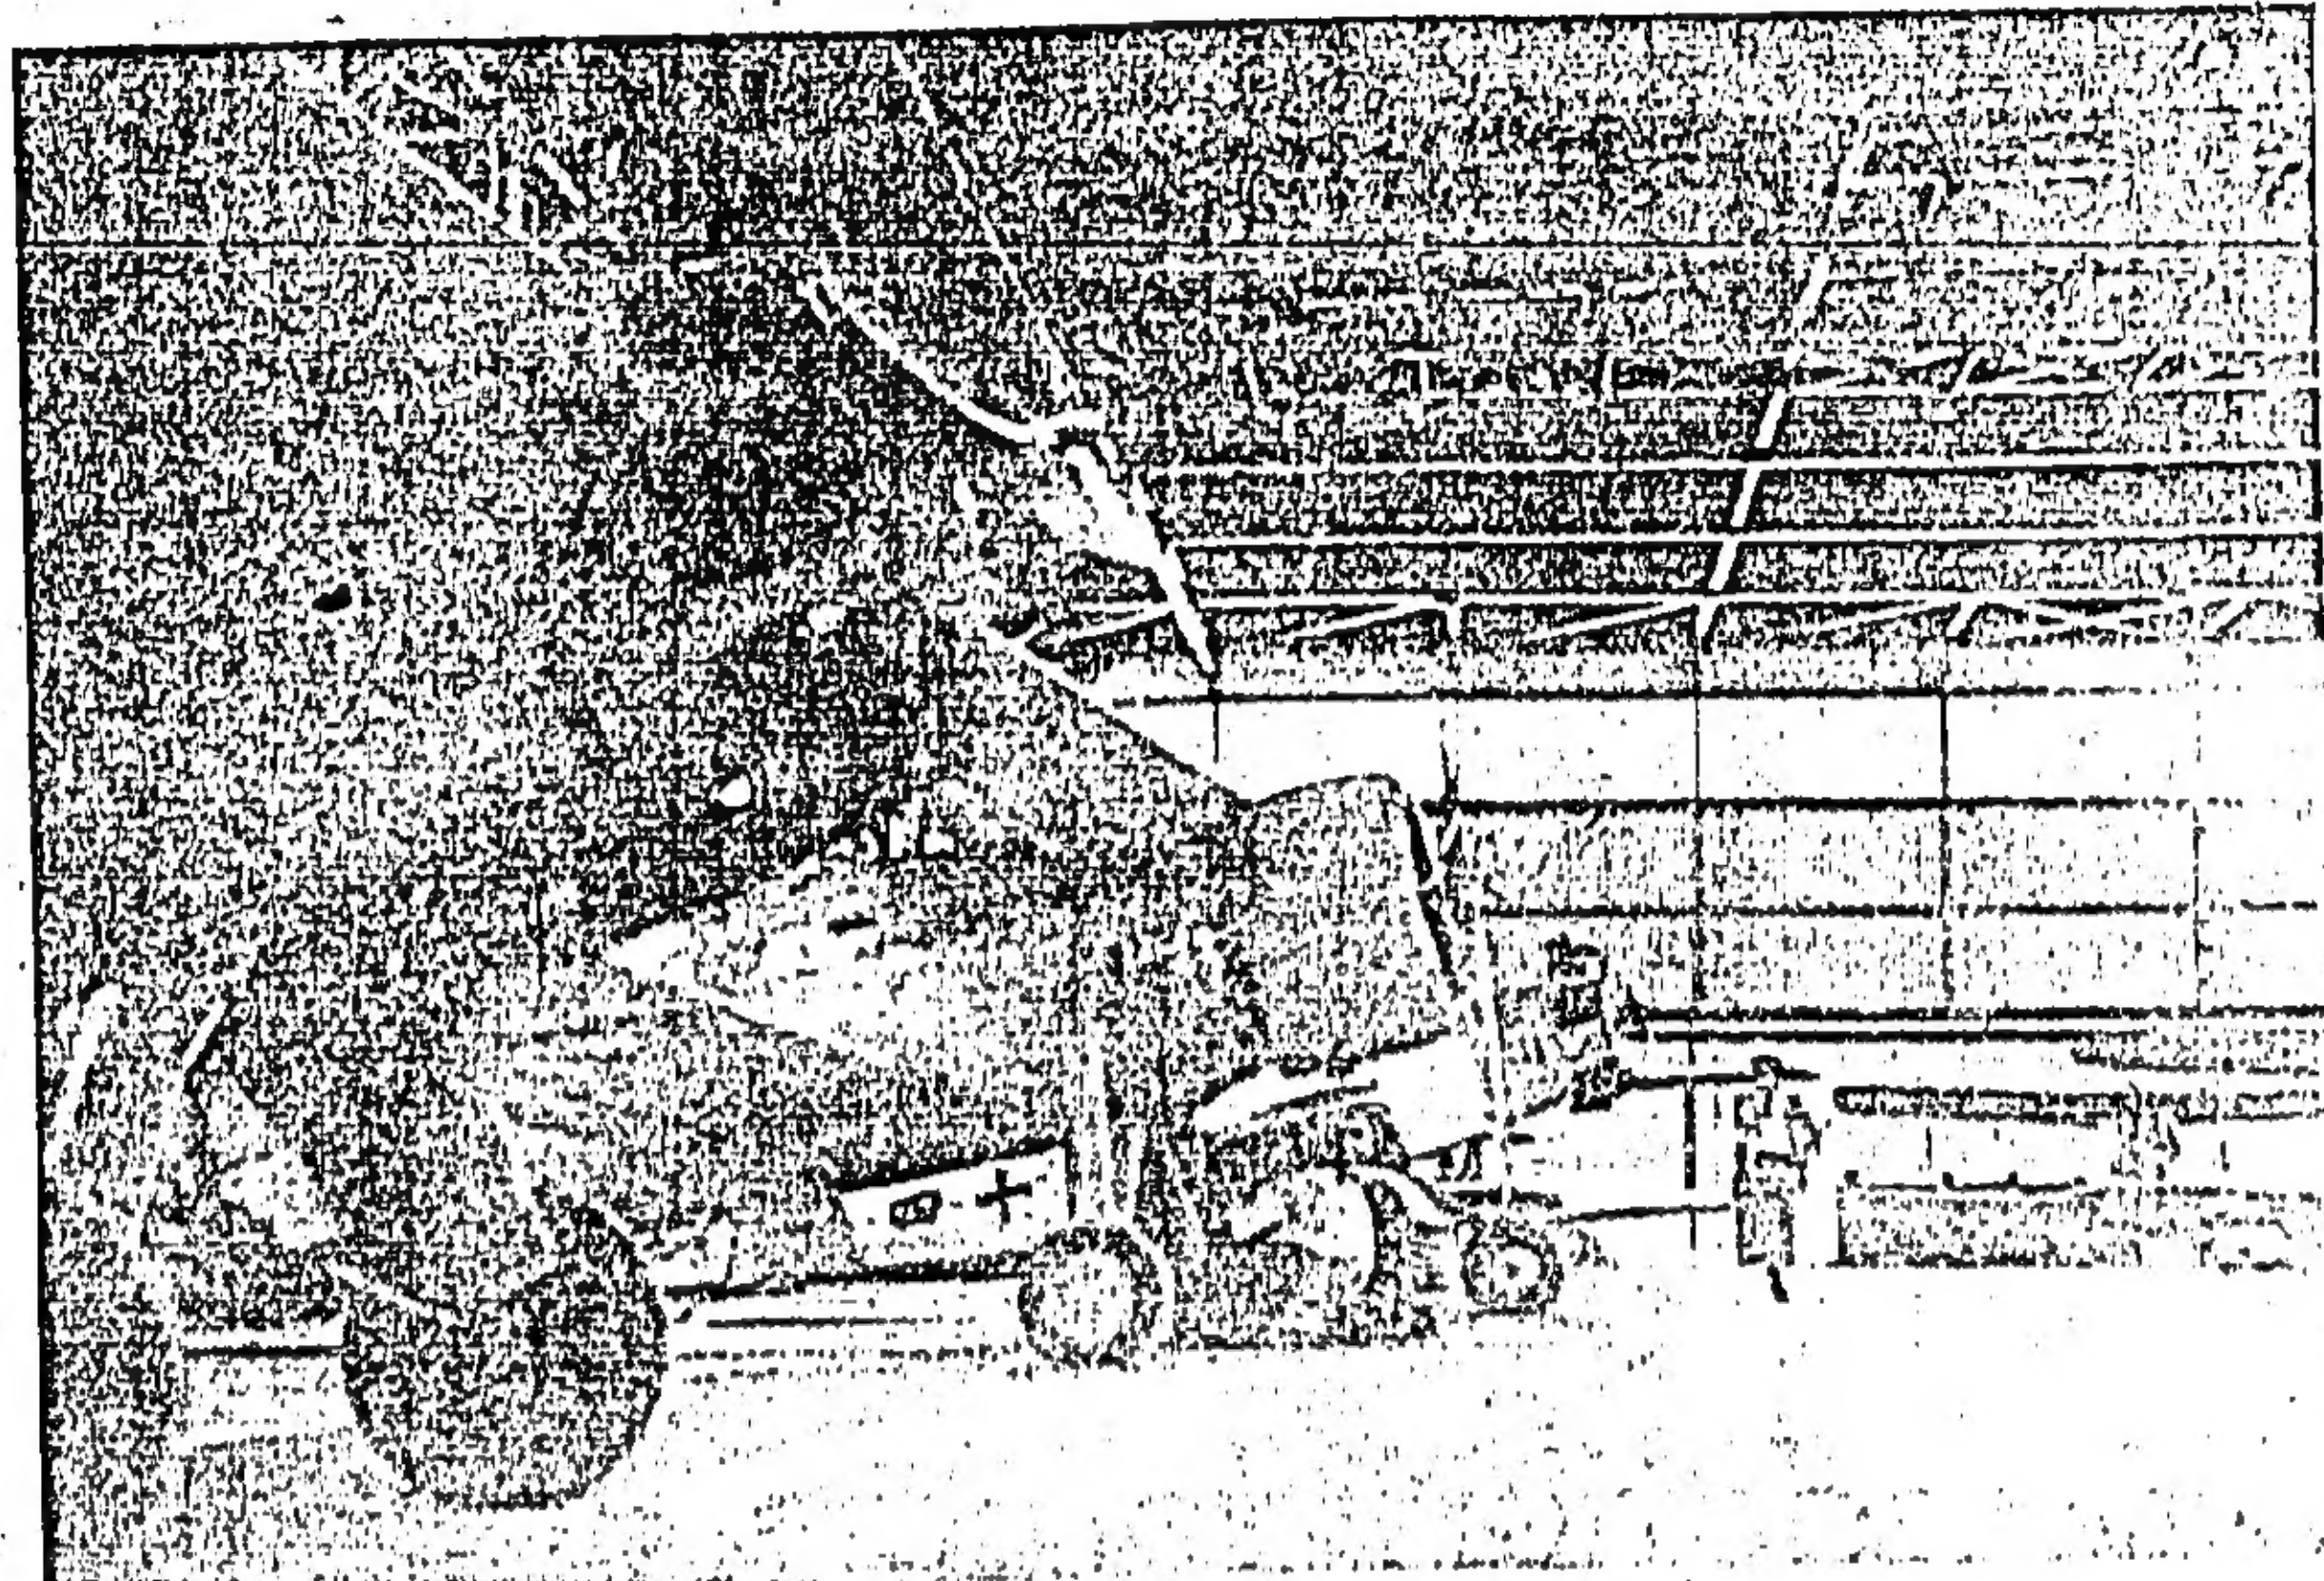

China therefore meets one of the favourites. Britain will be in a position to turn out a brilliant team of amateurs. In 1934-35 England won the Amateur International Championship, but last season she was defeated by Scotland.

Some of England's leading amateur players, who are bound to be considered for Berlin are H. C. Hill of Yorkshire Amateurs, A. W. Loveday of Leyton, G. S. Burdett of Bromford, L. C. S. Eastham of the Army, B. J. of the Casuals, T. B. Leck (Moor Green), W. Parr (Blackpool), E. D. R. Sherrin (Casuals), W. Charlton (Wimbledon), L. C. Thornton (Kingstonian) and L. C. Finch (Barnet).

China's misfortune in the draw is emphasised by the fact that Japan has drawn Sweden. To have met either of these countries would have given China an excellent chance of advancing into another round. Her team is probably a bit better than Japan's and very nearly as good as Sweden's.

Lee Wai-tong, hoped China would oppose Sweden as he felt this would be the most advantageous draw for China.

RUN-AWAY PLANES IN H.K.

These four Canton planes were among the sixty-odd which deserted to Nanking Saturday. One of them brought General K. Y. Wong, Air force commander, here. They are being detained by the local authorities.—Staff Photographer.

"SPAIN SAVED" Revolt Leader Optimistic MARCHING ON MADRID

Lisbon, July 19.

General Delano, commanding the garrison forces in Seville, and who has joined the revolt, has broadcast a message from General Franco, the leader of the rebellion who disembarked at Cadix to-day with troops of the Moroccan Foreign Legion. These men are amongst the finest in the Spanish army.

General Franco's message was to the effect that all garrisons of Andalusia were gradually joining the movement, as was the Navy. "No earthly power can stop our triumphant movement," he declared. "Spain is saved!"

General Franco intimated that the rebels intend to march on Madrid.—Reuter Special.

Paris, July 19.

A message from Melilla declares that three Spanish warships sent against the insurgents have joined the rebels.

On the other hand the Moroccan correspondents of French newspapers confirm that squadrons of loyal aeroplanes, bombed Ceuta, Melilla, Larache and Tetuan.

Three machines which landed in French Morocco have been injured.—Reuter Special.

TETUAN BOMBED

Rabat, July 19.

A Spanish Government aeroplane to-day bombed Tetuan, killing twenty people, including three children.

The rebels at Tetuan have taken prisoner the acting High Commissioner, the Secretary-General, the Police Commissioner and fifty other officials.—Reuter.

TWO TYPHOONS LATEST MANILA REPORTS

The Manila Observatory, reporting at 9 a.m. to-day, gives the position of two typhoons.

One is situated in about Long. 111, Lat. 17, moving north-west. This position is in the region of the Paracels, and the disturbance is moving in the direction of the Gulf of Tonkin.

The other is situated in about 127 Long., 20 Lat., also moving north-west. This position is west of the Baining Channel.

China Turns To Her Past For Strength

"RENAISSANCE" OF 1911 A FAILURE U.S. EXPERT'S OPINION

Charlottesville, Va., July 19.

China's failure to stem Japanese aggression, the persistence of political and civil disorders and the marked failure to establish a republic have brought about a strong movement to return to old and conservative Chinese ways, Dr. Cyrus H. Peake told the annual Institute of Public Affairs here.

Dr. Peake, a professor in the Chinese department of Columbia University, said that the "Chinese Renaissance," which started with the 1911 revolution, attempted to modernise China along western lines. This, and the impact of Occidental civilisation, tore the Chinese away from their old moorings, but the reaction of the last four years shows that China has not broken with its past, and indeed a Confucian revival is now in progress with which the country's leaders hope to reunite a divided nation through the restoration of its faith and self-respect in ancient, highly developed civilisation.

For two decades, he said, Confucianism with its roots in the ancestor-worship, was seen as the great obstruction to the emancipation of the individual, the rise and progress of science and democracy and all the modern world calls progress. With the establishment of the Republic, the classics were gradually eliminated from the schools, Confucian temples fell into disrepair and the state-worship of Confucius ceased. In many a home ancestor-worship lapsed, and the young demanded and obtained the right to marry whom they chose and obtain a divorce if they wished. But, the speaker continued, "as a result of the marked failure to stem Japanese aggression and prevent the establishment of Manchukuo, the inevitable reaction set in 1931."

LEADING REVIVAL

"A government which, when it first came into power in 1927 ordered that Confucius' birthday be no longer observed, is now leading the way to a Confucian revival. Confucius' birthday is again a national holiday. In some schools the classics are again finding their way. General Chiang Kai-shek's 'New Life Movement,' launched in 1934, aims at the moral regeneration of the people by emphasising the traditional Confucian virtues of proper decorum, righteous conduct, honesty, and self-respect. A code of ninety-six articles was promulgated regulating individual and social conduct in accordance with Confucian tradition.

"Through this revival the leaders now in power hope to replace the negative type of — and foreign nationalism characteristic of the past decade — a nationalism, which para-

RACING DRIVER KILLED

DEAUVILLE GRAND PRIX TRAGEDY CAR BURSTS INTO FLAMES

Deauville, July 19.

The famous French racing driver, Marcel Lehoux, was killed during the Deauville Grand Prix to-day.

His British-built machine became locked with an Italian's, and burst into flames.

Lehoux's death was instantaneous. The Italian driver, Farina, in an Alfa-Romeo, fractured his leg.

The winner of the race was W. 1. Mille who won with an average speed of 78.51 miles per hour.—Reuter Special.

DEATH OF MR. F. C. GOODMAN

PASSES AWAY ON TRIP HOME

Many residents will learn with deep regret of the death of Mr. Fred C. Goodman, whilst on his way home. The sad news was received by cable last night.

The late Mr. Goodman left Hongkong, at very short notice, owing to serious illness, accompanied by his wife and daughter aboard the P. and O. liner Kavalpindi on June 27. He was originally in the service of the Naval Yard and later joined the engineering department of Kowloon Dock, remaining there for many years. Latterly, he rejoined the Naval Yard. A brother, Mr. R. J. Goodman, is Superintendent of Stores at the Kowloon Dock.

Much sympathy will be felt for the bereaved widow, family and other relatives in the loss they have suffered.

doxically enough had turned its back upon the historical and cultural traditions of the people by a nationalism that is more soundly rooted in the consciousness of their great past.

"It is generally recognised that China is not yet ready for democratic government of the type developed in the west. "Officials are more in harmony with a nationalisation of the world wherein a Hitler revives the glories of Valhalla, a Mussolini restores the greatness of the Roman empire, and the chauvinistic nationalists and militarists of Japan cling with greater zeal and devotion than ever to Emperor-worship and the myth of the descent of their people from the Sun-Goddess. Through revived respect and worship of these ancient gods the hand of the past still controls and guides the destinies of the living, in China as elsewhere."—United Press.

CANTON NEAR TO NORMAL

Canton, July 20.

Although there is martial law in Canton and the political situation is still confused, there appears to be more hope of a peaceful outcome. There have been no untoward incidents in Canton itself, though some authorities believe that the 30,000 Kwangsi troops in the close vicinity of the city may intend to attempt a coup and seize Canton.

Meanwhile, both Lin Yun-kai, the civil Governor of Kwangtung, and Liu Chi-wen, the Mayor of Canton, returned to the city this morning to resume their duties. They have come from Hongkong, where they had been for several days prior to the resignation and departure of General Chan Chai-tong.

Conditions in Canton city are at present returning to normal, from appearances.—Reuter and Special.

Chiang Kai-shek Coming

Canton, July 20.

It is reliably reported that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek himself will come to Canton on July 25 or 26.—United Press.

Report of Skirmishes

Shanghai, July 20.

Vernacular papers report skirmishing between Kwangsi and Kwangtung troops near Yintak, a little to the north of Canton.—United Press.

These Cantonese troops, of General Yu Han-mow's First Army, which turned against General Chan Chai-tong and were instructed to march to Canton and take control in the name of the Nanking Government, are now believed to be pressing southwards on this mission. Here they are seen near the South-sea capital, at Sham Shui, before their defection. Inact, General Yu.

CHINESE WARSHIPS IN COLONY

OFFICIALLY ON SOUTH CRUISE MAY GO TO CANTON

The cruiser Yat Sen, under instructions from Nanking, has joined the Central Government's gunboat, Tung Chi, in Hongkong.

The Naval authorities here state that the Chinese warships are in Hongkong in the course of "a southern cruise." The Yat Sen, which arrived to-day, put in for provisions and on account of the heavy weather.

However, unofficial sources suggest that the two warships, which will probably be joined by the cruiser Yung Kien, may proceed to Canton, possibly when General Yu Han-mow's troops are prepared to enter that city.

It is believed they are being held in readiness to act in the event of any disorders in Canton.

H.M.S. Moth has been ordered back to Canton. She left yesterday at 8 a.m.

Two cases of Typhoid were reported to the local Health authorities on Friday.

ST. LOUIS CLOSER TO CUBS

BEATS BOSTON IN DOUBLE-HEADER FULL CARD OF GAMES

New York, July 19.

By winning a double-header against Boston, St. Louis Cardinals again came almost abreast of the Chicago Cubs for the National League leadership, for the Cubs split a two-game engagement with Philadelphia.

St. Louis beat Boston, eight to one in the first engagement and eight to two in the second, scoring on nine hits to ten in the opener, and seventeen to four in the night-cap. Each had two errors in the first game and Boston committed two in the second. Chicago narrowly beat Philadelphia, two to one, in their opener, and were lucky to score the winning tally when the Phillies had out-hit them consistently. Phillies had thirteen and Chicago eight hits, but the Phillies also had three costly errors on their card.

In the second meeting Philadelphia won by four to one, on nine hits to four, the Cubs big guns being effectively silenced. Cubs had two errors.

New York and Cincinnati also divided honours. Giants won the first four to three, with fourteen hits to nine. Each had two errors. In the second the Reds turned the tables and won three to two on ten hits to six. Giants had an error.

Brooklyn defeated Pittsburgh four to two, though the Dodgers hit only eight to the Pirates' nine. Pirates had one error.

NEWS FOR Business Girls

HERE are two problems in business life for the serious-minded among you to solve.

One comes from a retired business woman who is finding her retirement lonely and irksome. The other is from a married woman who is frightened at the prospect of so many girls working in offices and ignoring the healthy calls of domesticity.

Too much Leisure

THE first had worked at her job for forty-six years and loved every day of it. Now she is bored. She does not like domestic work or needlework, and she is finding time hangs heavily on her hands.

This problem is one that our men colleagues have been facing for a long time—what to do with their lives when they retire from active mental work. Now business women are beginning to experience the same difficulty. If you have worked with your brain all your life you will not be able to give it up, and remain contented.

This difficulty is entering into the lives of younger business girls who marry. They find that housewifery, especially in Hongkong, does not occupy their brains sufficiently after the first novelty has worn off.

Home versus Office

THE second problem is one which does not as yet receive much attention in this Colony. Recently it has been taken up in Germany, where girls are encouraged to regard their homes as their career.

Sedentary life is extremely bad for women. Fortunately, the harm it does is partially offset by the modern urge towards beauty; the office worker is paying more attention every year to keeping her body in perfect condition.

New and interesting opening for women should be recorded immediately they are available; head mistresses of girls' schools should be given particulars of them every half-year. Business girls waste much time and happiness in monotonous jobs without realising the possibilities of more interesting ones.

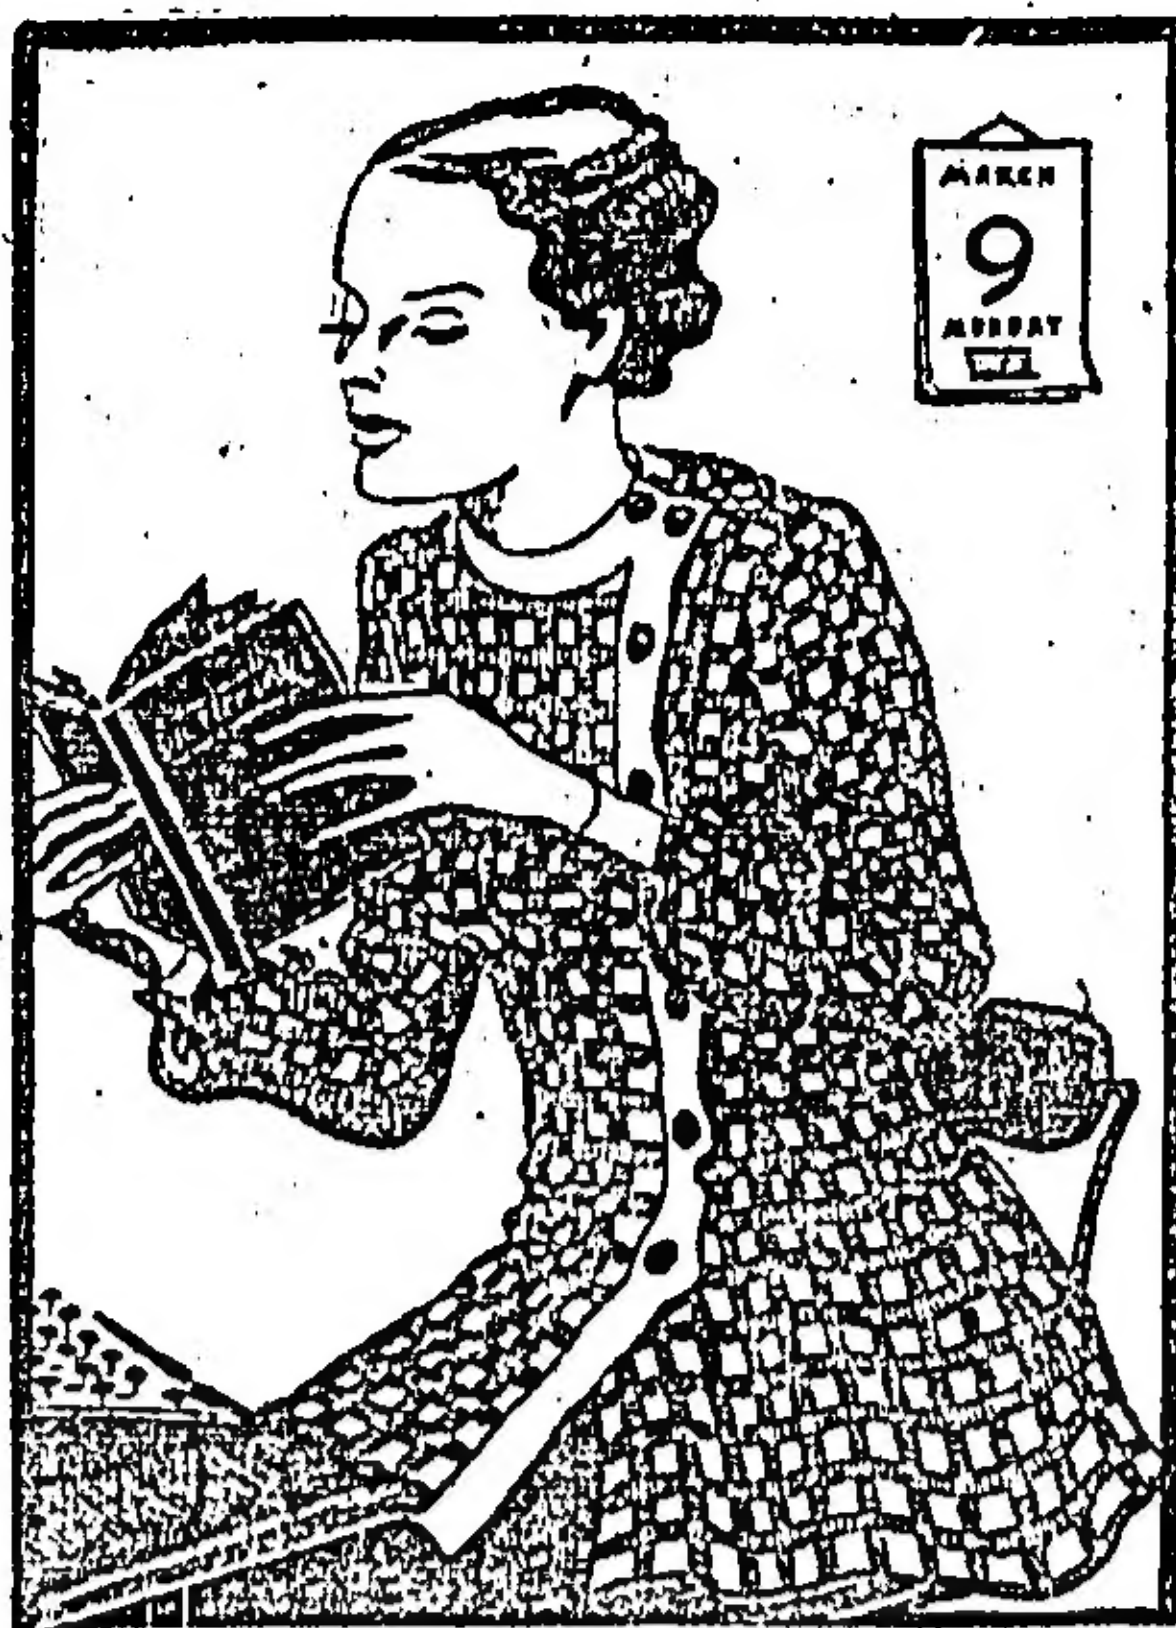

Cleaner Typewriters

HERE is a new way to keep your typewriter keys clean. A small hand roller with plastic material is run over the keys each morning. The dirt adheres to it and comes away from the keys leaving them spotless.

The same roller will clean stamp pads effectively. Cost is 5 s. and refills of plastic material is. Half a dozen of these rollers would stock quite a large office.

To save your Clothes

A GOOD idea for business girls who find that their dresses lose their shape in the office is to have two skirt parts made to every top. For weekday dresses, wear one at the office while sitting all day—the other you can button on for outdoor wear. If you make your office dresses yourself, the extra expense will not be severe.

Protect your Clothes

Here is an attractive overall to keep your dresses clean when you are in the office. It buttons all the way up the side, so can be slipped on easily over anything.

You can make it from three yards of material, cut out in one piece (sleeves separate).

Questions for Housewives

1. Of what is the best pastry board made?
2. How do you deal with a larder that is inclined to be damp?
3. What is a vegetable charlotte, and how would you make it?
4. Name the piece of furniture which like human beings, is subject to chills.
5. What is the marmalade maker's best friend and where do you find it?
6. Which is the best way to roast potatoes?

Here are the answers:

1. The best pastry "board" is a slab of marble. This keeps the pastry cool and is very easy to clean. 2. Place a jar of lime in your larder and it will keep the air sweet and dry. 3. A vegetable charlotte is a savoury dish composed of various vegetables. . . . Clear and cut into regular slices potatoes, carrots, artichokes, cauliflower, celery or any vegetables in season. . . . Boll them in some good stock to which a cup of milk has been added. Strain and cool. Turn into a buttered fireproof dish cover generously with grated cheese and little knobs of butter, sprinkle with bread-crumbs and bake until a golden brown. 4. A piano will take cold and deteriorate if it stands in a draught. So far as possible it should be kept in a warm, even temperature. 5. A cutting machine. This may be regulated to slice your oranges thickly or thinly and it may be hired by the day from ironmonger or grocer. 6. Leave the peeled potatoes in hot water for a quarter of an hour before roasting them. This method improves the flavour and lessens the time required for roasting by one half.

Foundation for an

ONE of the most remarkable things in modern times is the increased care and interest taken in the physical education and development of the young. Future generations will reap the benefit of all this attention; no longer will middle age be associated with an increase in weight and a lack of shape in the figure.

It is true, of course, that when exercise is carried to excess there appears to be an enormous amount of fat laid down directly vigorous life ceases. But for the ordinary person who has been trained from infancy to take a reasonable amount of exercise the habit is bound to persist in later life, so that the fifties will not mean high blood pressure, hardened arteries and undue increase in weight.

The British Medical Association has made a report on physical education which should have a tremendous influence on the arrangement of our schools and public places for gymnasia and games generally.

The report says that the elementary schools have not been given sufficient facilities for allowing the children plenty of flight and air and open-air exercise. In the public schools, on the other hand, games and athletics are pushed to such an extent that the correct muscular development of the boy may be neglected, and they urge more gymnastic work.

They suggest that physical education in schools should be considered under three main headings: Formal Training, Recreative Training, and Instruction in Hygiene. With regard to the last, the committee states that the maximum of light and suffering would be spared.

At some of the day nurseries on the outskirts of Swiss towns which I visited some years ago the babies and toddlers were remarkable for their health and strength. A baby of nine months was almost equal in height and vigour to a child double his age brought up in a smoky industrial town.

In England pioneers have utilised the sunshine, fresh air and open surroundings to give many tubercular men and women a new lease of life. Some of these colonies are almost self-supporting, but apart from that the value of such work both for prevention and cure of one of our modern scourges cannot be over-estimated.

Mothers should insist on their children obtaining the maximum amount of fresh air and exercise both at school and at home. Houses, schools, factories and workshops should all be planned to give plenty of sunlight and air to their inhabitants.

In Switzerland, in the clear mountain air, where the sun-rays come in a clear, unadulterated atmosphere, tuberculosis and other pulmonary diseases clear up rapidly. Children and adults who go to Leyman and other health resorts in Switzerland look quite thin and wasted when they first arrive, but in a few days they become bright-eyed, brown-skinned and fit. Germans cannot live on flour and fat alone, and if many of the workers there are still or become invalids in this country were treated early enough, much pain and suffering would be spared.

Gorgeous Pageantry Of Coronation Next May

London, July 12.

King Edward will be crowned England 38th monarch a year hence with some of the most gorgeous pageantry surviving in Europe to-day.

Peers and peeresses, hereditary noblemen whose claim to take part in the proceedings on May 12, 1937 has been recognised by the Court of Claims and other distinguished guests, will assemble in full robes and regalia in Westminster Abbey to await the arrival of the King and the royal procession. The Primate, archbishops, bishops and the Dean and prebendaries of Westminster in their state robes, princes and princesses of the blood royal and the royal guests and their suites await outside.

To the strains of an anthem the King, wearing the glorious coronation robes with their gold images before and behind, passes up the body of the church. Immediately preceding him walk the chosen lords, bishops and dignitaries bearing the royal regalia, the standards of the realm, the sceptre and the crown. The King, wearing the coronation robes, passes up the body of the church. Immediately preceding him walk the chosen lords, bishops and dignitaries bearing the royal regalia, the standards of the realm, the sceptre and the crown.

Passing the throne, the King walks to the faldstool before the Chair of State, on the south side of the altar, and kneels in private prayer before taking his seat. The Archbishop of Canterbury, followed by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Great Chamberlain, Lord High Constable and Earl Marshal, preceded by Garter King of Arms, goes in arms to the four sides of the Theatre. Four times, once from each side, he declares in a loud voice: "Sirs, I here present unto you King Edward, the undoubted King of this Realm; Wherefore all you who are come this day to do your homage and service, Are you willing to do the same?"

GOD SAVE THE KING.

Four times the great audience shouts "God save King Edward!" A fanfare of trumpets heralds the procession of bishops who place the Bible, paten and chalice on the altar. The lords who carry the regalia draw near, and with the exception of the sword, hand to the Archbishop what they carry to place on the altar. The two golden spurs; the sceptre with the cross, signifying kingly power and justice; the sceptre with the dove, signifying equity and mercy; the orb, St. Edward's Staff, St. Edward's Crown, are handed over. The four swords only remain. The sword of state, sword of mercy, and the pointed swords of temporal and spiritual justice.

THOUSANDS KNEEL.

Thousands kneel while the service proceeds. The King places on his head a cap of crimson velvet, trimmed with ermine, while a short and suitable sermon is given.

The King replies, "I am willing." "Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the Dominions thereto belonging, according to the Statutes in Parliament agreed on, and the respective Laws and Customs of the same?"

Again the King replies, "I solemnly promise so to do."

Further promises regarding law, justice and mercy, the preservation of the rights of the Church, and maintenance of the laws of God are requested and given.

Then the King rises out of his chair, and assisted by the Lord Great Chamberlain, with the sword of state carried before him, walks to the altar. His head is now uncovered, and he makes his solemn oath in the sight of the people—his right hand upon the Holy Gospel in the great Bible—to observe his promises.

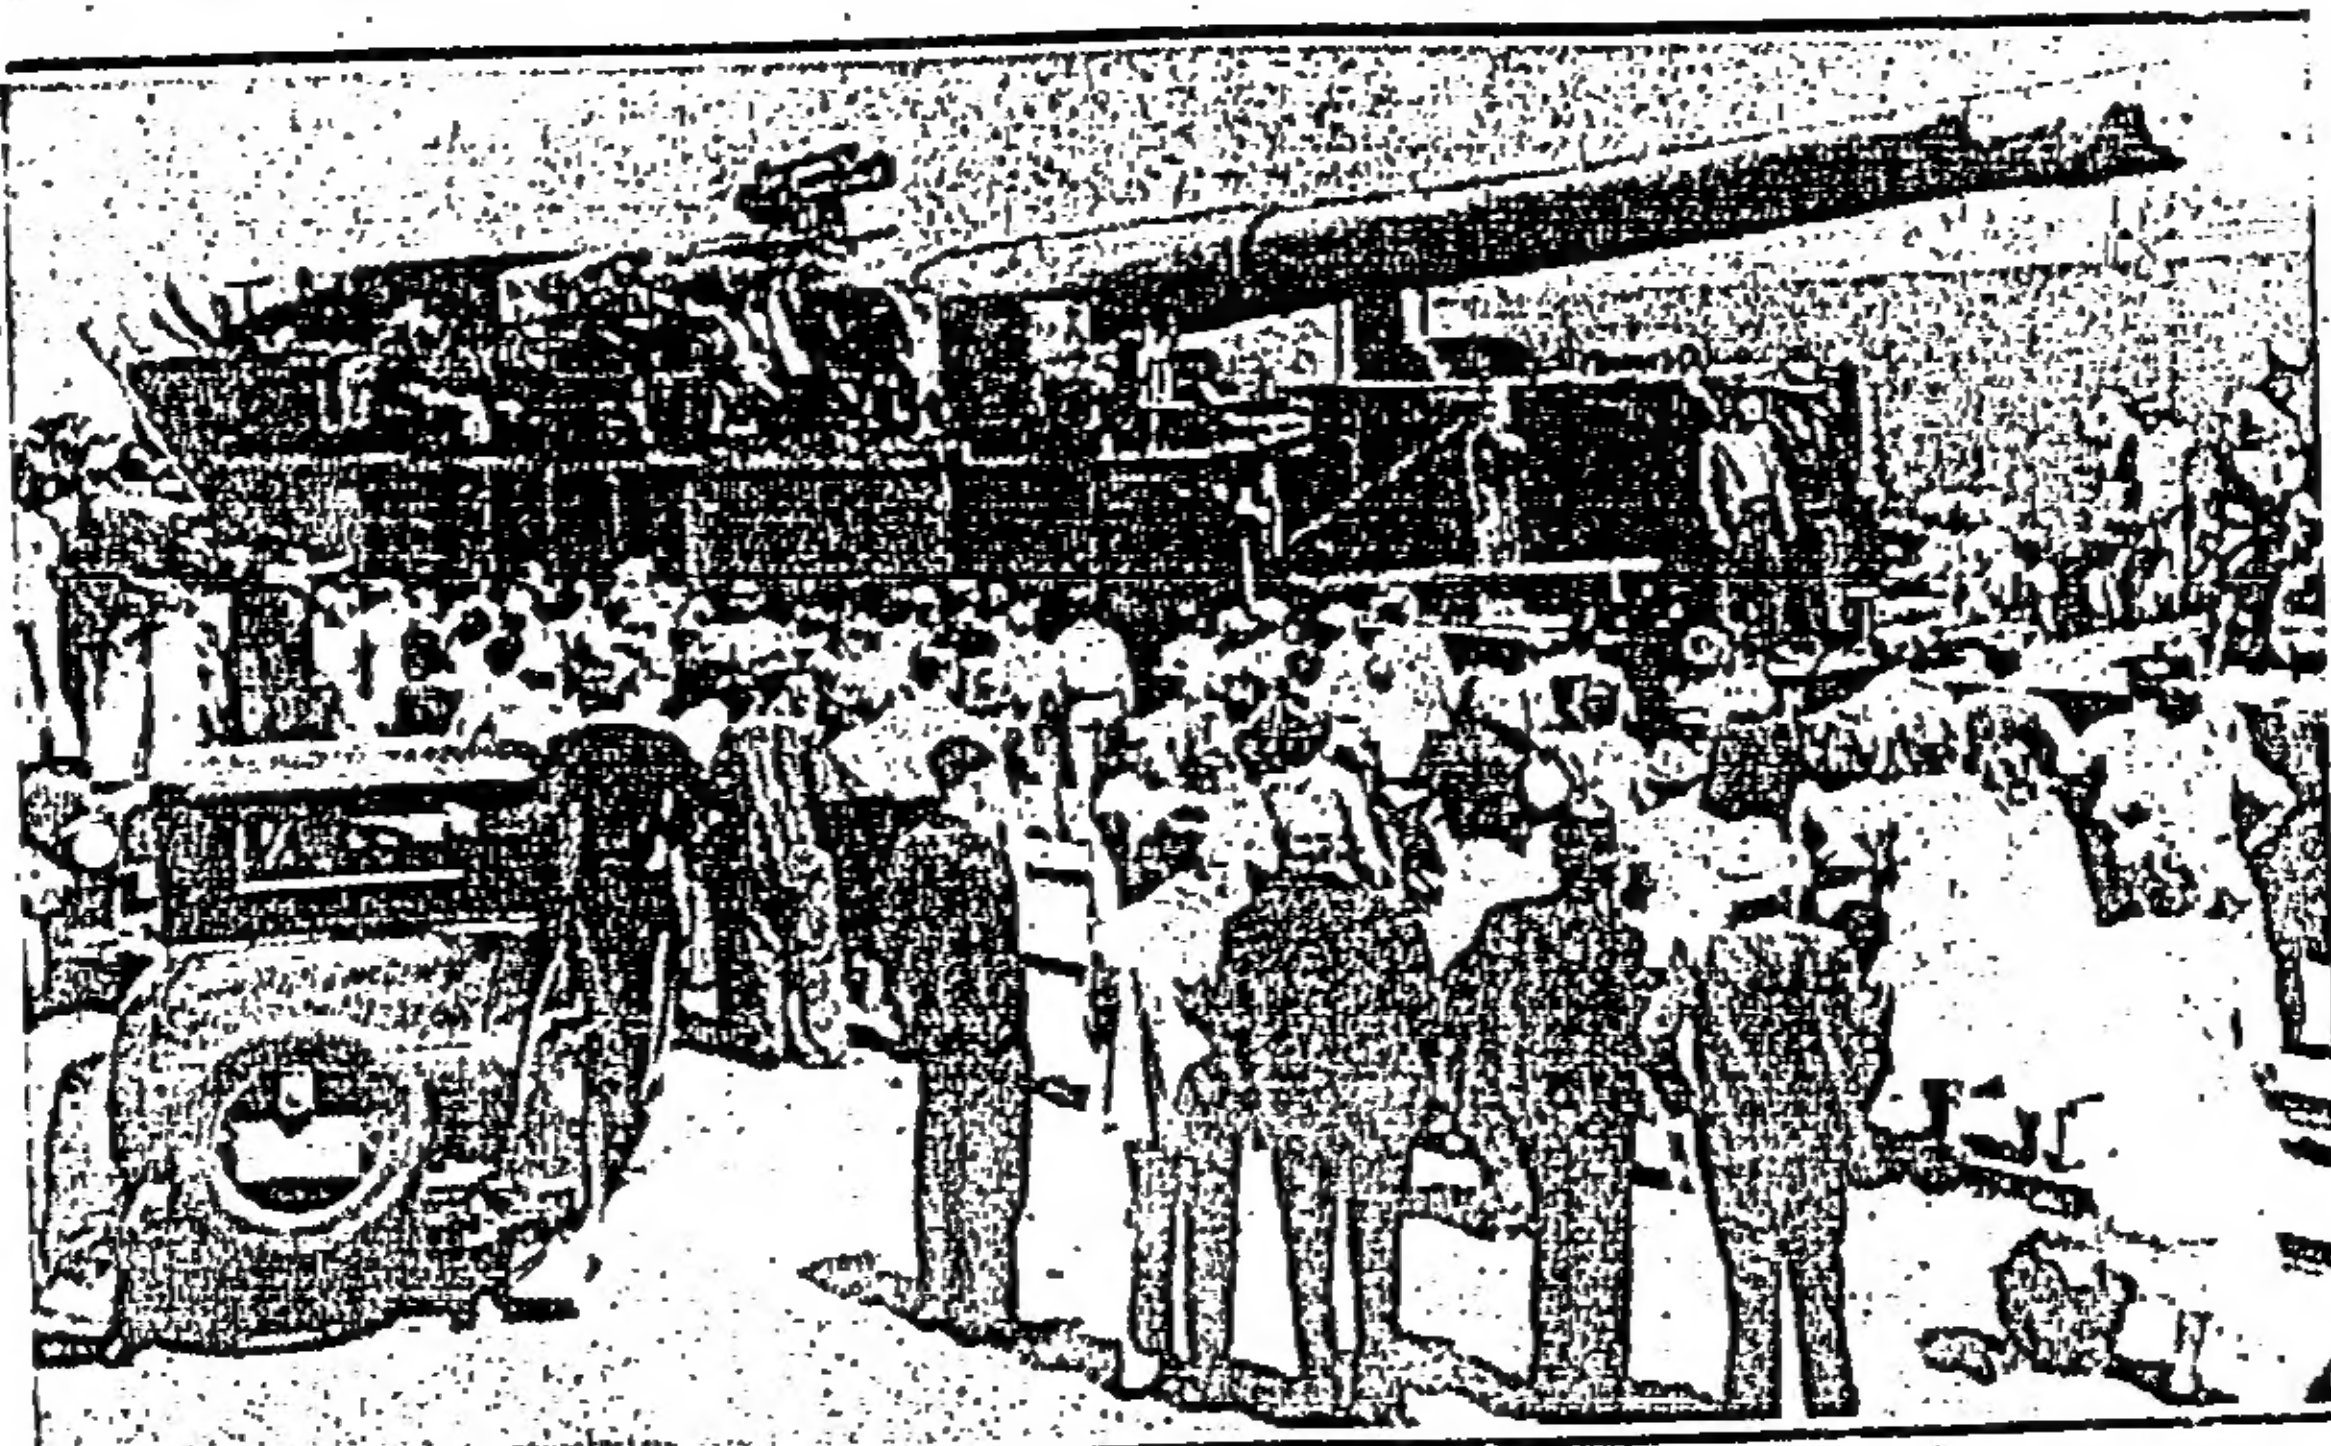

DISROBING THE KING.

Next comes the anointing. The King is disrobed of his crimson robe by the Lord Great Chamberlain. His cap of state is removed, and he walks to the altar again.

There, awaiting him, is the great chair of Edward the Confessor, with a faldstool before it. Below is the historic Coronation Stone.

Four Knights of the Garter cloth over the King a rich pall of cloth of gold. The Dean of Westminster takes from the altar the ampulla in the shape of a golden eagle and, from a spoon, pours holy oil through the eagle's mouth.

Britain Is "Home" To Him

MAN WHO WON ITALY'S WAR

ONE of the world's greatest experts on tropical diseases, "the man who won the war for Italy," is returning home to Britain.

He is Sir Aldo Castellani, the Italian-born Harley-street specialist. As Commander-in-Chief of the Italian Medical Corps, Sir Aldo has been largely responsible for the good health of the Italian troops.

In his health report issued from Addis Ababa he reveals that there were no deaths from the tropical scourges of dysentery, typhoid, typhus, or relapsing fever on either of the two fronts.

Cholera and plague were unknown. Sunstroke proved to be the chief cause of mortality, but treatment was speedily devised to check causes in their early stages.

In order to deal with sunstroke cases six air conditioned hospital ships were sent out to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. Cholera and typhoid were checked by the use of vaccines which Sir Aldo himself discovered, and by the sterilisation of all drinking water.

Italy had 20,000 hospital beds in Abyssinia, but, according to Sir Aldo, vaccination, inoculation, and camp hygiene were so successful that hospital orderlies, having nothing to do, were released for road-making and other tasks. Sir Aldo is expected home next month.

WE KEEP MALTA—AND KEEP IT SAFE

QUESTION-TIME spotlight was turned on Parliament recently on three persistent rumours.

1.—Britain could not hold Malta in time of war.

Sir Samuel Hoare (First Lord of the Admiralty):—

"I am glad of the opportunity to contradict such reports. The Admiralty have no intention of abandoning Malta as a principal naval base in the Mediterranean and the headquarters of the Mediterranean Fleet."

2.—I would never say I was fully satisfied with any defence position, but I would state categorically that we will certainly take every practical means of making its defences secure against any possible attack.

3.—Cairo negotiations for a new Anglo-Egyptian treaty have been brought to a standstill by Britain's military demands.

Said Mr. Eden:—

"There is not a word of truth in it. I do not think it is in the public interest that such a suggestion should be made."

Recent visits of von Ribbentrop, Hitler's roving Ambassador, to London and Belfast are not without political significance.

Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, was questioned, in particular, on meetings between von Ribbentrop and Air Marshal Sir Edward Ellington, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, last month.

Why had these meetings been permitted? No question of permission, Sir Philip replied. After all, the couple were fellow guests in a private house.

Disappointed M.P.s called on Mr. Baldwin.

The Premier rose heavily. "I should like to say here that I cannot understand the objections that have been raised."

"In my own view, in the present state of Europe, social and friendly meetings between such men are wholly beneficial."

Romance IS ON THE WAY

when Red Lips reveal White Teeth

Blue eyes or brown, raven curls or Titian—every man has his own ideal of loveliness. But there's one point on which all agree: pretty red lips must reveal really white teeth.

Prove this for yourself. "Maclean" your teeth night and morning and see how soon congratulations will come to you. For Macleans Peroxide Toothpaste gives your teeth new whiteness, new sparkle. No stain can resist Macleans, and it actually safeguards the enamel.

Ask for Macleans by name—it is the original Peroxide Toothpaste and the best.

FLIT
the insecticide that always kills!

When insects endanger your family's health—

Don't take chances with inferior insecticides

You would not knowingly endanger the health of your family. Then why take chances with weak insecticides? These worthless substitutes fail to kill—they fail to protect your health—they fail to safeguard you from the torment of insects—they waste your money. For safety's sake, be sure you get FLIT. FLIT really kills insects—and they stay dead! FLIT spray does not stain. Always insist on getting the yellow tin with the soldier and black band. To guarantee you against fraudulent rebranding, the FLIT tin is sealed for your protection.

Children and the dietetic value of buttermilk

During recent years favourable clinical results have been obtained in the employment of buttermilk.

Confined formerly to the treatment of diarrhoea, dysentery, and such disorders, the use of buttermilk is now frequently prescribed for infants and as a supplementary food for breast-fed babies of delicate digestion.

Eledon is constant in composition and degree of acidity, and may therefore be used with confidence in all cases where buttermilk is indicated especially if required in regular quantities.

CINEMA NOTES

A new romantic team appears at the King's Theatre to-day with the showing of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Unguarded Hour". The team is composed of Loretta Young and Prichard Tate, who are supported by a cast of notables in the mystery thriller. Miss Young, after an absence from the screen of several months, never looked more ravishing. Feminine fans will be especially interested in the gown she wears. Tate, fresh from his laurels as the young midshipman in "Matinee Idol", and as the newswoman in "Exclusive Story", is excellent in the role of the English prosecuting attorney. The story of "The Unguarded Hour" itself a successful stage play, concerns a London barrister (Prichard Tate) whose brilliant career is threatened by a woman (Loretta Young) whose testimony involves the defendant, after which he himself becomes involved in a murder, and is accused of the crime. It is evidence which he cannot evade. It is a mystery melodrama which never loses touch with the thrilling courtroom finish. The supporting cast of Lewis Stone, Roland Young, Robert Greig, Jessie Ralph, Dudley Digges, Allen Pringle and others is outstanding without exception. Sam Wood scored again with his direction as he did in "A Night at the Opera". The picture is based on the play, "The Unguarded Hour", by Ladda and Fodor, with the English adaptation by Bernard Merivale.

"Collegiate"

Joe Penner is back on the screen, again with Jack Oakie but minus his famous duck. The new Penner picture, "Collegiate", which also has Ned Sparks, Lynne Overman and lovely Frances Langford in the cast, opened yesterday at the Star Theatre. Instead of "Wanna Buy a Duck?" Penner screams "Police! Police!" at the least provocation in his second Paramount production. It is a swell musical, crammed with original comedy situations, sparkling songs, plenty of music by that unbreakable combination, Gordon and Revel, and regions of beautiful girls. Penner's antics in trying to determine his identity as well as his romance with one of the girl students, Betty Grable, prove his right to the huge popularity he has achieved in the last two years both in radio and on the screen. Both Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, who wrote the eight songs that are heard in the film, are members of the cast—brought to the "charm school" by Oakie to teach the girls modern music at its best. Georgia Coleman, the noted dancing star, will be seen as diving instructor at the school under Oakie's regime. All in all, "Collegiate" makes for grand entertainment and should be as pleasing to the eyes and ears of grown-ups as to those of the youngsters.

SEVERE SENTENCE FOR GIRL

FINE AND PRISON FOR DRUG RUNNING

Declaring that the imposition of a light sentence would encourage drug-runners to use young girls as their agents, Mr. C. B. Burgess sentenced Man Yau-lin, 18-year-old girl, to imprisonment for nine months without the option, at the Central Magistracy on Saturday. In addition, he fined her $1,000, in default three months in prison.

When the girl appeared before Mr. Burgess earlier in the week, Chief Revenue Officer Grimmit stated that she had been arrested, disguised as a schoolgirl, with 10,000 heroin pills in a rattan basket. Although admitting the charge she refused to give any information regarding where she was taking the pills, or who had given them to her.

Mr. C. B. Burgess, who represented the girl when she appeared on Saturday, entered a plea of guilty of possession but not guilty of knowledge. Mr. Burgess said that the girl had already pleaded guilty.

Mr. Burgess: Here is a young girl, perhaps 18 or 19, suddenly confronted with this charge, and she is asked to plead.

Mr. Burgess: The charge was read over to her and I cannot be expected to explain it to her.

No Mitigation

Mr. Burgess: But you have two choices, guilty of possession but not guilty of knowledge.

Mr. Burgess: I have no choice.

Mr. Burgess: Then all I can ask for is mitigation of sentence.

Mr. Burgess: I am afraid I cannot consider mitigation. Were I to impose a light sentence it would encourage drug-runners to use young girls in their illicit traffic, as agitators in their passive resistance moves.

Mr. Burgess: Then people like this girl are to bear the brunt of the punishment, although possibly they are entirely innocent, because it is the policy of British law to punish them severely.

Mr. Burgess: One of the objects of punishment is to act as a deterrent, and it is purely as a deterrent that I am asking for a severe sentence.

Mr. Burgess: There are other aspects of punishment and one is that the offender be punished severely enough not to do it again. This girl has already suffered terribly. The shame is enormous and it is not a pleasant thought to punish the victim of other people's crimes.

Stabbing Girl

Mr. Burgess: It is not a pleasant thought to send anyone to jail, let alone a young girl.

Mr. Burgess: You have a very free hand and the privilege and right to inflict such a punishment as will primarily deter the girl. The public is merely secondary.

Mr. Grimmit pointed out that after he had arrested the girl, he spent two hours trying to discover the identity of her principals, but she had remained stubborn and would not even inform the Magistrate where she lived or who had given her the pills.

"The schoolbooks in her bag were merely camouflage," declared Mr. Burgess, "and there are no extenuating circumstances. I am instructed to ask for a severe penalty."

After sentence had been imposed, the girl left the court in tears.

Raw Opium Possession

Lo Yau was fined $1,000 in default imprisonment for six months, by Mr. Burgess at the Central Magistracy on Saturday, for possession of 60 tael of raw opium.

Lo Yi and Au Kum, who were charged with him, pleaded not guilty and were discharged.

Chief Revenue Officer Grimmit prosecuted.

ROYAL SAFETY MEASURES

London, July 17.
The Government is making elaborate plans for safeguarding the lives of His Majesty, and has moved to restrict the traditional freedom of its fun-loving Sovereign.

Heavy police guards and plain-clothesmen will watch the King's every move in future to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's incident.

The Government is not consulting the King with regard to these plans, due to the fact that His Majesty's life belongs to his 600,000,000 subjects, to whom the Government is responsible.

It is believed the precautions will principally involve the tightening of cordons along the royal routes. A woman broke through the police lines at Plymouth and endeavoured to shake the Duke of York's hand.

The cordons were repeatedly broken during the Jubilee celebrations, also, when the King's attempt on the life of the King, it is recalled, is the fourth since George IV's reign, when anti-monarchists threw stones at the King. On January 28, 1877, Queen Victoria helped to trap a man named Edward, who was would-be assassin, on April 4, 1900, King George V was never molested.—United Press.

Motives to Be Unearthed

London, July 18.
Scotland Yard is unwilling to accept the popular verdict that McMahon is a crank, crankpot or drunkard. They have asked for all witnesses to aid the prosecution.

McMahon's wife said she was not aware of her husband's detention until she saw it in the papers. She said he seemed to be his old self when he left home that morning, and added, "I cannot understand why this has happened."

The police are determined to unearth the motives. Meanwhile McMahon's father, John Hannigan, aged 80, of Glasgow, confirmed that McMahon's real name is Jerome Hannigan. His brother Patrick is a priest in Dublin.

John Hannigan said his son had suffered from foot affliction since childhood and had been unable to play games. He read too much.—United Press.

War Trophies Called In

London, July 18.
It is expected that Scotland Yard will soon appeal to the public to surrender the thousands of World War pistols kept as trophies, as a result of the assassination attempt. Also they may possibly tighten the already rigid arms licensing system.—United Press.

Searching Inquiries

London, July 18.
Very searching enquiries are being made by the authorities into the incident at Thursday's procession which created alarm for the safety of the King. Scotland Yard has issued an appeal for evidence from persons who witnessed the occurrence about which there is as yet little exact information.

Results of enquiries as far confirm that it is believed that the arrested man is unconnected with any organisation, and the general impression that his behaviour was the result of the effect of some fancied grievance on an unbalanced mind.

Large crowds gathered outside Buckingham Palace yesterday and expressed in repeated cheering their relief that the unhappy incident had passed without harm to the King.—British Wireless.

Hero is Fed Up

London, July 18.
Mr. Dick, the French police spokesman who was the hero of the attempt on the King's life, is "fed up" with the hero stuff. He chose territory outside London in order to escape laudatory crowds. When he was leaving his house this morning a woman kissed Mr. Dick's hands, saying, "God bless you for saving the King."—United Press.

MACAO WATER WORKS

INAUGURATION OF HUGE SCHEME

The formal inauguration of the water works recently completed by the Macao Water Supply Co., Ltd., made yesterday a historic day in the history of the Portuguese Colony of Macao.

The cutting of a green and red ribbon to gain entrance to the River Pump Station was done by Major A. J. Ferreira da Silva, Director of Public Works, who officiated in the absence of His Excellency the Governor through indisposition.

Visitors inspected the Water Purification Installation and the storage reservoir, which has a capacity of 400 million gallons and covers four million square feet. In the midst of a distinguished gathering, His Lordship the Bishop of Macao, D. Jose da Costa Nunes, blessed the waters.

Following this ceremony, the spectators and participants of the opening made their way to a pavilion specially erected for the occasion where a number of addresses were given.

Major Ferreira da Silva, the first speaker, said: Ladies and Gentlemen.—Charged by His Excellency the Governor to represent him at the inauguration of the works for the supply of water to the City of Macao, it is with the very greatest of pleasure that I carry out the honour of this charge. The indispensable restoration to health I desire, led to his inviting me to act for him on the present occasion.

The problem of supplying water to the City of Macao has been, for many years, tackled in various manners, and without success. I feel that it is necessary to mention the work of Col. Adriano Augusto Trigo, some time Director of Public Works at Macao. All these efforts in the past were not crowned with success, due to circumstances that need not be mentioned here.

It was in 1935 that the Legal Senate of the Municipal Council of Macao concluded, on July 15, an agreement with the Macao Water Supply Company, established for the purpose of furnishing water to Macao, for the concession of the monopoly for the supply of water to the City. This was the first step to be taken to secure the improvement, absolutely necessary from the hygienic point of view and economic standpoint to bring about progress in Macao by reason of the many other problems that could be Accomplished Fact

To-day the supply of water to the City and this Colony may be considered as an accomplished fact and as such it must be a Red Letter Day. I consider it my duty, in carrying out the charge entrusted to me, to direct my first words to the Legal Senate of the Municipal Council of Macao, congratulating that Institution on the conclusion of these works which, without exaggeration, may be classified as gigantic, for their contribution to the solution of this problem, as a great step forward in the progress of this Colony and the progress of Portuguese territories. I present my congratulations, on behalf of His Excellency the Governor, and wish them every success. In conclusion, and to do justice where it is due, to Mr. Frederick Johnson Gellion, whose residence in this Colony, and whose affection for Macao give him the right to consider himself a citizen of Macao, I address my most sincere congratulations for his tenacity of purpose and his untiring energy to which is due, in great part, this very important improvement in Macao.

I take advantage of this opportunity to address my respects to the distinguished visitors from Hongkong who have graced this occasion by their presence. (Applause).

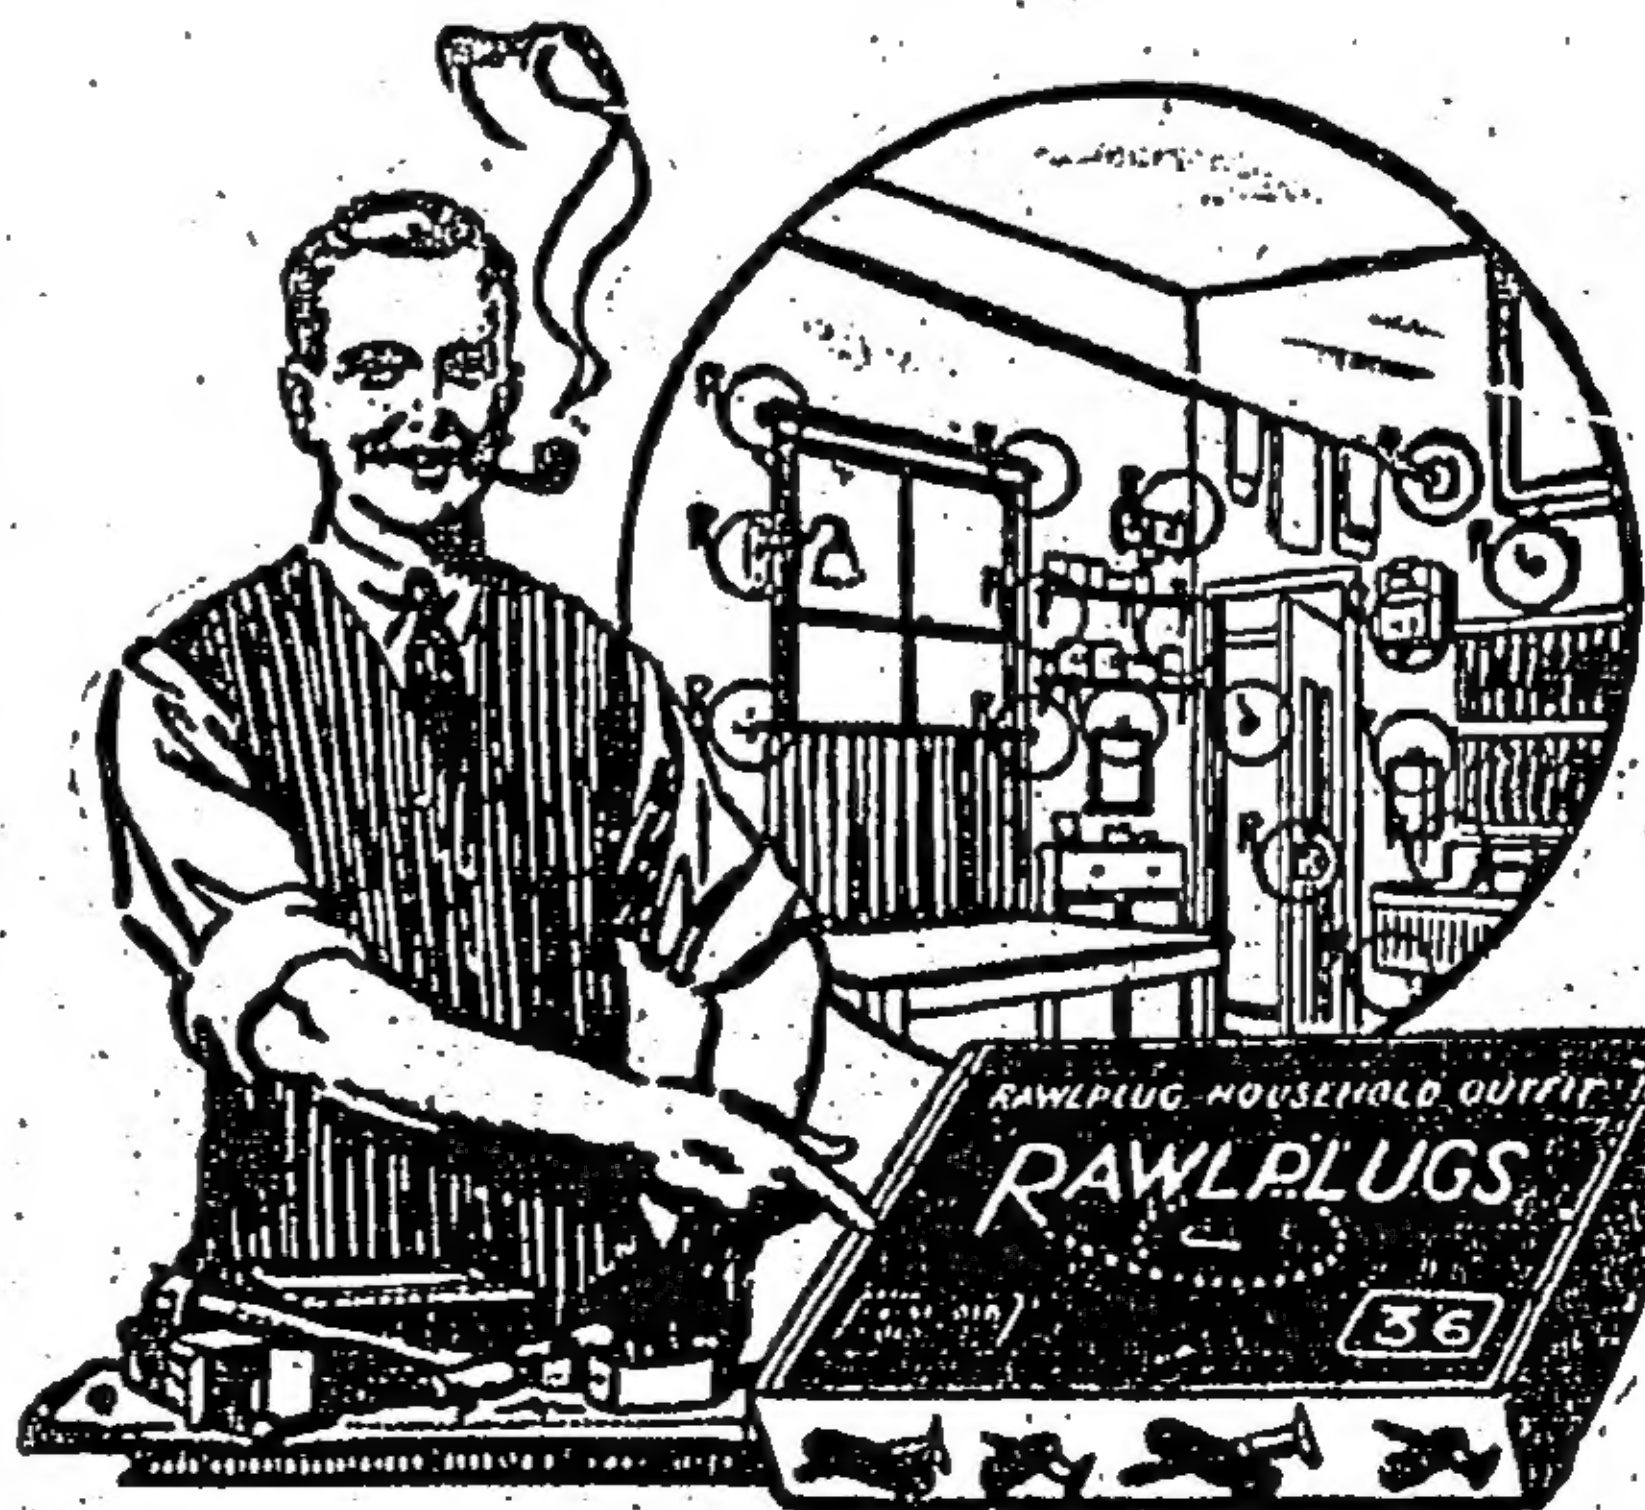

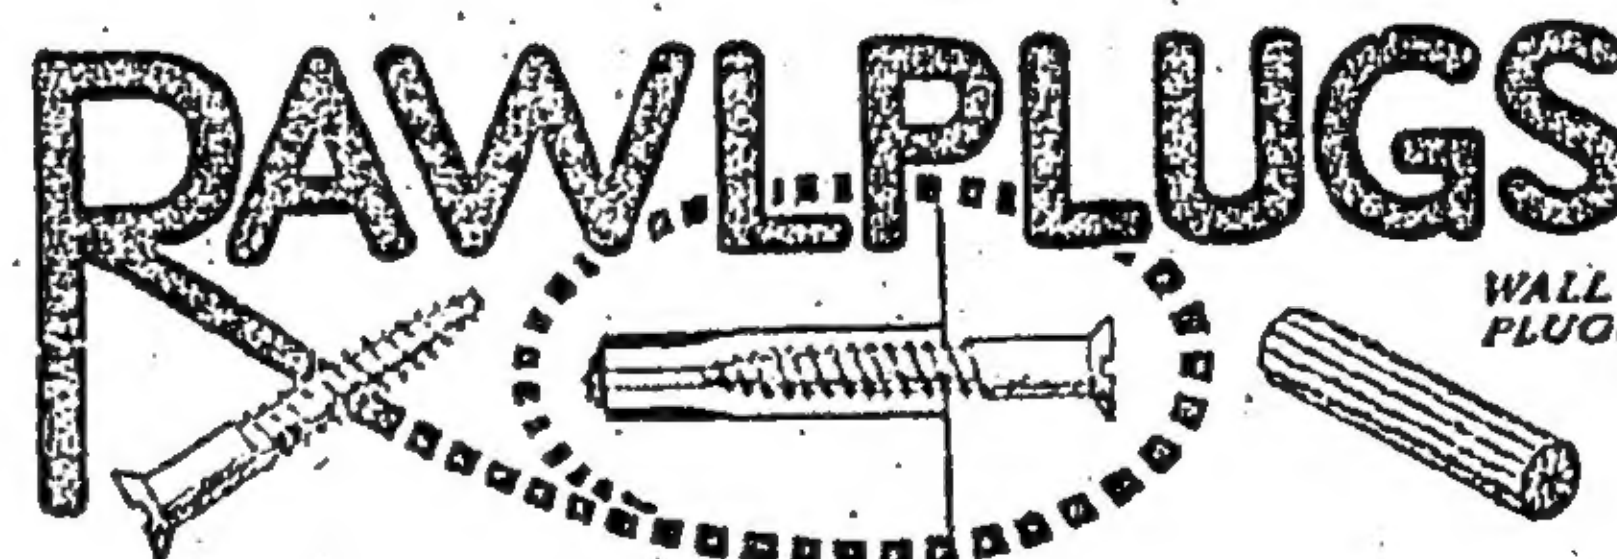

Other speeches were also delivered.

SYSTEM

"The Board is not a juggernaut rolling mechanically over the lives of some millions of human beings," So declares Lord Ruskcliffe, the Chairman of the Unemployment Assistance Board, in presenting the yearly report of its activities. This, in brief, is the reply to those who are constantly criticising the activities of the system which the Board operates and who appear to delight in representing it as harsh, inhuman, and bureaucratic — one which ruthlessly deals with the needs of the poor and the unfortunate. Actually, there is no country in the world which shows greater care for those who, through no fault of their own, are without work. The Board has, from the start of its existence two years ago, recognised that it has to deal with an infinite variety of circumstances and with a vast number of men and women whose human needs called for help and sympathy. Elasticity is essential to meet these varying needs. Discretionary power to deal with individual cases is vested in district officers, whose area officers are in close touch with the actual circumstances of a family. The Board now states that it is satisfied that this discretion is exercised in a way which is both intelligent and humane. It is interesting to recall that the Board was set up at a time when the whole insurance system was in danger of breakdown. The insurance fund was incurring debt at the rate of nearly a million sterling per week, and the fund was paying, under the name of insurance, what was in fact relief. Fears were expressed that a centralised system would prove soulless and bureaucratic in its work; the course of events has proved that such fears were groundless. Through its six thousand officers, the Board has constantly kept before it the principle that it is dealing, not with names on a register, but with the lives of human beings, whom its duty is to help through times of economic stress. But it also has to bear in mind that it is trustee for the taxpayer and for the great and increasing body of workpeople who are in employment. That the activities of the Board should meet with criticism is to be expected, but there is no evidence that the system of which it has charge is operated in a mechanical manner. Through its direct contact with those who need aid, the Board is able to adjust its help so that it will meet the particular needs of given cases. It is thus that treatment varies in different instances. But the broad principle of giving assistance to those who need and deserve it is always kept well in view, and it is this circumstance which invests the British system with the large measure of success registered in handling an amazingly complex and difficult problem.

Britain Has Paid for World's Greatest Sea Fort

By

FACTS

When Singapore was offered as a gift to Scotsman Alexander Hamilton in 1703 he declined.

Wiser Sir Thomas Raffles made British Government, 1824, buy it, price £13,500.

Under distant Queen Victoria became a pleasant rendezvous for pirates.

Later recognised as the cross-roads of the world, but had no dry dock till 1928. Chinese still call number Europeans by 5 to 1.

shillings, making six in all. And with six shillings you can do quite a lot.

It may well be, however, that those who call upon us to spend this further three shillings of our hard-earned money have already decided that a great naval base at Capetown would, after all, be preferable to one at Singapore; and that something like £14,000,000 will now be spent in South Africa, of which the Union Government will contribute half.

NEXT time you get your hair cut in Singapore take a look at the barber. He may well be a Japanese admiral or general. So may the man who sells you a roll of film for your camera.

For the hairdressing parlours and the camera shops of Singapore are full of Japanese all keeping an eye on Britain's white elephant; the great naval base, towards whose cost to date you and I and all our fellow countrymen, women and children have contributed three shillings each.

You can't do a great deal with three shillings; but when nearly 50,000,000 people club together and each contributes that amount they can transform a peaceful island into an impregnable fortress; and then discover that it is not likely to be of much use in an emergency.

By the time the Singapore base is completed we shall each have contributed another three

NOTES OF THE DAY

With the great development in road travel a significant change is taking place in the character of the British inn. For generations the wayside inn was one of the main features of the picturesque British countryside. These old inns were small, comfortable and homely places. Each of them had its own individual characteristics. The proprietors were until recently humble country-folk, and the customers mostly local farmers and labourers, whose beverage was almost exclusively beer. Spirits and wines were reserved for special occasions. Now that there are hundreds of thousands of motorists on the roads special catering arrangements have had to be made. In some cases, in place of the old inns, new modern hotels have been built; in others, even in the heart of the country, the old-fashioned taverns have been renovated and brought more into the line with modern needs.

There are altogether about seventy thousand inns in England and Wales, and within the past year approximately one-third of them have been reconstructed and remodelled. In London alone, of the five thousand inns, nearly half have already been rebuilt. The work of replanning and remodeling continues unceasingly, the total expenditure involved running into millions of pounds. In many parts of the country, inns which, at the beginning of the present century, were concerned only with serving alcoholic drinks, now provide accommodation for parties of guests, many of whom may not touch liquor of any kind. The old-fashioned drinking tavern makes practically no appeal. The modern traveller, no matter of whatever class he may be, demands brightness, cleanliness and cheerful surroundings, and no doubt the attempt of the inn-keeper to meet his requirements is largely responsible for the surprising decline of drunkenness in recent years.

OF that reported plan it is at present impossible to obtain any confirmation, for the grey walls of the British Admiralty hold secrets as efficiently as a smoke-screen thrown out by one of their own destroyers.

But whatever the fate of Singapore, more than £7,000,000 has already been spent in building an arsenal on this island, the exact position and size of whose guns will only be disclosed when they first roar in battle.

What facts are known beyond dispute are few. Officially nothing is admitted; but long and sometimes dangerous research has dragged small particles of information into the light of day, and as these particles, like the pieces of a highly complicated jigsaw puzzle, have been fitted together, a picture has emerged; and the beholder finds himself examining a titan rooted to the ground, at whom, so long as they keep out of his limited range, are said to be over a million and small Japanese boys and admirals may pull long noses with impunity.

This much is known. At Selatar, in the north part of Singapore Island, thousands of Chinese and Tamil labourers, paid at the rate of 1s. 6d. a day, have transformed a thick jungle into a naval base with out peer in the world. The work is so recent that children still at school can remember when jungle stood there and not a secret dockyard surrounded with barbed wire and Sikhs with bayonets on the ends of their rifles.

Dock IX, as it is known, is Singapore's masterpiece. This £700,000 floating dock, towered off from Newmarket by Dutch tugboats at a cost of nearly a quarter of a million pounds (more than £10,000 of which was paid in Suez Canal dues); a 900ft. graving dock, nearly half a mile of quay, long fuelling wharves, giant cranes, pumps, power stations and machine shops go to form a modernly equipped hospital for sick and damaged ships as the world has ever seen.

A few miles to their immediate south is the voice with which Singapore daily speaks to London—one of the Empire's most powerfully equipped wireless stations. That, too, is a guarded and secret place. More secret still are the fuel depots scattered around the island. Stored in underground vaults and in high circular domes are said to be over a million and a quarter tons of fuel, enough to supply the ships and aeroplanes of Singapore for more than half a year.

The major fuel reserves lie to the south-west of Selatar, not far from the 600 acres flying field on which sleep the wings of Britain's Eastern power.

Long slipways go down from the northern edge of this field into the sea, and from its translucent waters are hauled and lowered the great flying boats with which Imperial Britain defends her Eastern lands.

The entrances to this hornet's nest are well and truly guarded. At Changi, on the extreme N.E. point of Singapore Island, a garrison town has been built to house the immense reserve of troops and mechanics whom it is considered necessary to keep there.

THE hills are full of guns. How much concrete has been imported to make beds for them it is impossible to discover; but it is known that a large number of big gun experts have been at work there for years, superintending the labours of thousands of "coolies"; and that the big and little islands of Pulau Tekong and the island of Pulau Ubin, which guard the entrance to the hornet's nest, are full of secret emplacements where there are unnumbered anti-aircraft guns and some of the largest calibre guns in the world.

Nor is this all. At Bedok Point, in the east, on the small islands to the south of Singapore, in the coconut groves and rubber plantations to the west, and in the hills of Johore to the north of the Straits, batteries of artillery with a long range are ready at any moment to repel invaders.

And, as they say, for why? To this there can only be one answer.

Because of the Japanese. On the great and opulent city of Singapore, capital of the world's richest area, 70,000,000 pairs of Japanese eyes are focussed. Those who used to see it in reality may no longer do so, for Japanese are no longer allowed to own land on the hills of Johore, overlooking the naval base, and with the aid of field glasses and telescopes, to bring it to their doorsteps. A new branch of the Singapore C.I.D. has just been formed to deal exclusively with spies.

A secret document is said to still exist which tells that Japan was willing to put 1,000,000 men on the western front in the dark days of the war if she might have Singapore for her own. As politely as that offer was made it was refused.

One day Japan may ask for Singapore at the point of the pistol; and when she does it will be seen if the naval base can justify the vast expenditure we have all made on it.

Some experts think that it will not, and they say that it has a strategic value but no tactical possibilities. Unless Britain, they say, can detach from her Home and Mediterranean Fleets capital ships big enough to engage those with which Japan will blockade the naval base, it can serve no purpose other than to divert part of the Japanese battle fleet from an attack on Australia.

A JAPANESE army, they go on to say, landing on the coasts of Johore, and working in co-operation with the blockading fleet, could starve out Singapore in a few months. At present Britain has no capital ships to spare and none capable of operating in that climate.

Australia does not believe in Singapore; and never did. To show her contempt she is, it is said, about to build an air force of 1,600 front line planes, and has already ordered from Britain no fewer than 160 to act as jigs or patterns on which to build the rest in her own factories.

Dirigibles Are In The "Air" Again

Washington, July 12. Recent north Atlantic crossings of the German dirigible Hindenburg have revived in United States Navy circles the highly controversial question of whether lighter-than-air ships should be added to the fleet.

Proponents of airships have been in the minority since the destruction of the dirigible Macon off the California coast on February 12, 1935. The loss of the Macon occurred less than two years after the dirigible Akron plunged into the sea off Barnegat light on the New Jersey coast with appalling loss of life including that of Rear Admiral William Moffett.

The flying feats of the Hindenburg in the north Atlantic have backed up by the untimely record of the Graf Zeppelin, which has been flying the South Atlantic route from Africa to Brazil for months, has tended to push into the background the tragic fate of the Navy's lighter-than-air craft.

Indicative of the Navy's renewed interest in flying hours was the recent assignment of Rear Admiral John W. Green to lead an expedition to study the lighter-than-air field.

Hinkler Honoured By Italy

Florence, Italy, July 12. As a gesture of sympathy to the Australian people from the Italian mother and brother of Bert Hinkler, Australian aviator who crashed on a lonely height of the Apennines, have been brought for a visit to Italy as guests of the Italia Shipping Company.

In the little hill town of Scandalo, where the monument to Hinkler stands, the whole population welcomed them with affectionate sympathy. Mrs. Hinkler and her son were also received during their stay by the Mayor of Florence in the great Palazzo Vecchio.

The Mayor expressed his pleasure in meeting "the mother of a hero," and also appreciatively accepted from her packets containing seeds of 30 varieties of trees and plants.

Quintuplets, Australia, which has promised to have cultivated in the Botanical Gardens and then distributed among the public gardens of the city.

Vienna, July 13. Maria Jeritz, the opera singer, has obtained a second and final divorce from her former husband, Baron Leopold Popper-Podgutzky, in Vienna, according to information from an authoritative source.

The Vienna court granted a divorce on the ground of "mutual aversion."

The famous singer divorced her husband about a year ago in California and married the film producer, Mr. Winfield Sheehan. Baron Popper claimed that the first divorce was not valid in Austria.

Now the dissolution of the first marriage of Mme. Jeritz has been definitely legalised according to Austrian laws, and the second marriage has been automatically recognised in this country.

Ontario Asks $50,000 Damages For Quints

Philadelphia, July 1. A $50,000 damage suit on behalf of the Dionne Quintuplets was filed in the Courts yesterday against the Blossom Products Corporation of Allentown, Penna., manufacturers of dolls, toys and infants apparel.

David A. Croll, Minister of the Public Welfare of Ontario, brought the action, based on the alleged unauthorized use of the names, pictures and descriptive titles to promote the sale of the company's products.

The petition averred that the quintuplets have exclusive property rights in their names, popularity, and the phenomenon of their birth, and anyone who wants to trade on them must pay for the privilege.

MME. JOLIO-CURIE HAS HIGH HOPES

New Field Of Research Opened Up

By A SCIENCE CORRESPONDENT

HIGH hopes for the use of the new artificial "radium," both medically, in the form of food or injections, and as a scientific "index" which would show new facts about the body's working, were expressed by Mme. Joliot-Curie when she lectured at the Wigmore Hall, London recently.

Mme. Joliot-Curie: Described how all the different organs of the body could be made to take their own photographs in the "light" of the radiation they emitted;

Explained how it would be possible, from this type of test to predict in advance where, and in what quantities, any of the new radio-active materials would penetrate;

Stated that 3-million volt electrical equipment would shortly be available in Paris, with which her husband, Professor Joliot, would make these materials in sufficiently large amounts for these essential tests to be undertaken; and

Expressed the belief that it would be possible to achieve a great advance in treatment by selecting the appropriate radio-active material to penetrate to any desired part of the body.

Mme. Joliot-Curie is France's new Under-Secretary of Scientific Research, a post created for her benefit. She is the daughter of Mme. Curie, the discoverer of radium, and jointly with her husband the discoverer of artificial radio-activity.

This means the transmutation of normal stable atoms into unstable atoms which, like those of radium, are radio-active.

Among the new radio-active atoms which can be produced she mentioned those of phosphorus, sodium (of common salt), iodine, and carbon. These are all chemical elements which are found naturally in the body.

Moreover, by using the radio-active preparations in suitable chemical form Mme. Joliot-Curie believes that it will be possible to exercise a very substantial amount of control over the parts of the body to which they proceed. Having done their work, they would lapse back again into normal, inactive atoms.

Radio-phosphorus, for example, would tend to find its way into the bones and teeth, iodine into the thyroid gland.

An important point which she made was that, since the radio-active materials will be largely concentrated where they are wanted, very much smaller quantities will be necessary than is any form of external radiation. That is why she believes that the first use of the new radio-active materials in medicine will be in this way.

Later, they may compete more directly with radium—but that will be another story.

The new technique for exploring the distribution of the radio-active materials in the body she calls "autoradiography." The name explains itself—"Cells photograph themselves." Any organ which has accumulated much radio-active material appears dark on the photographic plate. One which has accumulated little will scarcely show at all.

Although the technique has so far only been tried with natural radio-active materials, it has already resulted in one discovery of remarkable interest.

This is the fact that a mother automatically protects her still unborn child against the infiltration of any such material which may be administered to her. Thus far, along the connecting placenta, the radio-active material ("placentalum") penetrates—but no further, not into the child.

Mme. Joliot-Curie was no less emphatic about the second possibility, already mentioned, that of using the new radio-active materials as an index by which the chemical working of the body could be followed.

NEW RESEARCH "This opens up quite a new field of research," she stated, "and I think a very important one."

Every radio-active atom, she explained, carries its mark, that of the radiation it emits, by which it can be distinguished from all other non-radioactive atoms of the same kind already in the body.

With the aid of this most sensitive test, it should therefore be possible to follow out the movements of any substance taken into the body, whether as food or in the form of an injection.

It should even be possible to tell how often every individual type of tissue within the body is replaced by new growth.

Mme. Joliot Curie, speaking in a foreign tongue, gave in the course of her lecture what was probably the most lucid account of the many astonishing discoveries of modern physics which has yet been heard in England. "An explosion of discovery" was her impressive summary of the past four years.

LIGHTNING IS IN THE NEWS

Vienna, July 14. Lightning strokes have their caprices as shown by the following recent events in South-east Europe.

In Lysinnoff, near Karlsruhe, Upper Austria, during a thunderstorm, a thunderbolt entered the house of farmer Wosnik through the chimney, passed between the legs of Wosnik's twelve years old daughter, without hurting the child, and then destroyed a linden tree in the yard.

When lightning struck an oak tree under which the wife of the farmer Wosnik had sought shelter near Semendria, Yugoslavia, a terrible explosion ensued by which Mrs. Bladio was seriously injured. Investigations showed that the bolt had exploded a shell, buried under the tree since the world war.

The wife of a Hungarian hunter who was caught by a sudden thunder storm while walking across an open field was smitten by a lightning bolt and the hunter himself who had, with an admirable presence of mind, thrown himself into a ditch full of water, remained absolutely unhurt.

When a farm woman near Salzburg, Austria, stuck her arm out of the window to ascertain whether it was raining, a lightning bolt detached and destroyed her wrist watch; the woman herself fainted, but was not otherwise hurt.

A thunder bolt falling on the broadcasting station of Erivan, Turkey, killed a violinist and a pianist who were preparing to give a concert while seven other people, present in the same room, escaped without injury, nor was their damage done.

The wife and child of a Viennese banker, to all appearances killed by a stroke of lightning near Kaisersteinbruch, Austria, were taken to the local morgue. Although breath and heart had ceased to function, a Viennese physician who happened to be on the spot attempted to restore them to life when he noticed that, two hours after their alleged death, the customary livid spot had failed to appear on the bodies. His long efforts were successful; both mother and child completely recovered.—United Press.

CARDINAL AND THE APOSTLES

HIS LETTER ON THE MORALITY TRIALS

Berlin, July 1. Cardinal Bertram, Archbishop of Breslau, in a pastoral letter, which will be read to-morrow from pulpits throughout his diocese, deals with the trials of Franciscan monks for immorality. He states:

"The Catholic people bitterly regret moral failures of priests and friars. They are exceptions. All APOSTLES

"Such failures do not give one the right to condemn the Church, the friars, the clergy and the orders."

"I remind you of the following. One of the twelve Apostles betrayed Jesus, he committed suicide. The disciples of Christ were much grieved, but the respect for the Apostolate remained unchanged."—Reuter.

Two hundred and seventy-six Catholic monks, members of the Franciscan brotherhood, were tried at Coblenz on May 20 for alleged immoral conduct and other similar offences. The monks belonged to monasteries in Westphalia and the Rhineland. Sentences ranging from two months' imprisonment to eight years' penal servitude have already been passed on some of them.

IMPORTANT WEEK OF SPORT IN HONGKONG

LAWN BOWLS AND LEAGUE TENNIS

Kowloon Cricket Club Meet Chinese R.C. To-morrow

(By "Veritas")

An important week of sport in Hongkong starts to-day. The concluding stages of the lawn bowls championships are now being reached, while there are some league tennis matches scheduled expected to have notable bearings on divisional titles.

The severe rainfall during the week-end and again early this morning is likely to bring about the postponement of this afternoon's mixed doubles tennis matches, but unless there is further rain, the two lawn bowls matches in the quarter-finals of the singles championships will probably be played.

If the tennis is played, K.C.C. will turn out an entirely new second string to oppose U.S.R.C. The team will comprise S. A. Gray, G. C. Burnett, N. A. E. Mackay, Mrs. Hosford, Mrs. Stainfield and Mrs. Stokes. Of these Mrs. Hosford and Gray have played in the team before this season, while Burnett has once appeared for the club's "A" combination. The rest of the players have not before this season taken part in the mixed doubles league.

An easy win for the United Services is assured, but more interesting is the match at Recreation where the Portuguese receive K.C.C. (1). The visitors expect to be at full strength, namely E. C. Fincher and Miss O. Datzel, E. F. Fincher and Miss Griffiths and G. Dodder and Miss Mackenzie.

Recreation may not make any changes from the team which narrowly defeated K.C.C. last week, but whatever their combination it is unlikely that they will be able to stop the visitors from winning.

Two semi-finals in the lawn bowls singles championships are expected to be played to-morrow. On the Kowloon Dock Green, Gutierrez, a former champion, will meet J. Shepherd of the Police, who has been bowling extremely well. Gutierrez has a fair amount of match-play experience to assist him and this may prove sufficient to win him the match.

A Hyde-Lay, another ex-titled holder, will be on view at the Civil Service green where he meets A. E. Coates, a consistently good player. Hyde-Lay's form to date suggests that he is good enough to win.

TUESDAY'S PROGRAMME
The remaining two quarter-final bowls matches will be played to-morrow. Thanks to the draw two promising Recreation players will meet on the K.B.G.C. green. Both H. A. Alves and J. E. Noronha have displayed first-class form to date and it is generally believed that they will escape each other in the draw they would have stood an excellent chance of appearing in the final.

As it is Alves will probably win through to the semi-final although he will have no easy task. A third ex-champion will take part in the other game, when A. W. Grinnell opposes A. M. Omar. Grinnell's most promising young bowler, Omar has done exceedingly well to advance to the present stage of the tournament, but it is not likely he can overcome the redoubtable Grinnell, who has returned to his best form.

BIG TENNIS MATCH
The official programme for the "A" Division of the tennis league finished last week, but there remain some outstanding matches postponed on account of rain and other circumstances. One of these—a match of some importance—is being played off to-morrow, when K.C.C. are at home to Chinese Recreation Club, potential champions.

After the excellent showing last week of indoor Recreation Club, it must be conceded that K.C.C. have a chance of springing a surprise on the Chinese. Against the Indians, the R.C.C. owed a great deal to their third player, Luk, Ding-cheng and Wong, but I rather think they will find themselves against bigger opposition to-morrow. K.C.C. have a reasonably good team, and if the players strike form, they may well snatch the points by the odd set.

WEDNESDAY'S PROGRAMME
The first of the finalists in the lawn bowls pairs championship should be known on Wednesday evening. One semi-final match is being played on the Civil Service green, the contestants being R. Dunham and S. Randle v. W. Gray and W. Marr.

The Police pair will start slight favourites, but the pairs are evenly matched and an entertaining game is assured.

Chief interest in the "B" Division tennis programme is the clash between Recreation and K.C.C. Outcome of this encounter will probably decide the championship position as the championship has already been settled.

Recreation can afford to draw the match and still finish second, but if they lose, K.C.C. will be fairly safe for the honours.

Recreation are not in much danger of defeat. For one thing they are on

RECREIO PLAY K.I.T.C. TO-MORROW

IN "C" DIVISION MATCH

According to present arrangement, the postponed "C" Division league tennis match between Recreation and Kowloon Indian Tennis Club will be played to-morrow (Tuesday).

The outcome of this encounter will decide the championship as these are the only teams in the division now enjoying 100 per cent. records. On the face of it, it seems that in order to win, the K.I.T.C. must receive three sets from the Recreation. They have not drawn a set yet this season, but they will be hotly tested in this match.

WOLVES APPOINT A COMMITTEE TO CHOOSE TEAMS

Wolverhampton Wanderers team will be chosen by a committee in future and not by Major Frank Buckley, the secretary-manager, according to Mr. A. Oakley, the chairman, speaking at the annual meeting of the club.

Major Buckley said the move was part of the club's new policy. It was not taken because of any diversion of opinion among the board or because of any differences among the club's finances, and the ground improvements.

Wolves made a profit of £17,000 last season.

SIX 6'S AND TWELVE 4'S IN SUCCESSION

WELLARD'S FAST BOWLING TROUBLES NORTHANTS

When Somerset went in a second time against Sussex at Bath last month, Gimblett edged a ball dangerously close to the bowler's short leg, but he gradually settled down, and having done so showed his confidence by driving Clark for a 6 and two 4's in an over. After tea Gimblett gave a brilliant display that over-shadowed everything else.

Passing 50 in 108 minutes, he went to his fourth century of the season in two hours 25 minutes, and altogether batted for just over three hours for 143. He was out to his first bad stroke.

After reaching 50, he made remarkable progress, scoring his remarkable 84 runs in 18 strokes, six 6's and seven 4's.

He obtained his second 50 in 37 minutes, and in 10 consecutive scoring strokes he made 70 runs. When reaching 140, which included seven 6's and seventeen 4's, he completed his 1,000 runs for the season. The straight drive was his most profitable stroke and all the bowlers came in for punishment at his hands. He hit Cox for four 6's, Boswell for two and Clark for one, and he scored his 143 out of 258. Lee helped him to score 114 for the first wicket, but after that none of the other batsmen did much.

Earlier on Wellard had bowled splendidly. He maintained a fine pace and when he bowled Clark he sent a ball 35 yards. Northway, a former Somerset player, and Perkins alone dealt really effectively with him. Northway holding out for nearly three hours. Perkins hit Meyer for 8 and Doswell also drove Hazell for 6, but the last eight Northants wickets fell for 114. Wellard taking four of them for 34 runs.

I SHALL DEFEAT SCHMELING SAYS BRADDOCK

"HE WILL NEED MORE THAN HIS RIGHT HAND PUNCH"

New York, June 27.

"I shall still be champion in October." This was the simple comment of James J. Braddock, world's heavyweight boxing champion, to-day, when asked to sum up his prospects in his title fight with Max Schmeling, conqueror of Joe Louis, which is to take place in the United States next September.

"Schmeling has nerve and a terrible right punch," added Braddock, "but he will need more than that to win the championship. What I saw in him was a fighter who at 30 is not too good."

Schmeling proposes to leave here on Tuesday in the airship Hindenburg for Germany and to return to this country to resume his training in the first week of August.

MAX'S LESSON FROM FILM

"I discovered, when watching films of Louis fighting, that the Negro was a perfect target for my right," he said.

He explained why he was so confident of victory in his fight with Louis on Friday night.

One of those who strengthened Schmeling's belief was Tom O'Rourke, the boxing authority of 83, who died in the German's dressing-room from heart failure just before the contest.

"Louis," Tom advised Schmeling, "always fires two lefts in succession. Let him hit you with the first and as he starts to shoot with the second, cross your right, and you can't miss."

Schmeling followed this tip and knocked out his opponent in the 12th round.

"I would have knocked Louis out much quicker," he said, "but for one eye of the fight I could see him with only one eye. My eye gave me trouble in the third round."

LOUIS TO "FIGHT ON"

Louis, who came out of the fight with a badly swollen jaw and damaged thumb and knuckle, said: "I remember nothing after I was hit in the jaw in the fourth round. Everything went blank. But in the first three rounds I found Max a hard man to fight."

"I am not discouraged, and I intend to go on fighting."

NEW BOOK TO AID TENNIS CLUB SECRETARIES

One of the latest contributions towards the task of efficiently running a tennis club is the "Tennis Club Secretaries' Handbook," produced by the Dunlop Rubber Co., first copies of which have just reached Hongkong. It is an excellent production, providing not only a record of playing members, honorary members and the club's programme, but offers sound hints on the game of tennis, reprints N. J. Tyerman's article on "Lawn Tennis Club Management" which has previously appeared in Lawn Tennis and Badminton, sets out the regulations for the conducting of tournaments, including mathematical tables for making a correct draw, and gives the complete records of all the important national championships.

The book is nicely bound and is sure to find favour with all club secretaries.

Wimbledon Day By Day

BOROTRA STILL FASCINATES

(By Frank Foxon)

London, June 25.

It was a very full card at Wimbledon yesterday, and it was quite possible to see all those matches which were well worth seeing.

The feature of this crowded day? Well, I think it was the appearance of Jean Borotra.

It was late in the afternoon when Jean Borotra came on to his beloved Centre Court, where he won the singles championship in 1921 and 1926. He will not win that singles championship again, for he is still in the doubles with Jacques Brugnon.

"HAIL AND FAREWELL"

I do not think I guessed wrongly when I thought I saw a look of wistful sadness as "the bounding Basque" surveyed the scene before he went on court. It was, I think, "Hail and farewell."

The crowd gave Borotra a wonderful reception; he has always been the Centre Court favourite.

All the old clan was there and when he was beaten by a good shot, he always brought out his "Ah! oul." A great shout? No, a great sportsman.

There were moments when he smashed with the deadly certitude of ten years ago. He and Brugnon beat C. F. Lister and N. Taylor at 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, and it was Borotra who dominated the court.

AMERICANS' DUEL

There was a magnificent fight in the first match on the Centre Court between the two Americans, D. N. Jones, ex-captain of Cambridge University, and Wilmer Allison, one of the eight seeded players in the men's singles. It was a duel between the superior all-court game of Allison and the deadly service of Jones.

Allison led in the first set at 4-1 and 5-2, but Jones spurred and was in front for the first time at 6-3. Allison kept getting into the lead, but he could not clinch the set.

At 9 all Jones fell heavily, but after a few moments of massage at the umpire's ladder he resumed none the worse.

The end of the set came at 14-12 to Allison.

In taking the second and third sets at 6-3, 6-4, Allison was at all times quite untroubled. I do not think he is yet at concert pitch, but it will take a good man to beat him.

Changes In Rugby Football Rules Agreed Upon

DROPPED GOAL TO HAVE VALUE OF THREE POINTS

The Rugby Union at their annual meeting in London on June 26 unanimously supported the proposal of the committee that the method of scoring be changed reducing the value of the dropped goal from four points to three, and a goal from a mark from three points to two. The recommendation will be conveyed to the International Board.

Another alteration in the Laws of the Game put forward by the committee and passed unanimously concerned Law 16, regarding the tackle. The definition of this law was sought to be improved to ensure uniform decisions by referees. The alteration provided that "when a player in possession of the ball is grasped by an opponent and brought to the ground still so grasped, a player should be considered as tackled."

As regards Law 15, concerning the scrum, Admiral Roys said it was thought that the wording of this rule was too cumbersome, and it was decided that the law be reviewed with the object of improvement.

Law 17, regarding "off-side," also came under consideration particularly in connection with the restriction of the scope of the wing forward. Admiral Roys said that various ideas had been considered, but the committee were unable to put up a proposal which would have this effect.

The Bedford F.C. delegate asked the meeting to endeavour to think of some method of making the scrum more clear rather than attempt to restrict the activities of the wing forward, who could not always be regarded as a menace to the game. Mr. Greenwood said that he felt the wing forward would be made completely impotent if the opposing forwards would keep on shoving.

An important amendment of Law 20, affecting try, read: "The referee shall award a try if, in his opinion, one would undoubtedly have been obtained but for the unfair play or the unlawful interference of the defending team. Such try shall be awarded between the posts." The rule at present states: "Such try shall be awarded on a line parallel to the touchlines through the place where the ball was when the infringement occurred." Admiral Roys said the intention of the alteration was to make the penalty for unfair play as severe as possible.

Blackheath made a proposal in regard to the taking of penalty kicks, which read: "All players of the opposing side must retire ten yards from the mark." and, after the addition by the committee of the words: "or to their own goal-line, whichever is the nearer," the meeting gave the amendment their approval.

Alterations to the Laws of the Game cannot be made until the International Board meets in March, 1937, which means that they cannot be put into effect, if passed by the committee, after next.

Mr. Greenwood, in returning thanks paid a tribute to the New Zealand team who toured Britain last season. The most successful thing in the tour, he said, was the splendid way in which the All Blacks took the hiding they got at Twickenham.

ENDEAVOUR 11 WINS FIRST RACE

FINE SHOWING BY NEW YACHT

Falmouth, June 22.

POTENTIAL challenger for the America's Cup, Mr. T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour II, had her first race to-day, a fortnight after her launching at Gosport.

Big crowds saw her take part in the "J" class race of the Falmouth Royal Regatta, where one of her opponents Endeavour I, the defeated challenger, now owned by Mr. H. Andree.

Light capricious breezes gave Mr. Sopwith a chance to stretch the sails, gear, and rigging. There was no attempt to race Endeavour I, seriously, but experts early formed a high opinion of the yacht on all points of sailing, especially to windward, which is by far the most important point for an America's Cup challenger.

Once, when becalming had put her fully half-an-hour behind, she showed remarkable sailing on a close reach, and fetched the mark boat in one tack to her rivals' two.

This was the outstanding feature of a slow race, and showed unmistakably that, given a breeze, Endeavour II will fulfill all the expectations of her designers, Mr. Charles Nicholson.

All four competitors in the race crossed the starting line beam to beam, the new Endeavour sandwiched between Astra and Velsheda. Astra was soon in front, and had a big lead at the end of the first round.

Towards the end of the first leg of the second, Velsheda, standing too far to windward, was cut out by Endeavour I, and Endeavour II came up astern at a good speed.

The positions remained almost the same until the finish, excepting new Endeavour sailed so well during the second round that she pulled up over 20 minutes in 13 miles, a highly satisfactory performance.

1. Astra, 5hr. 31min. 57sec.
2. Endeavour I, 5hr. 41min. 53sec.
3. Velsheda, 5hr. 45min. 2sec.
4. Endeavour II, 5hr. 51min. 28sec.

The 12-metres class event was equally thrilling. Mr. C. R. Fairry towed his new craft, Etoile, through the night from Gosport, and arrived just before the start. The sporting action was well rewarded, for he steered her over the line a winner by a minute from the crack Marina.

ADRIAN QUIST LOSES GALLANTLY

TO-DAY'S DOUBLES MATCH MAY DECIDE DAVIS CUP TIE

No more gallant defeat has been sustained in a Davis Cup match than that of Adrian Quist against the German team of Henkel and Von Cramm at Wimbledon last Saturday.

They met in the second singles of the Inter-Zone final tie between Australia and Germany, and Quist, after a game of the second set carried on courageously and actually led by two sets to one.

When, after the customary ten minutes interval, the players returned, Quist continued to battle manfully against the world's second best player, the players' fascinating the large crowd with a thrilling fifth set which went to 20 games.

Von Cramm's steadiness finally prevailed, but it was a brilliant match, the players producing their most dazzling shots.

Earlier on Crawford of Australia had taken the first two sets from Henkel, and the German, realising the futility of continuing, especially as he was not feeling well, conceded the match at that point in order to reserve himself for the doubles this afternoon.

Both teams realise that the result of the tie will depend on the doubles. The splendid form of Henkel and Von Cramm at Wimbledon three weeks ago, and the unexpected failure of Quist and Crawford, who were the title holders, indicates that a bitter match is in store to-day.

But Quist is such a brilliant doubles performer and so usually rises to the big occasion that one cannot help feeling Australia will win this vital match.

Quist, in fact, is most likely to be the chief medium for Australia's entry into the Challenge Round. It is rather too much, in view of current form, to expect Crawford to beat Von Cramm; but Quist is certainly capable of beating Henkel, and is, in fact, expected to do so.

That Henkel is also feeling unwell is a blow to German hopes, but those unhappy incidents do not appear to affect, to any great extent, the probable outcome of the tie.

SWIMMING
GALACHINESE BATHING
CLUBS MEET

An inter-club swimming meeting between the Chung Sing Benevolent Society and the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association was held in the former's bathing pavilion at Kennedy Town on Saturday night. Rain somewhat spoiled the enjoyment of the sport and the rough water also slowed down the competitors' times.

The 400 Metres free style was won by Ng Chan-man, of the Chung Sing Benevolent Society, with his brother a close second. A relay race for the second string swimmers of both clubs was won by the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Included in the programme was an exhibition of diving and a 150 metres medley relay race.

To round off the evening a water polo match between the Chung Sing Club and the East Lanes. Regiment was played. The home team beat the visitors by four goals to nil, through So Tin-cho and Chan Shek-pui, who each scored two goals.

THE RESULTS

The full results are as follows:—
100 Metres Free Style (Men).—1, Ng Chan-man (Chung Sing); 2, Kwok Hon-ming (Chinese Y.M.C.A.); 3, Chan Wing-kai (Chinese Y.M.C.A.). Time: 1 min. 7 8/10 sec.
400 Metres Free Style (Men).—1, Ng Chan-man (Chung Sing); 2, Ng Kit-man (Chung Sing). Time: 5 mins. 20 sec.

200 Metres Relay Race for "B" swimmers.—1, Chinese Y.M.C.A.; 2, Chung Sing.
200 Metres Breast-stroke.—1, Fong Chung-yu (Chinese Y.M.C.A.); 2, Lo Kwok-yang (Chung Sing); 3, Lam Sik-yu (Chinese Y.M.C.A.).
150 Metres Medley Relay Race.—1, Chinese Y.M.C.A.

Diving Exhibition.—1, So Tin-cho; 2, Lo Kwok-yang; 3, Fung Sing-mu.
Water Polo.—Chung Sing 4, East Lanes, Regt. 0.
Total Points: Chung Sing 10; Chinese Y.M.C.A. 10.

NEW SCULLING
CHAMPIONBARRY'S TACTICS KILLING PACE
FROM START

Ted Phelps was well beaten in his effort to retain his title as English professional sculling champion in a race from Putney to Mortlake last month by Lou Barry, who put up an exceptional performance, considering this was his first test in a racing shell.

Barry, however, splendidly maintained family tradition, being a worthy successor in the title to his father, Bill, his uncle, Ernie, and brother Bert. He is a sculler of a brilliant type, not the full weight that is recognised as desirable, but who knows how to get the best out of his craft.

Phelps had every advantage, experience, 21st in weight, and some protection from the head wind by reason of winning the test and choosing the Middlesex station. He got little from this, however, mainly through the exceptionally fast start made by Barry.

Barry's tactics were to "kill" his rival from the start, and this he certainly did, for within about 10 lengths his rapid sculling had given him a full length to the good.

Phelps made a big effort at the Mile Post and got up to his challenger, but it was soon evident that this had distressed him.

Passing Hammersmith Bridge the race was won and lost, for Barry started brilliantly and Phelps cracked.

Sculling in perfect style, Barry lengthened the distance between them to win by about a quarter of a mile in 24 min. 50 sec.

The new champion, who has no intention of returning to his coaching duties in Italy, will defend his title against the other Phelps, Eric, or any other challenger.

English Tennis Coaches Strongly Criticised By
"Bunny" AustinWOULD-BE CHAMPION MUST HAVE CHARACTERISTICS

"The reason that national coaching schemes fail to produce champions is not because coaching in itself is wrong, but because the coaches do not really know their business." This indictment is levelled by Mr. H. W. Austin in his contribution on "champions and coaching" in this year's issue of Lowe's Lawn Tennis Annual.

Any man or woman, he adds, is regarded as a capable coach at the game regardless of the fact that he may have no idea of the fundamental principles of technique. "Ability at the game does not necessarily signify an understanding of the game, nor does exacting ability necessarily signify the ability to teach, and simply because this has not been realised many a young player has been at an early age imbued with fundamentally wrong ideas, with resulting irreparable harm, by some efficient player but inefficient though well-meaning coach. Indeed this must happen all over the time, for coaches who really understand lawn tennis technique are few and very far between."

ONLY HALF TRUTH

We feel that Mr. Austin's criticism of the professionals in this country is but half the truth. Admittedly there is a dearth of good coaches, but those who are selected to give coaching by the county associations under the official L.T.A. scheme are picked men whose services are usually retained by the counties year after year, following a report on their capabilities at the close of the season. The system under which reputable coaches are registered with the Lawn Tennis Association assures that the pseudo-coach or "quack" is barred from the recognised list. Anyone engaging the services of a coach not on the L.T.A. register does so at his own risk.

On the subject of champions Austin reaches a conclusion which will probably meet with general agreement, "that champions are born, not made." One of the chief difficulties which beset lawn tennis playing nations, he points out, is the question of how best to bring on their young players and develop them into champions. This question is made particularly difficult by the fact that in the past champions have been independent of any "influence exerted, or schemes set on foot, to help in their production. They are contrary beings. When least expected they arise, when most expected they are not forthcoming. When, for example a nation possesses great players who are willing to play with and encourage the young idea when indeed the time seems most ripe for the production of champions, they seem loath to appear. When on the other hand a country's tennis is at a very low ebb and there seems no reason why a champion should appear, two or three players will suddenly arise and raise that country to a position of supremacy. Their arrival, too, is invariably quite independent of coaching schemes. A country may have vast coaching schemes and many promising players under supervision, but the champion, you may be sure, will not come from these; he will come from some entirely unexpected quarter, quite independently of all the schemes set forward to produce him. To prove these points one has only to study the lawn tennis history of the post-war years.

CHARACTERISTICS NEEDED

It seems clear, says Mr. Austin, that character plays the most important part in the production of a champion. A player to succeed must possess, as anybody to succeed in any walk of life must possess them, the characteristics of determination and perseverance. Two players with little natural aptitude, Wilding and Lacoste, made themselves into great champions simply because they possessed these characteristics in an unusual degree. No player, however great his talent, can become a champion without them. A would-be champion must be prepared, if not to devote all his energies to the game, at least to give up everything which may in any way impair his ability as a player, and to do everything which may increase that ability. Nothing must deflect him from his purpose.

"Though the foregoing may seem to argue that coaches and coaching are useless, Mr. Austin does not believe this. Mlle. Lenglen was a product of coaching—by her father. Both Lacoste and Wilding were coached—by themselves.

At the present moment, concludes Mr. Austin, we are apt to scoff at anyone who studies the game scientifically, unless of course that person has once been a great player, refusing to believe that anyone who cannot play can have correct theories, forgetting that most players who can play have no theories and no need of theories (or think they have no need) because they do most things naturally correctly. "Ask Fred Perry how he plays. He is proud of the fact that he does not know, but he does know because he is a natural lawn tennis genius. You cannot then expect Fred Perry to teach well if he does not know how he plays. How can you expect any player to teach well who plays naturally like Perry? I do not rule out the good players as teachers but before they can teach they must, besides being good players, have studied the game scientifically and have discovered the basic principles of stroke production, adherence to or violation of which makes the difference between the champion and the inferior player. Once this is realised coaches may be selected not because they are good players but because they are good coaches. And once good coaches are selected, men about, we may say some fruit born of all the wide coaching schemes which are set on foot."

'REVENGE' ON WOMEN

New York, July 10.
Flushed and breathless a young New Yorker, who said he was the heir to a wealthy estate agent's fortune, ran into a San Francisco police station this morning and cried: "I want to be hanged."

"Why?" asked the inspector, thinking him crazy.

"Give me a cigarette and I'll tell you," said the young man. "My name is Albert Walter. I am twenty-eight."

"I have murdered a girl—Blanche Cousins. I can't sleep. I'll take you to her."

He did. The police went with him to an apartment in the exclusive Nob-Hill district and found a scene very similar to that which confronted New York detectives recently when they discovered the bath-tub murder of Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton, wife of the Yorkshire writer and radio executive, Lewis Titterton.

STOCKING MURDER

A pretty girl was strangled by her own stocking. Her clothes had been torn from her.

Excitedly, Walter told the detectives:

"I went with the girl to her apartment for dinner. I made violent love to her."

She repulsed me, so I disrobed her, carried her to the bed and attacked her. To make sure she was dead I knotted a stocking around her neck and tied it to the bedpost.

"I think I killed Blanche in revenge against women in general. I hate women, and I knew I'd kill one sooner or later. That is why I left my wife."

Walter was married a year ago to a Canadian girl.

SATURDAY RACING
AT NEWMARKET
FOR FIRST TIME EVER
NEXT MAY

London.
The coronation of King Edward on May 12, 1937, has caused an alteration in the racing programme and Newmarket, headquarters of racing, will have a Saturday programme for the first time in history.

The Jockey Club, which rules racing here, has changed the date of the second Spring meeting at Newmarket from May 11, 12 and 13 to May 13, 14 and 15.—United Press.

COUNTY CRICKET
RAIN INTERFERES WITH MATCHES

London, July 18.
Rain interfered with the programme of matches in the County Cricket Championship to-day, three of them not being started at all. Warwickshire was to have played Sussex at Birmingham, Worcester was to have played Leicester at Worcester, and Glamorgan was to have met Essex at Pontefract but no play was possible.

The lowest score of the day was made by Somerset, who compiled only 39 runs against Hampshire at Southampton. The Indian tourists made 219 for eight wickets against Derbyshire.

Scores: Lancashire:—272; Surrey:—25 for two.
Yorkshire:—221; Nottingham:—8 for no wicket.
Somerset:—39 (Herman 5 for 23); Hampshire:—122 for seven.
All-India:—219 for eight wickets; v. Derbyshire.
Middlesex:—313; Kent:—48 for one.—Reuter.

NOT BEING RECALLED
L. AMAR NATH'S RETURN TO ENGLAND NOT DESIRABLE

Bombay, July 18.
L. Amar Nath, the young Indian all-round cricketer, who was sent back to India from England recently as a "disciplinary measure", is definitely not returning to England.

The decision for this followed an intimation by the Indian Board of Control from the Captain of the team, the Maharaj Kumar of Vizianagram, and the manager, Major Ricketts, that his return was not desirable.

LOCAL BASEBALL

Eastern Outfits's First Win In League

The Eastern outfit won their first game in the Hongkong Baseball League on Saturday afternoon when they met and beat the Canadians by 7-1 in a game which was both fast and exciting. Great improvement was shown by both teams. M. de Arellano, pitching the whole game for the winners, fanning eight batters and allowing eight hits to be registered. S. Hamet was steady at first base and concluded a good afternoon's work by hitting a home run.

Pitching for the Canadians, Bill Muir did not aim to strike out the batters but relied on his fielders to give him the support.

The Canadians scored two runs in the second innings, one in third, sixth and seventh, while the Eastern boys registered three in the second, three in the fourth and one in the fifth.

BRITAIN BEATEN

Victory By Budge
Over Perry

London, July 18.
A victory by Donald Budge over Fred Perry, the Wimbledon champion, enabled the United States to beat Great Britain in their friendly tennis contest at Eastbourne, which was played on Davis Cup lines.

With America leading by two matches to one after Bryan Grant and Donald Budge, of America, had beaten G. F. Hughes and G. R. D. Tuckey, the contest was continued to-day when the two remaining singles were played.

In the first match, "Bunny" Austin put Britain on level terms by beating Bryan Grant by 6-4, 6-2 and 6-2. Fred Perry, however, succumbed to Donald Budge, the fiery-haired young American, who won by 9-7, 7-5, 8-10 and 7-5 after a terrific struggle.—Reuter.

Messages from India last week stated that the Nawab of Bhopal, President of the Indian Board, had sent a personal but firm request to the Captain and the Manager to recall Amar Nath so that he could begin time to participate in the Second Test at Manchester on July 25. It was also stated that the Maharaj Kumar of Vizianagram was willing to accede to the request, now that the effect of his necessary disciplinary measure had been felt.

When You Cannot Sleep

That to many people sleep does not come easily these hot nights is merely an uncomfortable fact attributable to the torrid season. But if you find insomnia becoming chronic, then you may be sure that some cause other than the heat is responsible.

Sleeplessness, jumpy nerves, irritability, nervous indigestion, and a tendency to worry and mental depression, are nerve disorders which generally indicate that the blood is impoverished, and lacking, especially, in iron.

One of the important constituents of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is iron in the particular form of medication most favoured by modern medical science.

This iron is readily assimilated and quickly absorbed into the blood where it begins its beneficial work at once. And since nobody can be well and have strong nerves unless they have sufficient iron, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are needed by nine out of every ten persons at some time or other.

So if you are a victim of sleeplessness or any other trouble due to impoverished blood begin your cure with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without delay. Your chemist can supply them.

MID-SUMMER vacation time is here.

Go for your holiday in the right spirit. The conventional is to be unconventional. Forget that you live up in the Peak or in Kowloon. Start the trip when you board the ship at the wharves or in mid-harbour. End it when you leave the vessel at the same places. That is the proper way to set about your holiday.

Be sure to have your right clothes. Few and correct are better than the principle of lots bought in haphazard fashion.

A semi-evening frock handy for the first and last night, when nobody changes. A big blanket coat for chilly nights on deck up in Japan. Bathing kit; a shore-going suit, with the proper accessories, not forgetting the sort of shoes that won't make your feet ache when it comes to climbing Fujiyama or other sight-seeing tours.

It isn't a bad plan to take old favourites, for you'll be surprised what a test walking really is after you've been used to rickshaws and the lazy life of Hongkong.

Shore-Going Plans

YOU'LL find that afternoon clothes are hardly wanted. It is a case of bathing gear or the evening gown, and one good expedition frock.

Don't forget that north of Shanghai you'll strike a wayward climate, and it is quite wise to have something by you that'll be warm. Sometimes it can be unbelievably warm in Japan, but it can also be cold.

Make your plans for shore-going early on. At most of the romantic spots you can't see everything, and to attempt to do so is to ruin the lot. It is always worth while studying a hand-book on points of interest before arrival (these are generally to be obtained on board), so that you may have some idea what is afoot.

Minor Casualties

TUCK into your case one of the advertised sea-sick remedies. If only to give you moral support. It is worth it. As to the casualties of cruising, beware of sunbath. You can't go brown as a berry all in a moment or you will be red as a beetroot. More cruises have been spoilt than I like to tell by people who have determined to return home looking like desert dwellers, but who have found themselves in puerile acid bandages instead. It won't do.

It is no good falling in love with the wireless officer! He may look young and dashing, but he is probably an honest-to-goodness husband and father. He looks divine in blue and gold (uniforms) is a prevalent disease aboard, but if you saw him wheeling out the pram on his very short leaves I doubt if you would be so much impressed.

Go in for everything on board the moment you have settled down to things. Take your fun where and as you find it, but never try to take it back with you. You'll probably meet some charming folk, maybe have a flirtation or two. But don't try to take these things back home with you when the holiday is over. Rather regard them as happy incidents to look back on through the year.

To sum it all up in a sentence—never forget that the cruise ended the cruise.

Companions

Small, but right, is the ideal cruising outfit. A cool sports suit, an uncrushable evening gown, a cosy woollen, flat heeled sandals and a brimmed hat, all in a chosen colour scheme, are good companions on the decks. Cruise with the blues is fashion's slogan. Add red and white for a popular nautical trio.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed Feeling
You Could Push a Bus Over

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, gas builds up your stomach, you get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. Bile, fiery drinks, palatable laxatives and harsh purgatives are makable. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes the famous, sure acting Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's on his red package.

BATHING IN NUDE
PLAINLY VISIBLE TO PASSING MOTORISTS.

Caught bathing in the nude near the third milestone on the Taiipo Road on July 17, Chan Sang, aged 28, a coolie, was charged with indecent exposure, before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday.

Defendant pleaded that he did not know the customs of Hongkong or the regulations.

Lance-Sergeant Bentley stated that he saw defendant and six other men bathing without any clothing on the Taiipo Road at a spot just about 10 yards off the main road. The hour was about 6.10 p.m. and they were plainly visible to motorists, who were passing in large numbers at the time.

Defendant was warned not to repeat the offence, and fined $1 or three days' imprisonment.

FAMOUS GERMAN FILM STAR DISAPPEARS FOR AN IDEAL

JANNINGS GIVES UP FAME

EMIL JANNINGS, three years ago the most famous actor in the world, has, for the sake of an ideal, disappeared from the view of millions of film fans in Britain and the United States.

"What has happened to Jannings?"

This question has been asked over and over again by cinema-goers, who have never forgotten his brilliant work in "The Blue Angel," Marlene Dietrich's first famous film, and in "The Last Command," a picture which brought him the Motion Picture Academy's award.

California Opens A "Charm" College

San Diego, Calif., July 1.
The "College of Charm," founded on the theory that men can be judged from form charts and breeding history like race horses, held its first exposition, goes further than mere making. In fact picking it but the freshman course and from there you get down to the serious business of cash-in on your pick.

The way it started, somebody said it was National Romance Week, and while no one could figure out why or who had designated it such, ideas began bursting from the fertile minds of the press department like rowboats after a warm spring shower. Bing! Just like that.

"It's leap year and we thought if the girls are to make the most of it they'd better know what they want and how to get it. It will save them lots of time and they'll get a better man," said Pretty Irene Silver of the "Faculty."

HAIRCUTS IMPORTANT
A man's family background, physical and mental size and whether he cuts his hair regularly are important matters, Miss Silver said. A quick, thorough shave of these and similar matters should enable a young woman to tell after the first date (if she is a C, or C, grad, of course) if a prospect will make a nice safe husband or an ash-on-the-rug-sitter, a Zlonchuck, or a wife-beater.

Interpretation of the many strands in the wind which might ordinarily be overlooked is one of the main preliminaries on which the college hopes for success. Miss Silver said in explaining that a little thing like letting his eyes follow every shapely girl who passes might mark a man as a potential philanderer.

After they get him all sized up like a bay gelding in the eighth at Santa Ana, the next step is to decide without hesitation whether he's a worth-while bet and if so to move in with the heavy artillery.

From there it's every girl for herself, but the college aims to implant sound theory in such matters as when and when not to be kissed, clothes, make-up and personality.

"That kissing is a touchy point," said Miss Silver. "And especially in the first date. Some men have to be kissed the first time or they won't come back, and other would think a girl too forward. Every case is an individual problem."

And after the first date? "Well," said Miss Silver, "we can't teach them everything."

United Press.

Now the whole story of Jannings' disappearance from the world cinema scene has been pieced together.

Several of the people who knew him and worked with him in his heyday—Conrad Veidt, director Paul Czinner, producer Erich Pommer, Paul Rotha did not know where he was or what he was doing. But Miss Elsie Cohen, an authority on Continental films, told his story.

BANNED PICTURE

"Jannings," she said, "has just made a picture called 'Trautman' in Germany. But you won't be able to see it. The Film Censor refused to pass it."

This scrap of information was the clue which enabled the piecing-together of the mystery of Jannings' disappearance.

He has sacrificed fame for an ideal. He preferred to work for Germany, the country he loves, than to earn a fabulous salary in Hollywood.

The German Government appealed to Jannings to stay in his own country, because he was in sympathy with the new Nazi regime.

PATRIOTISM FIRST

Offers poured in from all the American companies, but he remained firm. Fume, he thought, was a poor thing compared with patriotism. So he faded almost voluntarily out of the picture.

Jannings remains the world's greatest actor—his performance in "The Old and the Young King" showed that—but he is no longer box-office.

MUTINY "BABY" DEAD

LIFE-WORK OF SOLDIER'S DAUGHTER

Miss Georgina Montgomery, the Countess of Essex, who has died in Alton Hospital at the age of 80, was born in Agra during the Indian Mutiny. She was the daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel George James Montgomery, 15th Bengal Native Infantry.

For 35 years Miss Montgomery was the district nurse at Alton, where for 40 years she had lived with a friend, Miss Lyster, whom she met while on holiday in Ireland.

Miss Montgomery's code was expressed in a card hanging in the passage of her house: "I believe in hands that work, brains that think, and hearts that love."

SONGS YOU WILL SING THIS SUMMER

WHEREVER you go this summer—to the beaches, week-end picnics or bathing parties, to the cabarets or at the Gripps—you will hear "Lost," the song that will be this summer's big hit.

It is the successor to "Alone," the song that enjoyed as great a popularity as "Isle of Capri."

"Lost—a heart as good as new, Lost—the moment I found you, Lost or strayed or stolen away, Finders keepers—lovers weepers, Lost—two lips that look like mine, Found two lips that look divine Lost—my heart but I was lucky too, Because I lost my heart to you."

Soon, everybody will be "Lost," just as everybody was "Alone"—crooners, dancers, seaside romances and Julietts.

It will be the piano piece that will be strummed by the concert party minstrel on his old banjo, it will be churned out by barrel organs—and you will hum, whistle and dance to it.

A rollicking chorus song something like "Let's All Sing Like the Birdies Sing"—you remember that—called "Nothing at all in Particular," is another one you'll learn.

"Let's sing a song about Nothing at all in particular La la la—off we go again Let's sing a song about Nothing at all in particular."

Not much in it perhaps, but just the kind of nonsense we like to shout on holidays.

"Please Believe Me" is destined to maintain its popularity, "Lights Out" will be the fade-out in many shows, while a song about the Queen Mary, Queen of the Sea, will also be used to build up the sea scenes.

These are among the favourites from the 200 songs published this year.

KING'S LEAD MINES A FAILURE

Wirksworth, July 1.
For more than 800 years the little Moot Court of Wirksworth in Derbyshire has been holding regular sittings but, recently, for the first time in history it found that it had nothing to do, except to carry out ancient ceremonial. This ancient grand Barmote Court holds legal administration over the lead mines of the King's Field—an area of 20 miles in circumference.

The court's duties embrace the apportionment of lead from the mines between the miners and the King. A grand jury, comprised of local miners, weighs the lead—every six months. Each thirteenth dish is set aside for the King, but at this recent court there was no lead to weigh and, therefore, none to give to the King.

MANY DEAD IN SPANISH CIVIL WAR British Subjects Endangered GOVERNMENT AEROPLANES BOMBING TOWNS

Gibraltar, July 20.

Despite the vigorous censorship and the severance of all telephonic communication, it appears that civil war is raging throughout a wide area in Spain and Malaga, where the considerable British colony is reportedly aflame.

Heavy fighting has occurred at the frontier town of Lainea, and numbers of wounded men and women are being brought into Gibraltar by the military authorities.

Among these wounded, who are being rushed to hospital, is an Englishman, Mr. Edward Marshall, ex-manager of the Y. M. C. A. at Gibraltar, who is suffering from bullet wounds.—Reuter.

HEAVY CASUALTIES

It is reported that over 50 are dead and over 100 wounded in the border town of Lainea.—United Press.

Fighting Reported

Madrid, July 20.
An official broadcast stated today that loyal warships had been ordered to leave the Bay of Cádiz and return to the Bay of Algeciras, indicating that the situation has reached a stage of rebellion.

The Royalists fought for transport attempting to land Moorish troops at Cádiz. The Government hoped the workers could prevent an invasion of Seville.

Shambles at Lainea

Gibraltar, July 20.
The streets of the border city of Lainea are littered with dead as a result of the fighting between the Moorish troops and the Spanish Government forces.

The Moors carried rifles and grenades and rode the streets in trucks. Earlier they had set fire to a number of houses, and burned the streets of the city. The sounds of fighting are clearly audible in Gibraltar.

Warship With Rebels

A Spanish warship has joined the rebels, and escorted a steamer loaded with Moorish troops across the Bay of Gibraltar, to Algeciras. Communications are cut, but it is indicated that the rebels completely controlled Algeciras.

The new Government is as bad as the old, said the Moors when disembarking at Cádiz in order to march to Seville. "We will execute Mija as soon as he falls into our hands."

Press Pessimism

Madrid, July 20.
Republican newspapers are more pessimistic than Government or Liberal. "Events lead us to think that Government and people will be forced to fresh sacrifice in defence of the Republic.

"Everyone should be alert to lend the Government aid and encouragement if required," the press urges.—United Press.

Situation Grave

Madrid, July 19.
The situation in Spain and in the capital itself, remains critical. Many soldiers have taken advantage of the Government's offer to allow them to abandon their regiments if they do not sympathize with their officers and hundreds have offered their services to the Government.

The authorities in Madrid have armed a mob, and taxicabs loaded with rifles, revolvers and daggers are to be seen in the streets.

Several large loads of munitions from the North-west of Spain arrived in Madrid today and placed themselves at the disposal of the authorities.

The rebels, however, are in possession of the broadcasting station and telephone exchange in Seville, though the Government claims to have the situation well in hand there, and elsewhere throughout the country.

British Apprehension

Gibraltar, July 19.
Two British destroyers here have been ordered to stand by in case it is found necessary to evacuate British nationals from Spain.

More gunboats, carrying 100 troops have arrived at Algeciras from Africa.

Mol law rules in Lainea, the crowd burning cars and houses belonging to Fascists.—Reuter.

Madrid, July 19.
The Government continues to claim that the revolt, which began in Morocco and admittedly spread to many parts of Spain, has been overcome.

The Cabinet, headed by Senor Quiroga, resigned early this morning when it was announced that Senor Diego Barrios, president of the Cortes, had formed a new government. However, it was subsequently reported that Senor Jose Giral, former Minister of the Navy, would become Prime Minister.

The new Cabinet is apparently similar in complexion to the last. For instance, Senor Barcia, Foreign Minister in the last government, will become Minister of the Interior.

Firing in Madrid

It is officially stated that there has been no rising in Madrid, but desultory shooting has been in progress for some time.

A communiqué states the rebels attacked the prison in Barcelona, but were repulsed with the aid of Air Force machines.

Two loyal regiments are said to have attacked Cádiz, where the Governor is besieged in his palace.—Reuter.

RUN-AWAY PLANES IN H.K.

These four Canton planes were among the sixty-odd which deserted to Nanking Saturday. One of them brought General K. Y. Wong, Air force commander, here. They are being detained by the local authorities.

"SPAIN SAVED"

Revolt Leader Optimistic MARCHING ON MADRID
(Special To "Telegraph")

Lisbon, July 19.
General Delano, commanding the garrison forces in Seville, and who has joined the revolt, has broadcast a message from General Franco, the leader of the rebellion who disembarked at Cádiz today with troops of the Morocco Foreign Legion. These men are amongst the finest in the Spanish army.

General Franco's message was to the effect that his garrisons of Andalusia were gradually joining the movement, as was the Navy. "No earthly power can stop our triumphant movement," he declared. "Spain is saved!"

General Franco intimated that the rebels intend to march on Madrid.—Reuter Special.

Paris, July 19.
A message from Melilla declares that three Spanish warships, sent against the insurgents have joined the rebels.

On the other hand the Moroccan correspondents of French newspapers confirm that squadrons of loyal aeroplanes, bombed Ceuta, Melilla, Larache and Tetuan. Three machines, which landed in French Morocco have been interned.—Reuter Special.

TETUAN BOMBED

Rabat, July 19.
A Spanish Government aeroplane today bombed Tetuan, killing twenty people, including three children.

The rebels at Tetuan have taken prisoner the acting High Commissioner, also the Secretary-General, the Police Commissioner and fifty other officials.—Reuter.

TWO TYPHOONS LATEST MANILA REPORTS

The Manila Observatory, reporting at 9 a.m. today, gives the position of two typhoons.

One is situated in about Long. 111, Lat. 17, moving north-west. This position is in the region of the Paracels, and the disturbance is moving in the direction of the Gulf of Tongking.

The other is situated in about 127 Long, 20 Lat., also moving north-west. The position is west of the Ballintang Channel.

The Royal Observatory reports:—Pressure remains highest over the Pacific to the south-east of Japan. The typhoon is situated between Hainan and the Paracels, moving slowly W.N.W.—Local forecast:—East winds; fresh; cloudy generally, occasional rain.

FIRST ROUND OF OLYMPIC GAMES
JAPAN MEETS SWEDEN

Berlin, July 19.
Britain has been drawn to meet China in the first round of the football section of the Olympic Games.

In the same round, Japan will meet Sweden.—Reuter.

China, as one of the youngest and most inexperienced of participants in international sporting contests, is also one of the unluckiest. In the Davis Cup she has always drawn powerful countries in the first round, and now comes the news that her football team has been drawn against Britain in the first round of the World Olympic tournament.

It is a bitter disappointment to Chinese hopes of making something of a showing in football at Berlin. It means that, barring a miracle, she cannot consider the possibility of surviving.

Curiously enough, it was only at the last minute Britain decided to compete. Hitherto she has fought shy of the World Olympics football tournament.

BRITAIN A FAVOURITE

China therefore meets one of the favourites. Britain will be in a position to turn out a brilliant team of amateurs. In 1934-35 England won the Amateur International Championship, but last season she was defeated by Scotland.

Some of England's leading amateur players, who are bound to be considered for Berlin are H. C. Hill of York-shire Amateurs, A. W. Loveday of Leyton, G. S. Burrell of Bromford, L. C. S. Eastham of the Army, B. Joy of the Casuals, T. H. Leek (Moor Green), W. Parr (Blackpool), E. D. R. Sherrin (Casuals), W. Charlton (Whitby), L. C. Thornton (Kingstonian) and L. C. Finch (Barclay).

China's misfortune in the draw is emphasised by the fact that Japan has drawn Sweden. To have met either of these countries would have given China an excellent chance of advancing into another round. Her team is probably a bit better than Japan's and very nearly as good as Sweden's.

Wai-long hoped China would oppose Sweden as he felt this would be the most advantageous draw for China.

PERRY TO PAY VISIT TO ORIENT

FAMOUS TENNIS STAR'S PLAN

According to a report published by the Shanghai Times Fred Perry, world's tennis champion, and his actress-wife Helen Vinson, will pay a visit to the Orient next year.

The newspaper publishes extracts from a letter received in Shanghai from Gordon Lum, the Chinese Davis Cup player, who says that he has arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Perry to visit Shanghai in 1937, and that he will announce fuller details later.

FINANCIAL CHANGES IN CANTON

NATIONAL DOLLAR TO BE ADOPTED? BANKERS TO ASSIST

Nanking, July 20.
Indicating a strong possibility of Kwangtung's adoption of the National currency system, it is reported that officials of the National Finance Ministry are giving serious thought to the rehabilitation in Kwangtung during the present transition period.

The readjustment will be carried out so that the people of Kwangtung will suffer the least financial hardship and inconvenience.

Banking experts of the Central Bank of China, Bank of China and Bank of Communications will be invited to participate in making this readjustment.

The value fixed for the redemption of the Canton Government banknotes will depend upon the amount of silver in Canton, the silver being that stocked following nationalisation of the metal.

RACING DRIVER KILLED

DEAUVILLE GRAND PRIX TRAGEDY
CAR BURSTS INTO FLAMES

Deauville, July 19.
The famous French racing driver, Marcel Lehoux, was killed during the Deauville Grand Prix to-day.

His British-built machine became locked with an Italian's, and burst into flames.

Lehoux's death was instantaneous.

The Italian driver, Farina, in an Alfa-Romeo, fractured his leg.

The winner of the race was W. L. Miller who won with an average speed of 78.31 miles per hour.—Reuter Special.

from Gordon Lum, the Chinese Davis Cup player, who says that he has arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Perry to visit Shanghai in 1937, and that he will announce fuller details later.

The announcement is of particular interest to Hongkong as it is fairly assured that if Mr. and Mrs. Perry visit Shanghai they will also call in at Hongkong.

KWANGTUNG REASSURED

Canton Declared Absolutely Safe

KWANGSI TROOPS HALT WITHIN OWN BORDERS

Canton, July 20.

Considerable relief has resulted from the announcement by General Miao Pei-nan, who assumed temporary control of military affairs to-day pending the arrival of General Yu Han-mow, that both the rumours that Japanese flying pilots and Kwangsi troops were within Kwangtung's borders are untrue.

He said the city of Canton was absolutely safe, his own crack troops of the Training Division having been recalled to Canton, some to garrison the city itself, and some to guard Samshui and other areas bordering on Kwangsi.

It is affirmed that prior to the departure of General Chan Chai-tong, the commander-in-chief requested the Kwangsi troops to discontinue their march towards Canton. Further, all Kwangtung generals remaining in command of troops are determined to keep the Kwangsi soldiers out. It is generally believed that with heavy Kwangtung forces in the West River area, the Kwangsi armies have little hope of entering Kwangtung.

These Cantonese troops, of General Yu Han-mow's First Army, which turned against General Chan Chai-tong and were instructed to march to Canton and take control in the name of the Nanking Government, are now believed to be pressing southwards on this mission. Here they are seen near the South-west capital, at Sham Shui, before their defection. Inset, General Yu.

Chiang Kai-shek Coming

Canton, July 20.
It is reliably reported that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek himself will come to Canton on July 25 or 26.—United Press.

Report of Skirmishes

Shanghai, July 20.
Vermacular papers report skirmishing between Kwangsi and Kwangtung troops near Yintak, a little to the north of Canton.—United Press.

Shiukwan Parley

A conference is now proceeding at Shiukwan between General Yu Han-mow and General Chang Ta, commander of the Second Kwangtung Army, who flew there this morning in connection with the military rehabilitation of the province.

Meanwhile, General Yu's representative, General Chen Chang-pu arrived in Canton by aeroplane this morning and announced that General Yu himself would arrive either tomorrow or next day, flying south from Shiukwan.

At present General Yu's troops are still marching south, in the vicinity of Shiukwan, and have requested the release of some rolling stock to transport some units to Canton.

Mr. Lin Yun-kai, civil Governor of Canton, and Mr. Liu Chi-wen, Mayor, who went to Hongkong just before Chan Chai-tong's departure, have returned to this city.—Reuter.

Strive For Peace

Canton, July 20.
Addressing the weekly Memorial Service to-day, Mr. Lin Yun-kai declared that Kwangtung had enjoyed real peace and order, and had achieved progress and reconstruction, but owing to the question of resistance against Japan their peace had been threatened.

He confirmed that General Chan Chai-tong had retired because he desired to avoid a dispute precipitating a crisis.

Presently, with General Yu Han-mow assuming the military control of the province, and General Miao Pei-nan, commander of the Fifth

OFFICIALLY ON SOUTH CRUISE
MAY GO TO CANTON

The cruiser Yat Sen, under instructions from Nanking, has joined the Central Government's gunboat, Tung Chi, in Hongkong.

The Naval authorities here state that the Chinese warships are in Hongkong in the course of "a southern cruise." The Yat Sen, which arrived to-day, put in for provisions and on account of the heavy weather.

However, unofficial sources suggest that the two warships, which will probably be joined by the cruiser Yung Kien, may proceed to Canton, possibly when General Yu Han-mow's troops are prepared to enter the city.

It is believed they are being held in readiness to act in the event of any disorders in Canton.

MOTH FOR CANTON

H.M.S. Moth has been ordered back to Canton. She left yesterday at 8 a.m.

Army, General Ho Lok, police commissioner, and General Li Shu-chung, commander of the Gen-darmes, making joint efforts to preserve peace, local conditions would remain quiet and the populace would not be disturbed.

Mr. Lin declared that he had held the Governorship for several years. He desired to take a rest, but in the

NEWS FOR Business Girls

HERE are two problems in business life for the serious-minded among you to solve.

One comes from a retired business woman who is finding her retirement lonely and irksome. The other is from a married woman who is frightened at the prospect of so many girls working in offices and ignoring the healthy calls of domesticity.

Too much Leisure

THE first had worked at her job for forty-six years and loved every day of it. Now she is bored. She does not like domestic work or needlework, and she is finding time hangs heavily on her hands.

This problem is one that our men colleagues have been facing for a long time—what to do with their lives when they retire from active mental work. Now business women are beginning to experience the same difficulty. If you have worked with your brain all your life you will not be able to give it up, and remain contented.

This difficulty is entering into the lives of younger business girls who marry. They find that housewifery, especially in Hongkong, does not occupy their brains sufficiently after the first novelty has worn off.

Home versus Office

THE second problem is one which does not as yet receive much attention in this Colony. Recently it has been taken up in Germany, where girls are encouraged to regard their homes as their career. Sedentary life is extremely bad for women. Fortunately, the harm it does is partially offset by the modern urge towards beauty; the office worker is paying more attention every year to keeping her body in perfect condition.

New and interesting opening for women should be recorded immediately they are available; head mistresses of girls' schools should be given particulars of them every half-year. Business girls waste much time and happiness in monotonous jobs without realising the possibilities of more interesting ones.

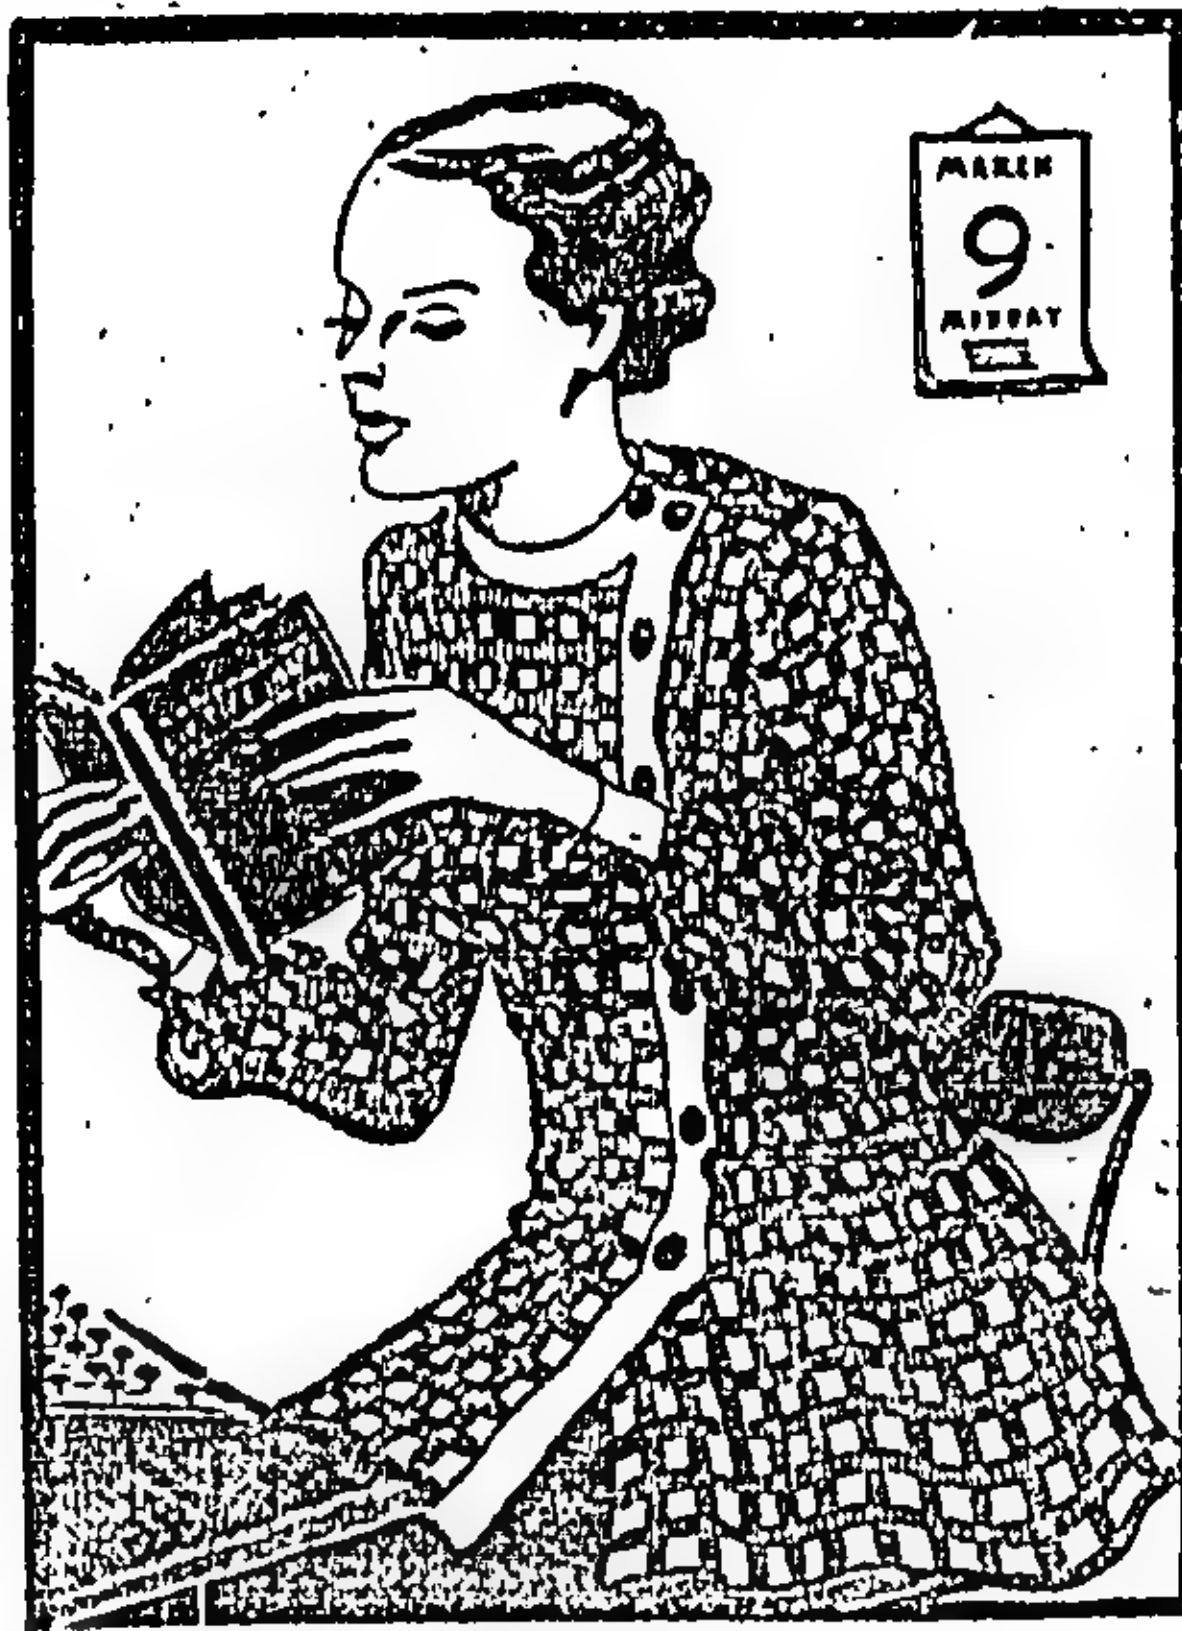

Cleaner Typewriters

HERE is a new way to keep your typewriter keys clean. A small hand roller with plastic material is run over the keys each morning. The dirt adheres to it and comes away from the keys leaving them spotless.

The same roller will clean stamp pads effectively. Cost is 5 s. and a refill of plastic material is 1 s. Half a dozen of these rollers would stock quite a large office.

To save your Clothes

A GOOD idea for business girls who find that their dresses lose their shape in the office is to have two skirt parts made to every top. For weekday dresses, wear one at the office while sitting all day—the other you can button on for outdoor wear. If you make your office dresses yourself, the extra expense will not be severe.

Protect your Clothes

HERE is an attractive overall to keep your dresses clean when you are in the office. It buttons all the way up the side, so can be slipped on easily over anything.

You can make it from three yards of material, cut out in one piece (sleeves separate).

Questions for Housewives

1. Of what is the best pastry board made?
2. How do you deal with a harder that is inclined to be damp?
3. What is a vegetable charlotte, and how would you make it?
4. Name the piece of furniture which like human beings, is subject to chills.
5. What is the marmalade maker's best friend and where do you find it?
6. Which is the best way to roast potatoes?

Here are the answers:

1. The best pastry "board" is a slab of marble. This keeps the pastry cool and is very easy to clean. 2. Place a jar of lime in your larder and it will keep the air sweet and dry. 3. A vegetable charlotte is a savoury dish composed of various vegetables. Clean and cut into regular sizes potatoes, carrots, artichokes, cauliflower, celery or any vegetables in season. Boil them in some good stock to which a cup of milk has been added. Strain and cover with a buttered fireproof dish, cover generously with grated cheese and little knobs of butter, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and bake until a golden brown. 4. A piano will take cold and deteriorate if it stands in a draught. So far as possible it should be kept in a warm, even temperature. 5. A cutting machine. This may be regulated to slice your oranges thickly or thinly, and it may be hired by the day from ironmonger or grocer. 6. Leave the peeled potatoes in hot water for a quarter of an hour before roasting them. This method improves the flavour and lessens the time required for roasting by one half.

A 1 Nation

ONE of the most remarkable things in modern times is the increased care and interest taken in the physical education and development of the young. Future generations will reap the benefit of all this attention; no longer will middle age be associated with an increase in weight and a lack of shape in the figure.

It is true, of course, that when exercise is carried to excess there appears to be an enormous amount of fat laid down directly vigorous life ceases. But for the ordinary person who has been trained from infancy to take a reasonable amount of exercise the habit is bound to persist in later life, so that the fifties will, not mean high blood pressure, hardened arteries and undue increase in weight.

The British Medical Association has made a report on physical education which should have a tremendous influence on the arrangement of our schools and public places for gymnasia and games generally.

The report says that the elementary schools have not been given sufficient facilities for allowing the children plenty of light and air and open-air exercise. In the public schools, on the other hand, games and athletics are pushed to such an extent that the correct muscular development of the boy may be neglected, and they urge more gymnasium work.

They suggest that physical education in schools should be considered under three main headings: Formal Training, Recreative Training, and Instruction in Hygiene. With regard to the universities, the committee says that physical education is usually given in the absence of the centres of higher learning. One important point which is stressed is the close relationship between mind and body, so that the modern system of education which trains the mind and neglects the body is obviously wrong.

The Central Council of Recreative Physical Training should unite itself to the Board of Education and the Voluntary Societies who have done so much to encourage individual fitness.

Their report goes on to state that the best way of promoting health and physique through physical recreation on a national scale is by co-ordinated action planned and carried out by some central authority which draws together existing experience and knowledge (such as is possessed by those bodies just mentioned) into a common pool.

WITH regard to school children, regular medical English children, never suffered from the brilliant sun to their inhabitants.

In Switzerland, in the clear mountain air, where the sun's rays come through a clear, unadorned atmosphere, tuberculosis and other pulmonary diseases clear up rapidly. And other health resorts in Switzerland looking quite thin and wasted in soon become bright-eyed, brown-skinned and fit. Germs cannot live on flourish in pure air, and it many invalids in this country were treated early enough, much pain and suffering would be spared.

At some of the day nurseries on the outskirts of Swiss towns which I visited some years ago the babies and toddlers were remarkable for their health and strength. A baby of nine months was almost equal in height and vigour to a child double his age brought up in a smoky industrial town.

In England pioneers have utilised the sunshine, fresh air and open surroundings to give many tubercular men and women a new lease of life. Some of these colonies are almost self-supporting, but apart from the value of such work, both for prevention and cure of one of our most scourges cannot be over-estimated.

Mothers should insist on their children obtaining the maximum amount of fresh air and exercise both to school and at home. Houses, servers pointed out that Italian children, who were poorly clad, and workshops should all be planned to give plenty of light and vigour to their inhabitants.

Gorgeous Pageantry Of Coronation Next May

London, July 12.

King Edward will be crowned England 38th monarch a year hence with some of the most gorgeous pageantry surviving in Europe to-day.

Peers and peeresses, hereditary noblemen whose claim to take part in the proceedings on May 12, 1937 has been recognised by the Court of Claims and other distinguished guests, will assemble in full robes and regalia in Westminster Abbey to await the arrival of the King and the royal procession. The Primate, archbishops, bishops and the Dean and prebendaries of Westminster in their state robes, princes and princesses of the blood royal and the royal guests and their suites await outside.

To the strains of an anthem the King, wearing the glorious coronation robes with their gold images before and behind, passes up the body of the church. Immediately preceding him walk the chosen lords, bishops and dignitaries bearing the royal regalia, the standards of the realm, the sceptre and the sword, the chalice and the Bible.

Passing the throne, the King walks to the faldstool before the Chair of State, on the south side of the altar, and kneels in private prayer before taking his seat.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, followed by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Great Chamberlain, Lord High Constable and Earl Marshal, preceded by Garter King of Arms, goes in arms to the four sides of the Theatre. Four times, once from each side, he declares in a loud voice: "Sir, I here present unto you King Edward, the undoubted King of this Realm; Wherefore all you who are come this day to do your homage and service, are you willing to do the same?"

GOD SAVE THE KING

Four times the great audience shouts "God save King Edward!"

A fanfare of trumpets heralds the procession of bishops who place the Bible, paten and chalice on the altar. The lords who carry the regalia draw near, and with the exception of the sword, hand to the Archbishop what they carry, to place on the altar.

The two golden spurs, the sceptre with the cross, signifying kingly power and justice; the sceptre with the dove, signifying equity and mercy; the orb, St. Edward's Staff, St. Edward's Crown, are handed over.

The four swords only remain. The sword of state, sword of mercy, and the pointed swords of temporal and spiritual justice.

THOUSANDS KNEEL

Thousands kneel while the service proceeds. The King places on his head a cap of crimson velvet, trimmed with ermine, while a short and suitable sermon is given.

The King replies, "I am willing."

"Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the Dominions thereto belonging, according to the Statutes in Parliament agreed on, and the respective Law and Customs of the same?"

Again the King replies, "I solemnly promise so to do."

Further promises regarding law, justice and mercy, the preservation of the rights of the Church, and maintenance of the laws of God are requested and given.

Then the King rises out of his chair, and assisted by the Lord Great Chamberlain, with the sword of state carried before him, walks to the altar. His head is now uncovered, and he makes his solemn oath in the sight of the people—his right hand upon the Holy Gospel in the great Bible—to observe his promises.

DISROBING THE KING

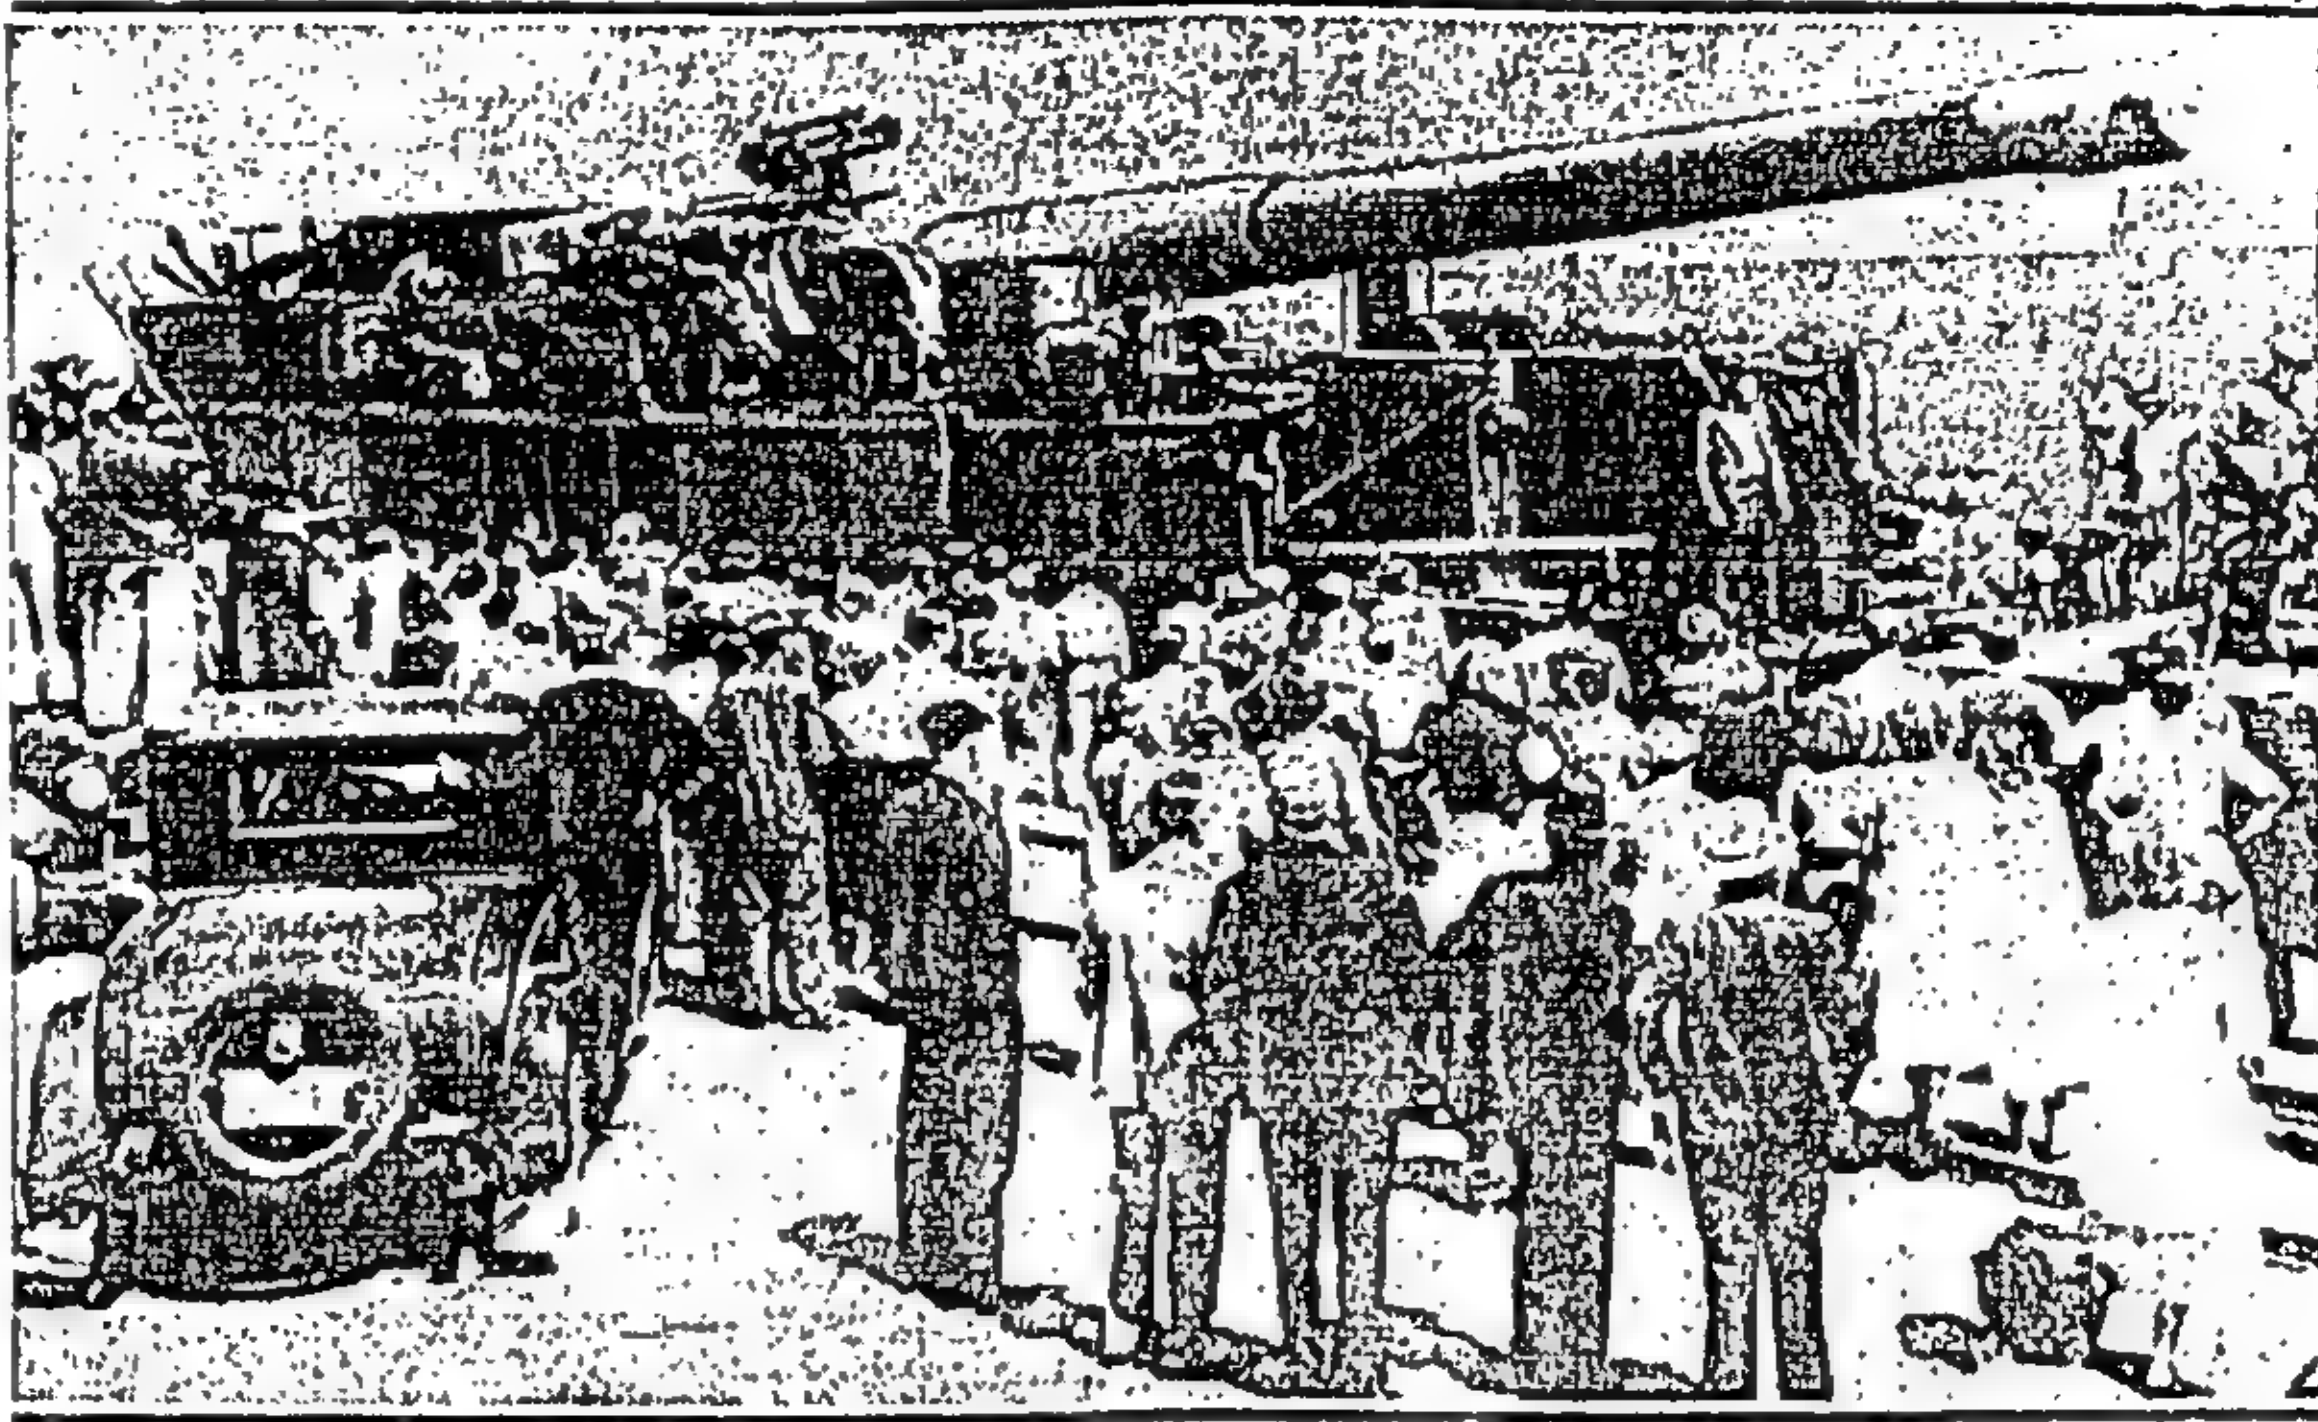

Next comes the anointing. The King is disrobed of his crimson robe by the Lord Great Chamberlain. His cap of state is removed, and he walks to the altar again.

There, awaiting him, is the great chair of Edward the Confessor, with a faldstool before it. Below is the historic Coronation Stone.

Four Knights of the Garter hold over the King a rich pall of cloth of gold. The Dean of Westminster takes from the altar the ampulla in the shape of a golden eagle and, from a spoon, pours holy oil through the eagle's mouth.

It is said that Thomas a Becket was praying in banishment in a church in Lyons, France, when the Virgin

MAN WHO WON ITALY'S WAR

ONE of the world's greatest experts on tropical diseases, "the man who won the war for Italy," is returning home to Britain.

He is Sir Aldo Castellani, the Italian-born Harley-street specialist.

As Commander-in-Chief of the Italian Medical Corps, Sir Aldo has been largely responsible for the good health of the Italian troops.

In his health report issued from Addis Ababa he reveals that there were no deaths from the tropical scourges of dysentery, typhoid, typhus, or relapsing fever on either of the two fronts.

Cholera and plague were unknown. Sanstroke proved to be the chief cause of mortality, but treatment was speedily devised to check causes in their early stages.

In order to deal with superheated six air conditioned hospital ships were sent out to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Cholera and typhoid were checked by the use of vaccines which Sir Aldo himself discovered, and by the sterilisation of all drinking water.

Italy had 20,000 hospital beds in Abyssinia, but, according to Sir Aldo, vaccination, inoculation, and camp hygiene were so successful that hospital orderlies, having nothing to do, were released for road-making and other tasks.

—Sir Aldo is expected home next month.

WE KEEP MALTA—AND KEEP IT SAFE

QUESTION-TIME spotlight was turned in Parliament recently on three persistent rumours.

1.—Britain could not hold Malta in time of war.

Sir Samuel Hoare (First Lord of the Admiralty):

"I am glad of the opportunity to contradict such reports."

"The Admiralty have no intention of abandoning Malta as the principal naval base in the Mediterranean and the headquarters of the Mediterranean Fleet."

"I would never say I was fully satisfied with any defence position, but I would state categorically that we will certainly take every practical means of making its defences secure against any possible attack."

2.—Cairo negotiations for a new Anglo-Egyptian treaty have been brought to a standstill by Britain's military demands.

Said Mr. Eden:

"There is not a word of truth in it."

"I do not think it is in the public interest that such a suggestion should be made."

3.—Recent visits of von Ribbentrop, Hitler's Foreign Ambassador, to London and Belfast are not without political significance.

Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, was questioned, in particular, on meetings between von Ribbentrop and Air Marshal Sir Edward Ellington, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, last month.

Why had these meetings been permitted?

No question of permission, Sir Philip replied. After all, the couple were fellow guests in a private house.

Dissatisfied M.P.s called on Mr. Baldwin.

The Premier rose heavily. "I should like to say here that I cannot understand the objections that have been raised."

when Red Lips
reveal White Teeth

Blue eyes or brown, raven curls or Titian—every man has his own ideal of loveliness. But there's one point on which all agree: pretty red lips must reveal really white teeth.

Prove this for yourself. "Maclean" your teeth night and morning and see how soon congratulations will come to you. For Macleans Peroxide Toothpaste gives your teeth new whiteness, new sparkle. No stain can resist Macleans, and it actually safeguards the enamel.

Ask for Macleans by name—it is the original Peroxide Toothpaste and the best.

When insects endanger your family's health—

Don't take chances with inferior insecticides

You would not knowingly endanger the health of your family. Then why take chances with weak insecticides? These worthless substitutes fail to kill—they fail to protect your health—they fail to safeguard you from the torment of insects—they waste your money. For safety's sake, be sure you get FLIT. FLIT really kills insects—and they stay dead! FLIT spray does not stain. Always insist on getting the yellow tin with the soldier and black band. To guarantee you against fraudulent re-filling, the FLIT tin is sealed for your protection.

and the dietetic value of

During recent years favourable clinical results have been obtained in the employment of butter-milk.

Confined formerly to the treatment of diarrhoea, dysentery, and such disorders, the use of buttermilk is now frequently prescribed for infants and as a supplementary food for breast fed babies of delicate digestion.

Eledon is constant in composition and degree of acidity, and may therefore be used with confidence in all cases where buttermilk is indicated especially if required in regular quantities.

SONGS YOU WILL SING THIS SUMMER

WHEREVER you go this summer—to the beaches, week-end picnics or bathing parties, to the cabarets or at the Gripps—you will hear "Lost," the song that will be this summer's big hit.

It is the successor to "Alone" the song that enjoyed as great a popularity as "Isle of Capri."

"Lost a heart as good as new, Lost the moment I found you, Lost or strayed or stolen away, Finders keepers—losers weepers, Lost—two lips that look like mine, Found two lips that look like mine, Lost—my heart but I was lucky too, Because I lost my heart to you."

Soon, everybody will be "Lost," just as everybody was "Alone"—crooners, dancers, seaside romances and Julietts.

It will be the piano piece; it will be strummed by the concert party, ministered in his old lounge, it will be hummed out by barrel organs, and you will hum, whistle and dance to it.

A rollicking chorus song something like "Let's All Sing Like the Birdies Sing"—you remember that—called "Nothing at all in Particular," is another one you'll learn.

"Let's sing a song about Nothing at all in particular, La la la—off we go again, Let's sing a song about Nothing at all in particular."

Not much in it perhaps, but just the kind of nonsense we like to shout on holidays.

"Please Believe Me" is destined to maintain its popularity. "Lights Out" will be the fade-out in many shows, while a song about the Queen Mary, Queen of the Sea, will also be used to build up the sea scenes.

These are among the favourites from the 200 songs published this year.

California Opens A "Charm" College

San Diego, Calif., July 1. The "College of Charm" founded on the theory that men can be judged from form charts and breeding like race horses, held its first class with the hope its graduates would pick more winners than the average horse player.

The college, a sort of press-agent-sponsored institution at the California Exposition, goes further than mere picking. In fact picking is but the freshman course and from there you get down to the serious business of enshrinement on your picks.

The way it started, somebody said it was National Romance Week, and while no one could figure out why or how it had started, it was a college of the fertile minds of the press department like rosebuds of a warm spring shower and the College of Charm was born. Bing! Just like that.

"It's leap year and we thought if the girls are to make the most of it they'd better know what they want and how to get it. It will save them lots of time, and they'll get better men," said Pretty Irene Silver of the "faculty."

HAIRCUTS IMPORTANT

A man's family background, physical and mental size and whether he cut his hair regularly are important items, Miss Silver said. A quick, thorough size-up of these and similar matters should enable a young woman to tell after the first date (if she is a C. of C. grad, of course) if a prospect will make a nice safe husband or an on-the-rug-seatter, a Ziegfeld, or a wife-beater.

Interpretation of the many strands of the wind which might ordinarily be overlooked is one of the main premises of the college boys for success, Miss Silver said in explaining that a little thing like letting his eyes follow every shapely girl who passed might mark a man as a potential philanderer.

After they get him all sized up like a bay gelding in the eighth at Santa Ana, the next step is to decide without hesitation whether he's a worth-while bet and if so to move in with the heavy artillery.

"That kissing is a touchy point," said Miss Silver. "And especially on the first date. Some men have to be kissed on the first time or they won't come back, and other would think a girl too forward. Every case is an individual problem."

And after the first date?
"Well," said Miss Silver, "we can't teach them everything."

present circumstances he feels he is in duty bound to continue at his post so that administrative affairs will not come to a complete standstill.

Danger Eliminated

Canton, July 20. War clouds were entirely eliminated in South China during the week-end with the resignation of General Chan Chai-tong, who has been Commander-in-chief of Canton for the past seven years. The Nanking Government has entrusted the military affairs in Kwangtung to General Han-mow (Commander of the First Kwangtung Army), while three to five high officials of the Central Government will be sent to Canton to supervise the rehabilitation works during the transition period.

It is understood that a former Commander-in-chief of the Kwangtung Navy, Admiral Chan Chai, has been instructed by Nanking to bring down three Nanking cruisers to Canton. Admiral Chan Chai will assume command of the Kwangtung Navy.

Reorganization of Kwangtung finance is another big problem facing the Central Government. In this connection it is rumoured that certain high officials of the Nanking Finance Ministry, now in Hongkong, may be appointed to take temporary charge of the finance administration in Canton.

As regards the Kwangtung troops, the Nanking Government will permit them to retreat to Kwangsi, taking a lenient attitude towards Generals Li Chung-jen and Pei Chung-hsi.

Li Chung-jen Quits

Canton, July 20. General Li Chung-jen, Commander of the Kwangtung 4th Group Army, who has decided to resign from his post, left the city for Wu-chow last Saturday at 7 p.m. by the plane Kai Ming of the South-west Aviation Corporation. He proceeded to Nanning, capital of Kwangsi, yesterday. He will have a conference with General Pei Chung-hsi, Vice Commander of the 4th Group Army, to decide his future. The Special Affairs Battalion of Kwangtung, which came to the city a few days ago, left here by the Canton-Shanghai Railway yesterday.

KING'S LEAD MINES A FAILURE

Wirksworth, July 1. For more than 300 years the little Moot Court of Wirksworth in Derbyshire has been holding regular sittings but, recently, for the first time in history it found that it had nothing to do, except to carry out ancient ceremonial. This ancient grand Barmote Court holds legal administration over the lead mines of the King's Field—an area of 20 miles in circumference.

The court's duties embrace the appointment of lead from the mines between the miners and the King. A grand jury, comprised of 12 miners, weighs the lead—every six months. Each thirteen-inch dish is set aside for the King, but at this recent court there was no lead to weigh and, therefore, none to give to the King.

Three Premiers

Madrid, July 19. The confusion in Spain is exemplified by the fact that three premiers have held office in the past fifteen hours.

The new Cabinet formed by Senator Giral includes General Pozas as Minister of the Interior, instead of Senator Barcia. At a Cabinet meeting last night, two non-members attended. They were the Leftist leaders, Senor Prieto and Senor Caballero, who offered to collaborate with the Government for the purpose of suppressing the revolt.

The Minister of the Interior announced over the radio this afternoon that arms would be distributed to the villagers who wished to organise against the rebels. He added that the rebels at Melilla had been routed and those at Barcelona and Malaga had surrendered. He denied that any forces were marching on Madrid.—Reuter.

KIDNAPPER GETS THREE YEARS SEVEN-YEAR-OLD BOY STOLEN

"The crime is a cruel one, and I have no hesitation in punishing you severely, just as you may have punished this little boy," remarked the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Criminal Sessions this morning when he passed sentence of three years' hard labour on Lau Nam, a 30-old earth-carrying coolie, who was found guilty on a charge of stealing a 7-year-old child named Young Sik-ping.

Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General, appeared for the prosecution, and the accused was not legally represented.

The following jury was empanelled: Messrs. S. F. Bishop (foreman), J. W. Alabaster, George Wai Tong-kwok, J. P. d'Aquino, C. L. Gutierrez, and G. Harbidge.

FRUITLESS CHASE

On the morning of May 4, a boy named Li Jey, who lived opposite, saw the kidnapped child walking hand in hand with the accused down the street. On seeing this, Li immediately went and told the boy's brother, Sik-ming, who gave chase but failed to catch them up as he was then carrying a baby in his arms. Since then, the kidnapped child had not been seen again.

On his return from work in the evening, the boy's father was informed of the matter and immediately made a report to the police. He continued to keep a look-out for the accused, and on May 23, he saw him in Kowloon City. He immediately went to the police station where he procured the assistance of a Chinese constable who arrested the accused.

The next day the accused was charged and he made the following statement: "The boy I stole after me in Tam Kung Road. I then took him to Mongkok where we entrained for Tai Po Kau. From there we boarded a steam vessel to Sha Yee Chung. I then went to Tse Kwai's house and handed the boy to him."

SHOTS FIRED AT FISHERMAN MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR AT NIGHT

Suffering from gunshot wounds in the chest and groin, Choy Mun, 30, oyster-breeder, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital on Saturday.

It appears that Choy was fishing alone in a sampan about 10 p.m. on July 15, off the fore-shore at Sha Tau, in Chinese territory, when he heard a shout from the shore. He answered, and immediately after, a charge of buckshot was fired at him. He did not see who fired. The injured man was treated at the Un Long Dispensary, and was later admitted to the Kowloon Hospital. His condition is not regarded as serious.

Tse Kwai went to look for someone, and, having not him, took the boy away and sold him.

Tse Kwai was subsequently found by the police and he said that sometime at the beginning of May, the accused and a man brought a boy of about seven years of age to his house. They told him that they wanted to sell the boy, whom the accused claimed as his son. They stayed in the house for the night and later another man came and took the boy away.

Young Shek, the father of the boy, then gave evidence and he stated that he had never given authority to the accused to take his son away.

OTHER EVIDENCE

The boy's brother, Young Shek-ming, testified that he did not actually see the accused take his brother away.

Tse Kwai, a boarding house-keeper in Sha Yee Chung, Mrs. Bay, said the accused, in company with a man and a young boy, came to his house on May 3. The accused said the child was his.

Fu Yuk-ching, a police interpreter, then read out the statement made by the accused, and, in answer to His Lordship, denied that the prisoner had been beaten either by him or by Inspector Elston.

Asked if he wished to say anything in defence, the accused said he was coerced by the police into making the confession.

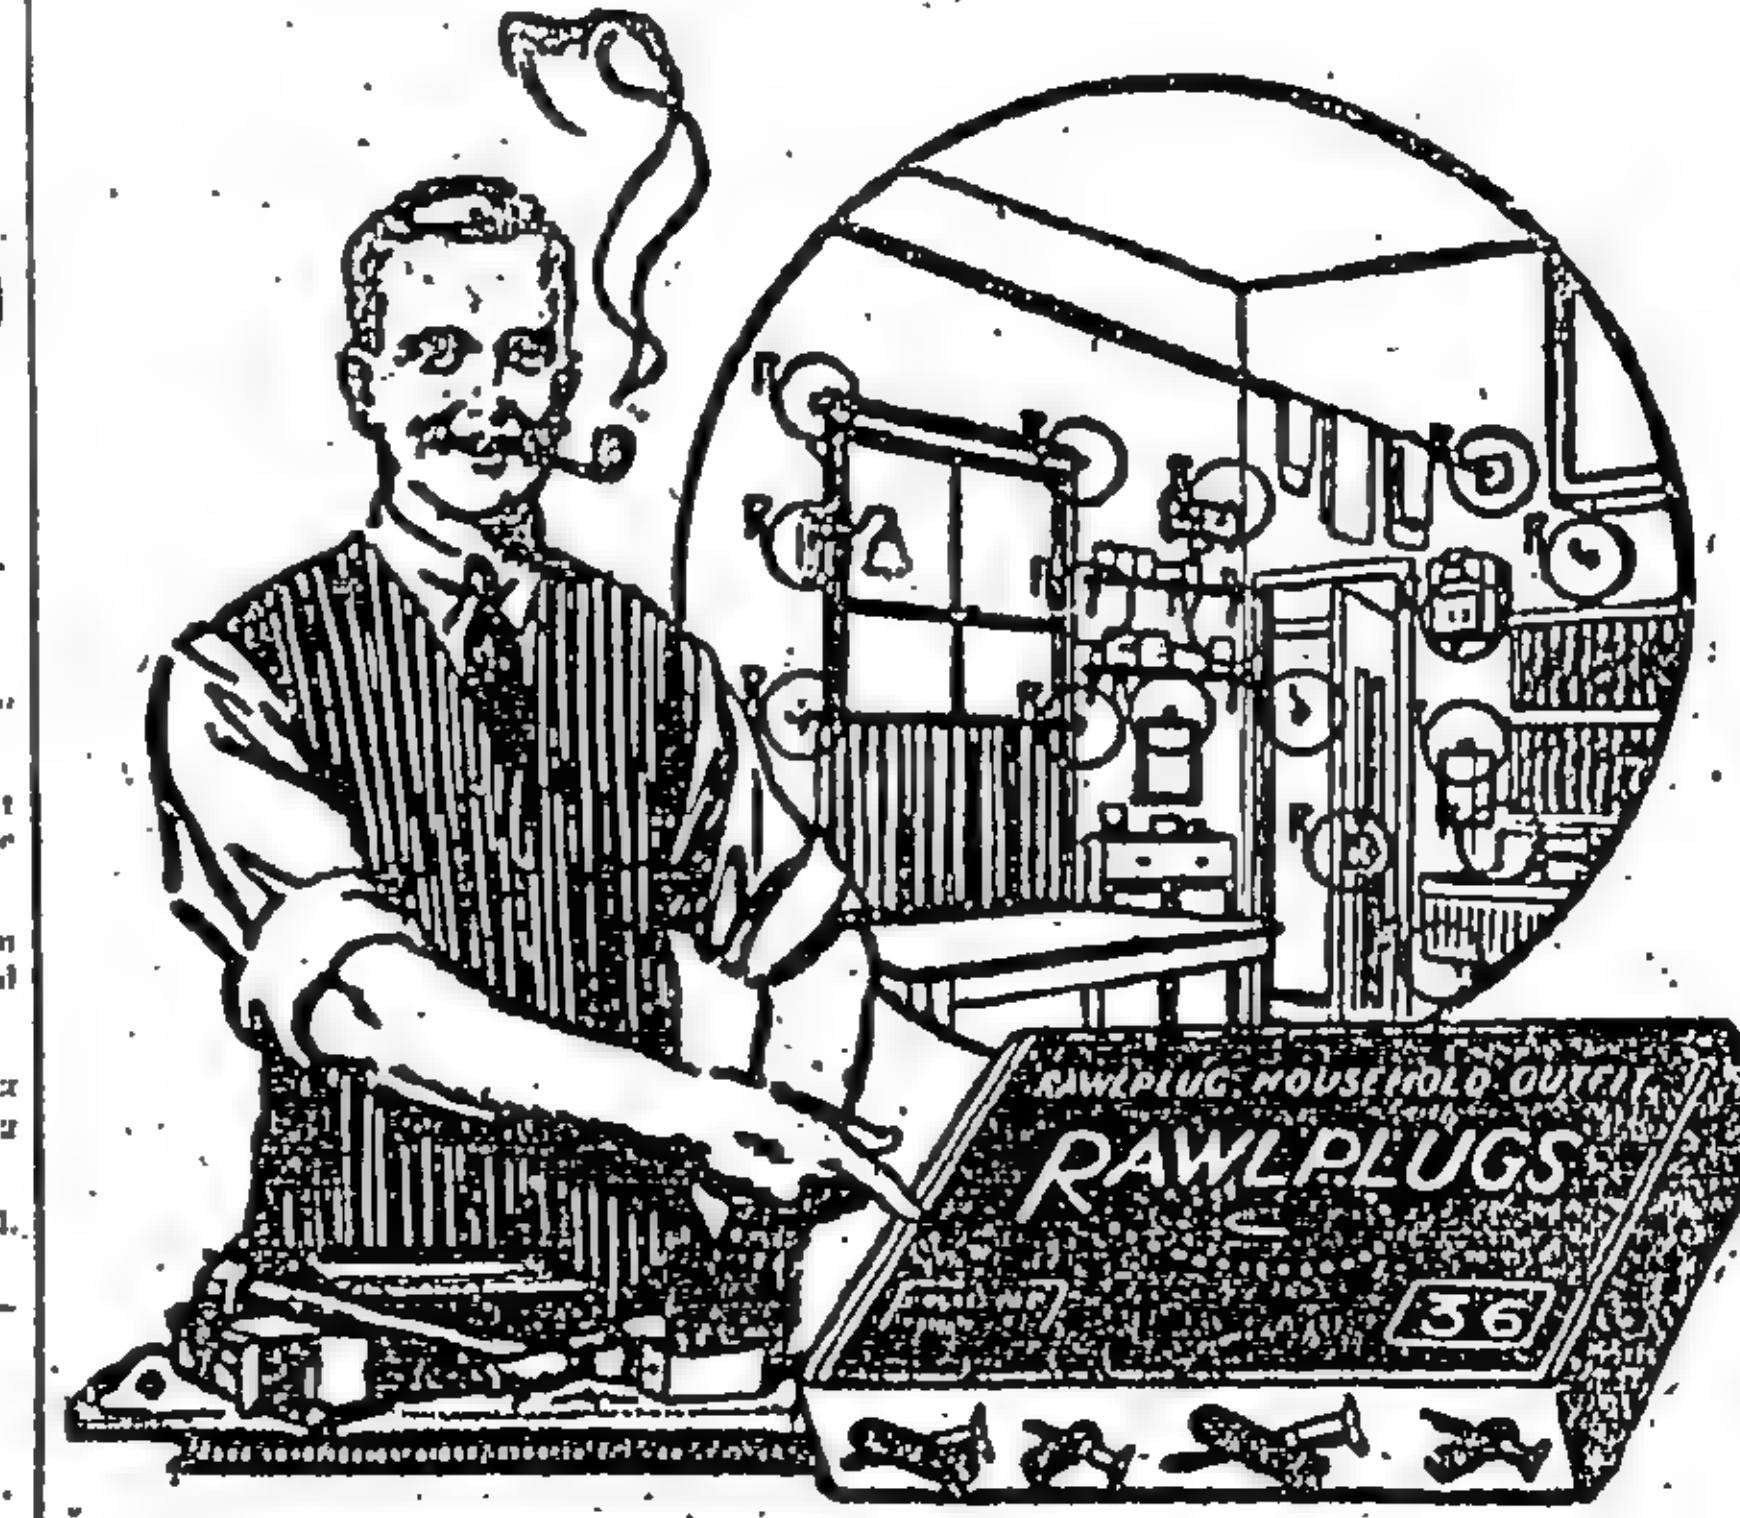

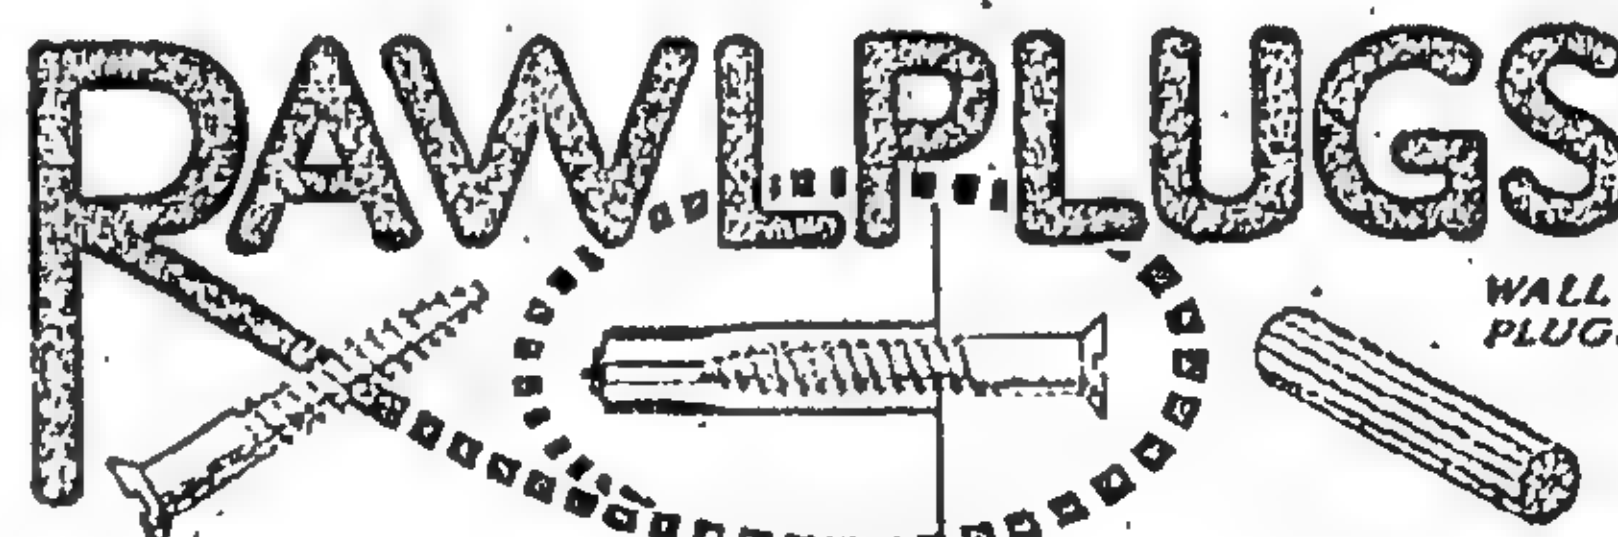

Without retiring, the jury returned a unanimous verdict of "Guilty".

SYSTEM

"The Board is not a juggernaut rolling mechanically over the lives of some millions of human beings." So declares Lord Rus-cliffe, the Chairman of the Unemployment Assistance Board, in presenting the yearly report of its activities. This, in brief, is the reply to those who are constantly criticising the activities of the system which the Board operates and who appear to delight in representing it as harsh, inhuman, and bureaucratic—one which ruthlessly deals with the needs of the poor and the unfortunate.
Actually, there is no country in the world which shows greater care for those who, through no fault of their own, are without work. The Board has, from the start of its existence two years ago, recognised that it has to deal with an infinite variety of circumstances and with a vast number of men and women whose human needs called for help and sympathy. Elasticity is essential to meet these varying needs. Discretionary power to deal with individual cases is vested in district officers, whose area officers are in close touch with the actual circumstances of a family. The Board now states that it is satisfied that this discretion is exercised in a way which is both intelligent and humane. It is interesting to recall that the Board was set up at a time when the whole insurance system was in danger of breakdown. The insurance fund was incurring debt at the rate of nearly a million sterling per week, and the fund was paying, under the name of insurance, what was in fact relief. Fears were expressed when the Act was passed that a centralised system would prove soulless and bureaucratic in its work; the course of events has proved that such fears were groundless. Through its six thousand officers, the Board has constantly kept before it the principle that it is dealing, not with names on a register, but with the lives of human beings, whom its duty is to help through times of economic stress. But it also has to bear in mind that it is trustee for the taxpayer and for the great and increasing body of workpeople who are in employment. That the activities of the Board should meet with criticism is to be expected, but there is no evidence that the system of which it has charge is operated in a mechanical manner. Through its direct contact with those who need aid, the Board is able to adjust its help so that it will meet the particular needs of given cases.
It is thus that treatment varies in different instances. But the broad principle of giving assistance to those who need and deserve it is always kept well in view, and it is this circumstance which invests the British system with the large measure of success registered in handling an amazingly complex and difficult problem.

Britain Has Paid for World's Greatest Sea Fort

By

When Singapore was offered as a gift to Scotsman Alexander Hamilton in 1703 he declined.
Wiser Sir Thomas Raffles
made British Government, 1824, buy it, price £13,500.
Under distant Queen Victoria became a pleasant rendezvous for pirates.
Later recognised as the cross-roads of the world, but had no dry dock till 1928.
Chinese still out-number Europeans by 5 to 1.

NEXT time you get your hair cut in Singapore take a look at the barber.
He may well be a Japanese admiral or general. So may the man who sells you a roll of film for your camera.

For the hairdressingparlours and the camera shops of Singapore are full of Japanese all keeping an eye on Britain's white elephant; the great naval base, towards whose cost to date you and I and all our fellow countrymen, women and children have contributed three shillings each.

You can't do a great deal with three shillings; but when nearly 50,000,000 people club together and each contributes that amount they can transform a peaceful island into an impenetrable fortress; and then discover that it is not likely to be of much use in an emergency.

By the time the Singapore base is completed we shall each have contributed another three

NOTES OF THE DAY

With the great development in road travel a significant change is taking place in the character of the British inn. For generations the wayside inn was one of the main features of the picturesque British countryside. These old inns were small, comfortable and hospitable places. Each of them had its own individual characteristics.
The proprietors were until recently humble country-folk, and the customers mostly local farmers and labourers, whose beverage was almost exclusively beer. Spirits and wines were reserved for special occasions.
Now that there are hundreds of thousands of motorists on the roads special catering arrangements have had to be made. In some cases, in place of the old inn, new modern hotels have been built; in others, even in the heart of the country, the old-fashioned taverns have been renovated and brought more into the line with modern needs.

There are altogether about twenty thousand inns in England and Wales, and within the past year approximately one-third of them have been reconstructed and remodelled. In London alone, of the five thousand inns, nearly half have already been rebuilt. The work of replanning and remodelling continues unceasingly, the total expenditure involved running into millions of pounds. In many parts of the country, inns which, at the beginning of the present century, were concerned only with serving alcoholic drinks, now provide accommodation for parties of guests, many of whom may not touch liquor of any kind. The old-fashioned drinking tavern makes practically no appeal. The modern traveller, no matter of whatever class he may be, demands brightness, cleanliness and cheerful surroundings, and no doubt the attempt of the inn-keeper to meet his requirements is largely responsible for the surprising decline of drunkenness in recent years.

shillings, making six in all.
And with six shillings
you can do quite a lot.

It may well be, however, that those who call upon us to spend this further three shillings of our hard-earned money have already decided that a great naval base at Capetown would, after all, be preferable to one at Singapore; and that something out peer in the world. The work is so recent that children still at school can remember when jungle stood there and not a secret dockyard surrounded with barbed wire and Sikhs with bayonets on the ends of their rifles.

Of that reported plan
it is at present impossible to obtain any confirmation, for the grey walls of the British Admiralty hold secrets as efficiently as a smoke-screen thrown out by one of their own destroyers.

But whatever the fate of Singapore, more than £7,000,000 has already been spent in building an arsenal on this island, the exact position and size of whose guns will only be disclosed when they first roar in battle.

What facts are known beyond dispute are few. Officially nothing is admitted; but long and sometimes dangerous research has dragged small particles of information into the light of day, and as those particles, like the pieces of a highly complicated jigsaw puzzle, have been fitted together, a picture has emerged; and the beholder finds himself examining a titan rooted to the ground, at whom, so long as they keep out of his limited range, are small Japanese boys and admirals may pull long noses with impunity.

This much is known.
At Selat, in the north part of Singapore Island, thousands of Chinese and Tamil labourers, paid at the rate of 1s. 6d. a day,
have transformed a thick Britain's Eastern power.

The major fuel reserves lie to the south-west of Selat, not far from the 600 acres flying paid at the rate of 1s. 6d. a day, field on which sleep the wings of
have transformed a thick Britain's Eastern power.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"We'll have to kill another hour some way. If we go home this early it will spoil the cook."

Long slipways go down from the northern edge of this field into the sea, and from its translucent waters are hauled and lowered the great flying boats with which Imperial Britain defends her Eastern lands.

The entrances to this hornet's nest are well and truly guarded.
At Changi, on the extreme N.E. point of Singapore Island, a garrison town has been built to house the immense reserve of troops and mechanics whom it is considered necessary to keep there.

THE hills are full of guns. How much concrete has been imported to make bunkers for them it is impossible to discover; but it is known that a large number of big gun experts have been at work there for years, superintending the labours of thousands of "coolies"; and that the big and little islands of Pulau Tekong and the island of Pulau Ubin, which guard the entrance to the hornet's nest, are full of secret emplacements where there are unnumbered anti-aircraft guns and some of the largest calibre guns in the world.

Nor is this all. At Bedok Point, in the east, on the small islands to the south of Singapore town, in the coconut groves and rubber plantations to the west, and in the hills of Johore to the north of the Straits, batteries of artillery with a long range are ready at any moment to repel invaders.

And, as they say, for why?
To this there can only be one answer.

Because of the Japanese.
On the great and opulent city of Singapore, capital of the world's richest area, 70,000,000 pairs of Japanese eyes are focussed.
Those who used to see it in reality may no longer do so, for Japanese are no longer allowed to own land on the hills of Johore, overlooking the naval base, and with the aid of field glasses and telescopes, to bring it to their doorsteps. A new branch of the Singapore C.I.D. has just been formed to deal exclusively with spies.

A secret document is said to still exist which tells that Japan was willing to put 1,000,000 men on the western front in the dark days of the war if she might have Singapore for her own. As politely as that offer was made it was refused.

One day Japan may ask for Singapore at the point of the pistol; and when she does it will be seen if the naval base can justify the vast expenditure we have all made on it.

Some experts think that it will not, and they say that it has a strategic value but no tactical possibilities. Unless, Britain, they say, can detach from her Home and Mediterranean Fleets capital ships big enough to engage those with which Japan will blockade the naval base, it can serve no purpose other than to divert part of the Japanese battle fleet from an attack on Australia.

A JAPANESE army,
they go on to say,
landing on the coasts of Johore, and working in co-operation with the blockading fleet, could starve out Singapore in a few months.
At present Britain has no capital ships to spare and none capable of operating in that climate.
Australia does not believe in Singapore; and never did. To show her contempt she is, it is said, about to build an air force of 1,500 front line planes, and has already ordered from Britain no fewer than 169 to act as jigs or patterns on which to build the rest in her own factories.

Artificial "Radium" Discovery By Widow Of Ray's Inventor

Dirigibles Are In The "Air" Again

Washington, July 12. Recent north Atlantic crossings of the German dirigible Hindenburg have revived in United States Navy circles the highly controversial question of whether lighter-than-air ships should be added to the fleet.

Proponents of airships have been in the minority since the destruction of the dirigible Macon off the California coast on February 12, 1935. The loss of the Macon occurred less than two years after the dirigible Akron plunged into the sea off Barnegat Light on the New Jersey coast with appalling loss of life including that of Rear Admiral William Moffett.

The flying feats of the Hindenburg in the North Atlantic, backed up by the undiminished record of the Graf Zeppelin, which has been flying the South Atlantic route from Africa to Brazil for months, has tended to push into the background the tragic fate of the Navy's lighter-than-air craft.

Indicative of the Navy's renewed interest in flying boats was the recent appointment of Rear-Admiral John W. Greenhouse as an observer on a round trip trans-Atlantic flight of the huge Hindenburg.

Greenhouse is a member of the powerful General Board of the Navy which is responsible for naval policy and which may decide this summer whether the United States shall re-enter the lighter-than-air field.

Hinkler Honoured By Italy

Florence, Italy, July 12. As a gesture of sympathy to the Australian people from the Italian, the mother and brother of Bert Hinkler, Australian aviator who crashed on a lonely height of the Apennines, have been brought for a visit to Italy as guests of the Italian Shipping Company.

In the little hill town of Strada, near where the monument to Hinkler stands, the whole population welcomed them with affectionate sympathy. Mrs. Hinkler and her son were also received during their stay by the Mayor of Florence in the great Palazzo Vecchio.

The Mayor expressed his pleasure in meeting "the mother of a hero." He also appreciatively accepted from her a packet of seeds of 30 varieties of trees and plants of Queensland, Australia, which he has promised to have cultivated in the Botanical Gardens and then distributed among the public gardens of the city.

Singer's Second Divorce From First Husband

Vienna, July 13. Maria Jeritz, the opera singer, has obtained a second and final divorce from her former husband, Baron Leopold Pepper-Podraghy, in Vienna, according to information from an authoritative source.

The Vienna court granted a divorce on the ground of "mutual aversion."

The famous singer divorced her husband about a year ago in California and married the film producer, Mr. Winfield Sheehan. Baron Pepper claimed that the first divorce was not valid in Austria.

Now the dissolution of the first marriage of Mrs. Jeritz has been definitely legitimized according to Austrian laws, and the second marriage has been automatically recognised in this country.

ONTARIO ASKS $50,000 DAMAGES FOR 'QUINTS'

Philadelphia, July 1. A $50,000 damage suit on behalf of the Quints was filed in the Courts yesterday against the Blossom Products Corporation of Allentown, Pennsylvania, manufacturers of dolls, toys and infants apparel.

David A. Croll, Minister of the Public Welfare of Ontario, brought the action, based on the alleged unauthorized use of the names, pictures and descriptive titles to promote the sale of the company's products.

The petition averred that the Quints have exclusive property rights in their names, popularity, and the "phenomenon" of their birth, and anyone who wants to trade on them must pay for the privilege.

MME. JOLIOT-CURIE HAS HIGH HOPES

New Field Of Research Opened Up

By A SCIENCE CORRESPONDENT

HIGH hopes for the use of the new artificial "radium," both medically, in the form of food or injections, and as a scientific "index" which would show new facts about the body's working, were expressed by Mme. Joliot-Curie when she lectured at the Wigmore Hall, London recently.

Mme. Joliot-Curie:

Described how all the different organs of the body could be made to take their own photographs in the "light" of the radiation they emitted;

Explained how it would be possible, from this type of test to predict in advance where, and in what quantities, any of the new radio-active materials would penetrate;

Stated that 3-million volt electrical equipment would shortly be available in Paris, with which her husband, Professor Joliot, would make these materials in sufficiently large amounts for these essential tests to be undertaken; and

Expressed the belief that it would be possible to achieve a great advance in treatment by selecting the appropriate radio-active material to penetrate to any desired part of the body.

Mme. Joliot-Curie is France's new Under Secretary of Scientific Research, a post created for her benefit. She is the daughter of Mme. Curie, the discoverer of radium, and jointly with her husband the discoverer of artificial radio-activity.

This means the transmutation of normal stable atoms into unstable atoms which, like those of radium, are radio-active.

RADIO-ACTIVE ATOMS

Among the new radio-active atoms which can be produced are those of phosphorus, sodium (of common salt), iodine and carbon. These are all chemical elements which are found naturally in the body.

Moreover, by using the radio-active preparations in suitable chemical form, Mme. Joliot-Curie believes that it will be possible to exercise a very substantial amount of control over the parts of the body to which they proceed. Having done their work, they would release back again into normal, inactive atoms.

Radio-phosphorus, for example, would tend to find its way into the bones and teeth, iodine into the thyroid gland.

An important point which she made was that, since the radio-active materials will be largely concentrated in the organs, very much smaller quantities will be necessary than in any form of external radiation. That is why she believes that the first use of the new radio-active materials in medicine will be in this way.

Later, they may compete more directly with radium—but that will be another story.

The new technique for exploring the distribution of the radio-active materials in the body she calls "autoradiography." The name explains itself—"Cells photograph themselves." Any organ which has accumulated much radio-active material appears dark on the photographic plate. One which has accumulated little will scarcely show at all.

Although the technique has so far only been tried with natural radio-active materials, it has already resulted in one discovery of remarkable interest.

This is the fact that a mother automatically protects her still unborn child against the infiltration of any such material which may be administered to her.

Thus far, along the connecting placenta, the radio-active material ("polonium") penetrates—but no farther, not into the child.

Mme. Joliot-Curie was no less emphatic about the second possibility, already mentioned, that of using the new radio-active materials as an index by which the chemical working of the body could be followed.

NEW RESEARCH

"This opens up quite a new field of research," she stated, "and I think a very important one."

Every radio-active atom, she explained, carries its mark, that of the radiation it emits, by which it can be distinguished from all other non-radioactive atoms of the same kind already in the body.

With the aid of this most sensitive test, it should therefore be possible to follow out the movements of any substance taken into the body, whether as food or in the form of an injection.

It should even be possible to tell how often every individual type of tissue within the body is replaced by new growth.

Mme. Joliot-Curie, speaking in a foreign tongue, gave in the course of her lecture what was probably the most lucid account of the many astonishing discoveries of modern physics which has yet been heard in England. "An explosion of discovery" was her impressive summary of the past four years.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

FORTUNE DOES NOT CHANGE MEN; IT ONLY UNMASKS THEM.—Kerenski.

The P. and O. liner Kaiser-I-Ind is due here from Singapore at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. Pedro Jureles, Private Secretary to the Speaker, National Assembly, Philippines Commonwealth, and Miss Patricia MacLennan, residing at the Hongkong Hotel.

Lam Kwan, 24, street cooler, and twelve accomplices arrested on a charge of the ownership of and participation in a gambling house, operated at 62 Hingpong Road, were brought before Mr. E. Hingworth at the Kowloon Magistrate's this morning, the first defendant receiving a fine of $50, the remaining twelve defendants having to pay $1 each.

Pleading guilty to a charge of robbing, with violence, a Japanese woman, named Ai Ichi Kawa, of seven dollars at Eastern Hospital Road on June 21, Tsai Chu, 20-year-old unemployed man, was sentenced to two years' hard labour by the Chief Justice, Sir Alford Griffith, at the Criminal Sessions this morning. The accused admitted five previous convictions, dating back to November, 1933.

Ten coolies arrested for fighting on the Douglas wharf on Thursday were bound over to the Court for good behaviour for six months when they appeared before Mr. C. B. Burgess at the Central Magistrate's this morning. Sgt. Mann said the fight began from a quarrel between the coolies and a hawk. One of the coolies complained that the hawk's bean curd was not sweet enough, and soon the wharf was full of fighting men. During the fight one of the men received a cut in the body from a pair of scissors and was admitted to hospital.

Chun Chau, 27, unemployed, charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's this morning with the larceny of $8 from Li Chai, 40, cook-amah, at Hennessy Road, yesterday, was remanded for 24 hours for enquiries. Inspector Logan said defendant followed the complainant, and when she went up the stairs of a house he snatched the handkerchief she was carrying, in which the money was tied up. He was arrested in Tin Lok Lane by two constables. Defendant pleaded his son was sick, and that was the reason why he had committed the larceny.

LIGHTNING IS IN THE NEWS

Vienna, July 14. Lightning strokes have their caprices as shown by the following recent events in South-east Europe.

In Lysinioff, near Karthaus, Upper Austria, during a thunderstorm, a thunderbolt entered the house of farmer Wosnik through the chimney, passed between the legs of Wosnik's twelve years old daughter, without hurting the child, and then destroyed a linden tree in the yard.

When lightning struck an oak tree under which the wife of the farmer Vindie had sought shelter near Somendria, Yugoslavia, a terrible explosion ensued by which Mrs. Vindie was seriously injured. Investigations showed that the bolt had exploded a shell, buried under the tree since the world war.

The gun of a Hungarian hunter who was caught by a sudden thunder storm while walking across an open field was snatched by a lightning bolt and the man's clothes burned, but the hunter himself who had, with an admirable presence of mind, thrown himself into a ditch full of water, remained absolutely unhurt.

When a farm woman near Salzburg, Austria stuck her arm out of the window to ascertain whether it was raining a lightning bolt struck and destroyed her wrist watch; the woman herself fainted, but was not otherwise hurt.

A thunder bolt falling on the broadcasting station of Erivan, Turkey, killed a violinist and a pianist who were preparing to play a concert while seven other people, present in the same room, escaped without injuries, nor was further damage done.

The wife and the child of a Viennese banker, to all appearances killed by a stroke of lightning near Kaisersteinbruch, Austria, were taken to the local morgue, and although heart and breath had ceased to function, Viennese physician who happened to be on the spot attempted to restore them to life when he noticed that, two hours after their alleged death, the customary livid spot had failed to appear on the bodies. His long efforts were successful; both mother and child completely recovered.—United Press.

CARDINAL AND THE APOSTLES HIS LETTER ON THE MORALITY TRIALS

Berlin, July 1. Cardinal Bertram, Archbishop of Breslau, in a pastoral letter, which will be read to-morrow from pulpits throughout his diocese, deals with the trials of Franciscan monks for immorality. He states:

"The Catholic people bitterly regret moral failures of priests and friars. They are exceptions.

AN APOSTLE

"Such failures do not give one the right to condemn the Church, the friars, the clergy and the orders. I remind you of the following. One of the twelve Apostles betrayed Jesus, he committed suicide. The disciples of Christ were much grieved, but the respect for the Apostles remained unchanged."—Reuter.

Two hundred and seventy-six Catholic monks, members of the Franciscan brotherhood, were tried at Coblenz on May 26 for alleged immoral conduct and other similar offences. The monks belonged to monasteries in Westphalia and the Rhineland. Sentences ranging from two months' imprisonment to eight years' penal servitude have already been passed on some of them.

An important week of sport in Hongkong starts today. The concluding stages of the lawn bowls championships are now being reached, while there are some league tennis matches scheduled expected to have notable bearings on divisional titles.

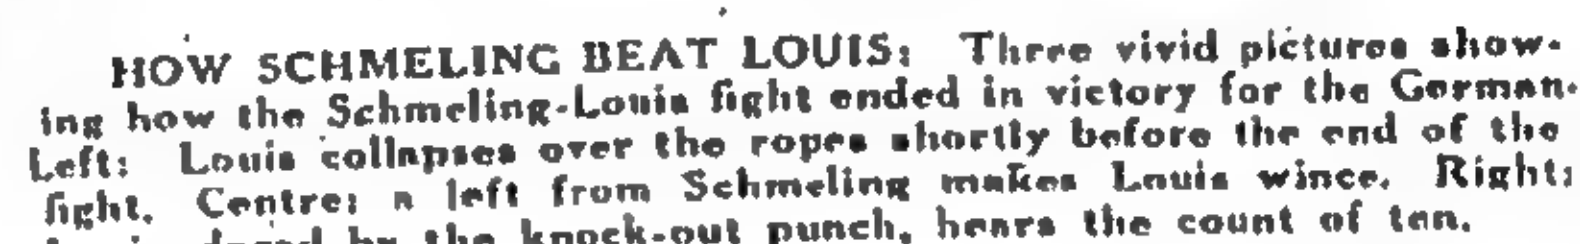

After the excellent showing last week of Indian Recreation Club, it must be conceded that K.C.C. have a

After reaching 50, he made more valuable progress, scoring his remaining 84 runs in 18 strokes, six 6's and a dozen 4's.

He obtained his second 50 in 37 minutes, and in 16 consecutive scoring strokes he made 70 runs. When attacking 140, which included seven 6's alone dealt really effectively with him. Northway holding out for nearly three hours.

Perkins hit Meyer for 6 and Boswell also drove Huzell for 6, but the last eight Northants wickets fell for 114, Willard taking four of them for 34 runs.

Lum, who was expected to win both the singles and doubles was handicapped by a strained muscle in his stomach and the doctor forbade him to undergo any exertion whatsoever. This injury was serious enough to keep him out of the Queen's Club Tournament.

The crowd gave Borotra a wonderful reception; he has always been the Centre Court favourite.

All the old clan was there and when he was beaten by a good shot always brought out his "Ah! oui."

One of the latest contributions towards the task of efficiently running a tennis club is the Dunlop Tennis Club Second Series Handbook, produced by the Dunlop Rubber Co., first copies of which have just reached Hongkong.

It is an excellent production, providing not only a record of playing members, honorary members and the club's programme, but also a record of all the club's tennis, rebound N. J. Tyerman's article on "Lawn Tennis Club Management" which had previously appeared in Lawn Tennis and Badminton, sets out the regulations for the conducting of tournaments, including a mathematical table for determining a correct draw, and gives the complete records of all the important national championships.

An important amendment of Law 26, affecting try, read: "The referee shall award a try if, in his opinion,

He added that Arsenal, probably one of the best-managed clubs in the League, had seven directors. Opinion smothered this argument however. Sir Patrick Hannon, M.P., Villa president, was in the chair.

Earlier on Crawford of Australia had taken the first two sets from Henkel, and the German, realising the futility of continuing, especially as he was not feeling well, conceded the match at that point in order to reserve himself for the doubles this afternoon.

PPOTENTIAL challenger for the America's Cup, Mr.
T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour fortnight after her launching at Gosport.

CHINESE BATHING CLUBS MEET

An inter-club swimming meeting between the Chung Sing Benevolent Society and the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association was held in the former's bathing pavilion at Kennedy Town on Saturday night. Rain somewhat spoiled the enjoyment of the sport and the rough water also slowed down the competitors' times.

The 400 Metres free style was won by Ng Chan-man, of the Chung Sing Benevolent Society, with his brother a close second. A relay race for the second string swimmers of both clubs was won by the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Included in the programme was an exhibition of diving and a 150 metres medley relay race.

To round off the evening a water polo match between the Chung Sing Club and the East Lanes. Regiment was played. The home team beat the soldiers by four goals to nil, through So Tin-mo and Chan Shek-pui, who each scored two goals.

THE RESULTS

The full results are as follows:—
100 Metres Free Style (Men).—1, Ng Chan-man (Chung Sing); 2, Kwok Hon-ming (Chinese Y.M.C.A.); 3, Chan Wing-kai (Chinese Y.M.C.A.). Times:—1 min. 7 1/2 secs.

400 Metres Free Style (Men).—1, Ng Chan-man (Chung Sing); 2, Ng Kit-man (Chung Sing). Time:—4 min. 20 secs.

200 Metres Relay Race for "B" swimmers.—1, Chinese Y.M.C.A.; 2, Chung Sing.

200 Metres Breast-stroke.—1, Fong Chung-yu (Chinese Y.M.C.A.); 2, Lo Kwok-ying (Chung Sing); 3, Tan Sik-yip (Chinese Y.M.C.A.).
150 Metres Medley Relay Race.—1, Chinese Y.M.C.A.

Diving Exhibition.—1, So Tin-mo; 2, Lo Kwok-ying; 3, Pun Ping-man.
Water Polo.—Chung Sing 4, East Lanes. Ret. 0.

Total Points.—Chung Sing 10; Chinese Y.M.C.A. 10.

NEW SCULLING CHAMPION

BARRY'S TACTICS KILLING PACE FROM START

Ted Phelps was well beaten in his effort to retain his title as English professional sculling champion in a race from Putney to Mordlake last month by Lou Barry, who put up an exceptional performance, considering this was his first test in a racing shell.

Barry, however, splendidly maintained family tradition, being a worthy successor in the title to his father, Bill, his uncle, Eric, and brother Bert. He is a sculler of a brilliant type, not the full weight that is recognised as desirable, but who knows how to get the best out of his craft.

Phelps had every advantage, experience, 21st. in weight, and some protection from the head wind. By reason of winning the toss and choosing the Middlesex station, he got little from this, however, mainly through the exceptionally fast start made by Barry.

Barry's tactics were to "kill" his rival from the start, and this he certainly did, for within about 10 lengths his rapid sculling had given him a full length to the good.

Phelps made a big effort at the Mile Post and got up to his challenger, but it was soon evident that this had distressed him.

Passing Hammersmith Bridge the race was won and lost, for Barry spurred brilliantly and Phelps crumbled.

Sculling in perfect style, Barry lengthened the distance between them to win by about a quarter of a mile in 24 min. 50 sec.

The new champion, who has no intention of returning to his coaching duties in Italy, will defend his title against the other Phelps, Eric, or any other challenger.

English Tennis Coaches Strongly Criticised By "Bunny" Austin

WOULD-BE CHAMPION MUST HAVE CHARACTERISTICS

"The reason that national coaching schemes fail to produce champions is not because coaching in itself is wrong, but because the coaches do not really know their business." This indictment is levelled at our professional instructors by Mr. H. W. Austin in his contribution, on "champions and coaching" in this year's issue of Lowe's Lawn Tennis Annual.

Any man or woman, he adds, is regarded as a capable coach who has once been good at the game regardless of the fact that he may have no idea of the fundamental principles of technique. "Ability at the game does not necessarily signify an understanding of the game, nor does executive ability necessarily signify the ability to teach, and it is because this has not been realised many a young player has been at an early age imbued with fundamentally wrong ideas, with resulting irreparable harm, by some efficient player but inefficient if high well-meaning coach. Indeed this must happen all the time for coaches who really understand lawn tennis technique are few and very far between."

ONLY HALF TRUTH

We feel that Mr. Austin's criticism of the professionals in this country is but half the truth. Admittedly there is a dearth of good coaches, but these who are selected to give coaching by the county associations under the official L.T.A. scheme are picked men whose services are usually retained by the counties year after year, following a report on their capabilities at the close of the season. The system under which reputable coaches are registered with the Lawn Tennis Association assures that the pseudo-coach or "quack" is barred from the recognised list. Anyone engaging the services of a coach not on the L.T.A. register does so at his own risk.

On the subject of champions Austin reaches a conclusion which will probably meet with general agreement, "that champions are born, not made." One of the chief difficulties which beset lawn tennis playing nations, he points out, is the question of how best to bring on their young players and develop them into champions. This question is made particularly difficult by the fact that in the past champions have been independent of any influence exerted, or schemes set on foot, to help in their production. They are contrary beings. When least expected they arise, when most expected they are not forthcoming. When, for example a nation possesses great players who are willing to play with and encourage the young idea when indeed the time seems most ripe for the production of champions, they seem loath to appear. When on the other hand a country's tennis is at a very low ebb and there seems no reason why a champion should appear, two or three players will suddenly arise and raise that country to a position of supremacy. Their arrival, too, is invariably quite independent of coaching schemes. A country may have vast coaching schemes and many promising players under supervision, but the champion, you may be sure, will not come from these; he will come from some entirely unexpected quarter, quite independently of all the schemes set forward to produce him. To prove these points one has only to study the lawn tennis history of the post-war years.

CHARACTERISTICS NEEDED

It seems clear, says Mr. Austin, that character plays the most important part in the production of a champion. A player to succeed must possess, as anybody to succeed in any walk of life must possess them, the characteristics of determination and perseverance. Two players with little natural aptitude, Wilding and Lacoste, made themselves into great champions simply because they possessed these characteristics in an unusual degree. No player, however great his talent, can become a champion without them. A would-be champion must be prepared, if not to devote all his energies to the game, at least to give up everything which may in any way impair his ability as a player, and to do everything which may increase that ability. Nothing must deflect him from his purpose.

Though the foregoing may seem to argue that coaches and coaching are useless, Mr. Austin does not believe this. Milie Lenglen was a product of coaching—by her father. Both Lacoste and Wilding were coached—by themselves.

At the present moment, concludes Mr. Austin, we are apt to scoff at anyone who studies the game scientifically, unless of course that person has once been a great player, refusing to believe that anyone who cannot play can have correct theories, forgetting that most players who can play have no theory and no need of theories (or think they have no need) because they do most things naturally correctly. "Ask Fred Perry how he plays. He is proud of the fact that he does not know, has no need to know because he is a natural lawn tennis genius. You cannot then expect a coach to teach you if he does not know how he plays. How can you expect any player to teach well who plays naturally like Perry? I do not rule out the good players as teachers but before they can teach they must, besides being good players, have studied the game scientifically and have discovered the basic principles of stroke production, adherence to or violation of which makes the difference between the champion and the inferior player. Once this is realised coaches may be selected not because they are good players, but because they are good coaches. And once good coaches are selected, men who really know what they are about, we may see some fruit born of all the wide coaching schemes which are set on foot."

KILLED GIRL FOR 'REVENGE' ON WOMEN

New York, July 10.

FLUSHED and breathless a young New Yorker, who said he was the heir to a wealthy estate agent's fortune, ran into a San Francisco police station this morning and cried: "I want to be hanged."

"Why?" asked the inspector, thinking him crazy.

"Give me a cigarette and I'll tell you," said the young man.

"My name is Albert Walter. I am twenty-eight.

"I have murdered a girl—Blanche Cousins. I can't sleep. I'll take you to her."

He did. The police went with him to an apartment in the exclusive Nob Hill district and found a scene very similar to that which confronted New York detectives recently when they discovered the bath-tub murder of Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton, wife of the Yorkshire writer and radio executive, Lewis Titterton.

STOCKING MURDER

A pretty girl was strangled by her own stockings. Her clothes had been torn from her.

Excitedly, Walter told the detectives:

"I went with the girl to her apartment for dinner. I made violent love to her.

She repulsed me, so I disrobed her, carried her to the bed and attacked her. To make sure she was dead I knotted a stocking around her neck and tied it to the bedpost.

"I think I killed Blanche in revenge against women in general. I hate women, and I knew I'd kill one sooner or later. That is why I left my wife."

Walter was married a year ago to a Canadian girl.

SATURDAY RACING AT NEWMARKET

FOR FIRST TIME EVER NEXT MAY

London. The coronation of King Edward on May 12, 1937, has caused an alteration in the racing programme and Newmarket, headquarters of racing, will have a Saturday programme for the first time in history.

The Jockey Club, which rules racing here, has changed the date of the second Spring meeting at Newmarket from May 11, 12 and 13 to May 13, 14 and 15.—United Press.

COUNTY CRICKET

RAIN INTERFERES WITH MATCHES

London, July 18. Rain interfered with the programme of matches in the County Cricket Championship to-day, three of them not being started at all. Warwickshire was to have played Sussex at Birmingham, Worcester was to have played Gloucester at Worcester, and Glamorgan was to have met Essex at Pontypridd but no play was possible.

The lowest score of the day was made by Somerset, who compiled only 30 runs against Hampshire at Southampton. The Indian tourists made 210 for eight wickets against Derbyshire.

Scores: Lancashire—272; Surrey—25 for two.

Yorkshire—224; Netts—8 for no wicket.

Somerset—39 (Herman 5 for 23); Hampshire—123 for seven.

All-India—219 for eight wickets; v. Derbyshire.

Middlesex—313; Kent—48 for one.—Reuter.

L. AMAR NATH'S RETURN TO ENGLAND NOT DESIRABLE

Bombay, July 18.

L. Amar Nath, the young Indian all-round cricketer, who was sent back to India from England recently as a "disciplinary measure", is definitely not returning to England.

The decision for this followed an intimation by the Indian Board of Control from the Captain of the team, the Maharaj Kumar of Vizianagram, and the manager, Major Ricketts, that his return was not desirable.

LOCAL BASEBALL

Eastern Outfits's First Win In League

The Eastern outfit won their first game in the Hongkong Baseball League on Saturday afternoon when they met and beat the Canadians by 7-1 in a game which was both fast and exciting. Great improvement was shown by both teams. M. di Areulli pitched the whole game for the winners, fanning eight batters and allowing eight hits to be registered. S. Hamet was steady at first base and concluded a good afternoon's work by hitting a home run.

Pitching for the Canadians, Bill Muir did not aim to strike out the batters but relied on his fielders to give him the support.

The Canadians scored two runs in the second innings, one in third, sixth and seventh, while the Eastern boys registered three in the second, three in the fourth and one in the fifth.

BRITAIN BEATEN

Victory By Budge Over Perry

London, July 18.

Fred Perry, the Wimbledon champion, enabled the United States to beat Great Britain in their friendly tennis contest at Eastbourne, which was played on Davis Cup lines.

With America leading by two matches to one after Bryan, Grant and Donald Budge, of America, had beaten G. P. Hughes and C. R. D. Tuckey, the contest was continued to-day when the two remaining singles were played.

In the first match, "Bunny" Austin beat Britain on level terms by beating Bryan Grant by 6-0, 6-2 and 6-2. Fred Perry, however, succumbed to Donald Budge, the fiery-haired young American, who won by 9-7, 7-5, 8-10 and 7-5 after a terrific struggle.—Reuter.

Messages from India last week stated that the Nawab of Bhopal, President of the Indian Board, had sent a personal but firm request to the Captain and the Manager to recall Amar Nath so that he could be in time to participate in the Second Test at Manchester on July 25. It was also stated that the Maharaj Kumar of Vizianagram was willing to accede to the request, now that the effect of his necessary disciplinary measure had been felt.

When You Cannot Sleep

That to many people sleep does not come easily these hot nights is merely an uncomfortable fact attributable to the torrid season. But if you find insomnia becoming chronic, then you may be sure that some cause other than the heat is responsible.

Sleeplessness, jumpy nerves, irritability, nervous indigestion, and a tendency to worry and mental depression, are nerve disorders which generally indicate that the blood is impoverished, and lacking, especially, in iron.

One of the important constituents of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is iron in the particular form of medication most favoured by modern medical science.

This iron is readily assimilated and quickly absorbed into the blood where it begins its beneficial work at once. And since nobody can be well and have strong nerves unless they have sufficient iron, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are needed by nine out of every ten persons at some time or other.

So if you are a victim of sleeplessness or any other trouble due to impoverished blood begin your cure with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without delay. Your chemist can supply them.

BATHING IN NUDE

PLAINLY VISIBLE TO PASSING MOTORISTS.

Caught bathing in the nude near the third milestone on the Taiipo Road on July 17, Chan Sang, aged 28, a coolie, was charged with indecent exposure, before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's court on Saturday.

Defendant pleaded that he did not know the customs of Hongkong or the regulations.

Lance-Sergeant Bentley stated that he saw defendant and six other men bathing without any clothing on the Taiipo Road at a spot just about 10 yards off the main road. The hour was about 5.10 p.m. and they were plainly visible to motorists, who were passing in large numbers at the time.

Defendant was warned not to repeat the offence, and fined $1 or three days' imprisonment.

DEATH OF MR. F. C. GOODMAN

PASSES AWAY ON TRIP HOME

Many residents will learn with deep regret of the death of Mr. Fred C. Goodman, whilst on his way home. The sad news was received by cable last night.

The late Mr. Goodman left Hongkong, at very short notice, owing to serious illness, accompanied by his wife and daughter aboard the P. and O. liner Rawalpindi on June 27. He was originally in the service of the Naval Yard and later joined the engineering department of Kowloon Docks, remaining there for 14 years.

Mr. Goodman left the Dock Company's service in 1932 and proceeded home, where he rejoined the Admiralty, being transferred to the Naval Yard in Hongkong about a year ago, on appointment to the Chief Electrical Engineer's Department. A keen rifle shot, the deceased had fired for Hongkong at Dingley and also won interport rifle honours locally. He was for some twenty years a member of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, and had represented Hongkong in interport bowls contests.

In addition to the widow, there are two sons and a daughter, with whom, and with deceased's brother, Mr. R. J. Goodman, Superintendent of Stores at Kowloon Docks, much sympathy will be felt.

FITTER'S PAY STOLEN

THIEF CAUGHT ON STEAMER

Tong Siu-po, 21, unemployed, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with having stolen $60, property of Au Kat, fitter, from No. 12 Tai Yuen Street, second floor, on July 17.

Inspector Logan said defendant had been living on the premises with complainant. On July 17, complainant received his pay, which amounted to $70. He spent $1 and kept the remainder in his hip pocket. When he retired for the night, he pinned down the flap of his hip pocket, and laid the pair of trousers out on the bed. Defendant is alleged to have stolen the money while he was asleep, and then absconded. The following night, complainant saw defendant on board the steamer Tung On and had him arrested. In defendant's possession was $100 in Chinese currency. He had changed $30 Hongkong money into Chinese money, and had spent $1.45 in buying clothes.

Defendant admitted the charge, saying he stole $64 only. He said he wished to return to the country, and was accordingly bound over in a personal bond of $50 to be of good behaviour for one year, and ordered to be seen off to Sun Wui. The money found on him was returned to complainant.

WOMAN'S BOLD CLAIM

RIGHT TO ASSAULT ANYBODY!

"I am a Government servant and can abuse and assault anyone I like," is what To Yiu, a woman hawker, alleged Hui Le-sze, a middle-aged woman, said to her in Centre Street on April 11.

Hui, who was stated to have been formerly employed by the Police Department, was summoned by To Yiu for having assaulted her. Hui entered a cross-summons for assault.

Both women alleged they had been assaulted by the other with an umbrella.

In dismissing both summonses, Mr. Burgess said Hui was a notorious pest. He warned both women not to waste the time of the Court in future.

BEGGAR'S RUSE

PRETENDED HE WAS PARALYSED

A trick adopted by a beggar to excite public sympathy was revealed by Sub-Inspector Mist when he prosecuted Li Tak-choi before Mr. C. B. Burgess at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Sub-Inspector Mist stated that Li was arrested in Caine Road, and when charged at the Central Police Station, appeared to be deformed and paralysed hands. On investigation, however, it was revealed that he had strapped his hands with rubber bands in an ingenious manner so as to give them a paralysed appearance. There was really nothing wrong with his hands.

A fine of $20 was imposed.

Two cases of Typhoid were reported to the local Health authorities on Friday.

DEATH.

ST. LOUIS CLOSER TO CUBS

BEATS BOSTON IN DOUBLE-HEADER
FULL CARD OF GAMES

New York, July 19. By winning a double-header against Boston, St. Louis Cardinals again came almost abreast of the Chicago Cubs for the National League leadership, for the Cubs split a two-game engagement with Philadelphia.

St. Louis beat Boston eight to one in the first engagement, scoring on nine hits to ten in the opener, and seventeen to four in the night-cap. Each had two errors in the first game and Boston committed two in the second. Chicago narrowly beat Philadelphia, two to one, in their opener, and were lucky to score the winning tally when the Phillies had outbatted them consistently. Phillies had thirteen and Chicago eight hits, but the Phillies also had three costly errors on their card.

In the second meeting Philadelphia won by four to one, on nine hits to four. The Cubs big guns being effectively silenced. Cubs had two errors.

New York and Cincinnati also divided honours. Giants won the first four to three, with fourteen hits to nine. Each had two errors. In the second the Reds turned the tables and won three to two on ten hits to six. Giants had an error.

Brooklyn defeated Pittsburgh four to two, though the Dodgers hit only eight to the Pirates' nine. Pirates had one error.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago scored an eleven to five victory against Philadelphia in the American League, hitting seventeen times with Rothenthal and Dykes adding home runs to the tally. Johnson homered for the Phillies and eight of his mates hit. Each team had an error.

In their second encounter Chicago won by eight to two against Philadelphia, on twelve hits to five, though the winners had three errors. Cleveland got into doubles figures against the Senators, winning by eleven to three. The Indians hit fourteen to Washington's eight, though they had three of five errors. But Senators won nine to five in the night-cap, on 11 hits to twelve.

St. Louis was overwhelmed by the Yankees, ten to three, though the Browns hit well against the bats leaders, scoring ten times with the bat. The Yankees' thirteen. Ruffing, Gehrig and Selkirk hit homers for the New Yorkers. Browns had two of the three errors.

St. Louis turned the tables on New York in the night-cap, winning by five to four, though Gehrig hit another homer for the Yankees. Detroit went down to defeat at the hands of a slugger: Boston team, which scored twelve runs on sixteen hits. Detroit hit ten for three counters. Tigers had one error.

PIRACY OUTSIDE HARBOUR

TWO MEN CHARGED AT SESSIONS

The piracy of a trading junk in British waters, just outside the harbour, had a sequel at the Criminal Sessions this morning when Tang Cheong, 31, and Lau Mun, 47, were charged before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, with having taken part in the crime, with four others not in custody.

The following comprised the jury: Messrs. W. C. Exell (foreman), K. S. Khu, R. G. Xavier, J. F. Roza, B. S. Velera, F. M. Garcia and R. P. de la Sala.

Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General, said the junk in question was 250000, which traded normally between Shaukiwan and Nam-O in Mira Bay. The piracy occurred on April 29 last when the junk was on its way to Nam-O with its master, Lau Ng, and a crew of three. About noon on that day when rounding a point off High Island, known as Shau Tze Mun, they noticed three boats putting out from the shore. The master suspected that the boats contained pirates and accordingly tried to get away. On seeing this, one of the boats fired a shot whereupon the junk stopped and allowed the men to come aboard. The pirates, comprising six in number, were armed with a rifle, a knife and two revolvers.

CREW FORCED INTO HOLD

They ordered the crew into the hold. At first they refused but were forced to obey, and a hatch-cover was put over them and on top of that a sack of rice was placed. Down the hold, the victims heard the pirates ransacking the junk, and after a time the noise ceased. The men then came up and found that 50 sacks of rice, two sacks of yellow beans, twelve linaphades and several suits of clothing had been stolen.

The master then sailed the junk back to Shaukiwan, instead of continuing its voyage to Nam-O. A report was made to the authorities, and on May 9 the master saw the first accused watching a jugging show in Shaukiwan. He immediately informed the police and the accused was arrested. The following day an identification parade was held at which the prisoner was recognised by two members of the crew, apart from the master.

On May 26, the second accused was arrested in Shaukiwan by Chinese constable C72 who was acting on information. He was identified by the master and a member of the crew. When charged, both accused denied having taken part in the crime. The case is proceeding.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT IN CELL

WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE

Arrested on Friday night for soliciting, Lei Kau, 25, caused considerable trouble when brought to the Central Police Station.

According to Sgt. Whelan, who prosecuted when she appeared before Mr. C. B. Burgess at the Central Magistracy this morning, she attempted to commit suicide by sitting down in the cell—and bumping her head against the wall. She was sent to the Government Civil Hospital.

Sgt. Whelan said the woman was apprehended at the corner of Des Voeux Road and Pedder Street where she was seen to accost a party of Europeans. She had been warned three times before, he said.

Mr. Burgess: "There is a lot of this thing going on at this corner, isn't there?"

Sgt. Whelan: Yes. There was a letter about it in the paper only last week.

On the soliciting charge, Lei was fined $50, in default six weeks. For having assaulted a Chinese constable and resisted arrest she was fined an additional $20, in default a fortnight in each.
